

Mr. and Mrs. William J. Williams, 116 Black Oak drive, and their daughters, Miss Laura Williams, (at left) San Francisco, and Miss Marcia Williams, University of Oregon junior, left from Medford Thursday for a tour of European countries, British Isles and Scandinavian countries. Mr. Williams' father was born in Wales and they anticipate a visit with his relatives there. The family will embark on the passenger ship Constitution in New York and arrive on Palm Sunday in Naples, Italy. From there they will make much of their trip by automobile through Rome, along the Riviera, into Spain, across France then to Austria and Germany. They plan to spend a week in Paris before leaving for the British Isles, and later will travel to Denmark and Sweden. The return trip will be across the Polar route with arrival in Los Angeles.

Philip Hansen Preview On World Theater Day

World Theater day will be observed in southern Oregon by the preview performance by Philip Hansen of his seventh one-man show, "Huckleberry Finn." It is set for Wednesday, March 27 at 8:30 p.m., in Churchill hall, Southern Oregon college.

Each year an internationally known figure in theater is asked to make a statement which is read on that date previous to theater performances throughout the world. This year the American playwright, Arthur Miller, was selected to make the statement which will be read before Mr. Hansen's performance Wednesday evening.

This custom has been followed particularly because theater plays an important part in world understanding through its exchange of ideas and performers and their bond in artistic endeavor.

One of the larger observances of the occasion is the opening March 27 of the World Theater festival in Paris, France.

Philip Hansen is internationally acclaimed as a master story teller, has long wanted to add a comedy of American classic literature to his growing roster of solo shows.

"Huckleberry Finn," by Mark Twain called by a noted critic one of the world's greatest books, fits the qualifications completely.

Tickets for the preview will be on sale at the door Wednesday evening, with a rate for students.

Willow Springs Past Chairmen Are Honored

Willow Springs-Past chairmen of the Willow Springs Home Extension unit were honored at a luncheon given recently by unit members in North's Chuck Wagon restaurant.

Seven past chairmen attended.

Beginning with Mrs. Carroll Stevenson, the 1954-1955 chairmen attending were Mrs. Archie Purdy, Mrs. Kenneth Mainwaring, Mrs. Russell Thompson, Mrs. Jean Savage, Mrs. Cora Card and Mrs. Wayne Martin. Each was presented a pink carnation corsage by the 1962-63 chairman, Mrs. Rinehold Boes.

Twelve members of the Senior Activity center orchestra furnished music during the hobby show conducted March 16 by the Talent Federated Women's club in the Talent City hall.

Mrs. James Engberg furnished transportation for the group.

Floral tokens were given to Mrs. Ernest Johnson, and Mrs. Arnold Wiman, both 24 year members.

The district deputy president, Mrs. Vic Henderson, on her official visit to the lodge, was honored with a presentation in the form of a skit written by Mrs. Helen Hitchcock.

McCloud and Fort Jones were represented at the meeting. The Yreka Rebekahs were asked to repeat a hillbilly skit on goodfellowship night at McCloud on April 11.

Following the meeting conducted by Mrs. Arnold Wiman, noble grand, refreshments were served. The St. Patrick theme was used for the decorations.

Manor-Isms

By ETHELYN EVANS

A recent meeting of Chapter AA, PEO sisterhood, was held in the Manor. The four resident hostesses—Mrs. C. C. Collins, Mrs. Lee Ellsworth, Mrs. F. R. Olds and Mrs. Mamie E. Sleeter, each invited a number of the valley members to her home apartment. They were served dessert, enjoyed a visit inside an individual Manor apartment, and then all gathered in the Club room for a closed meeting in which officers for 1963 were elected. At future meetings, these members plan to exchange the guests so that all, eventually, may be entertained by each of the four hostesses.

Another of the growing number of organizations meeting in the Manor was Crater Lake chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution, entertained by Manor chapter members in the Club room. In the absence of the regent, Mrs. Judd Greenman, the vice-regent, Miss Florence Gifford, presided. Mrs. Boone G. Harding gave a brief history of the DAR approved schools—nine of them. To qualify, such schools or colleges must be definitely for underprivileged boys and girls who otherwise would not have the opportunity for an education; or a school for Americanization of foreign born students, or students of foreign born parentage.

Mrs. F. M. Murdock showed beautiful slides of Tamasee college, Tamasee, S.C., and the Kate Duncan Smith school, Grant, Ala., which have a combined student body of from 1100 to 1500. These two schools were established by the DAR more than 40 years ago and have been entirely maintained by them all these years. They started when there were no educational opportunities for these southern mountain children. The schools not only supported these children and taught them a public school curriculum but they also received instruction in vocational subjects such as handicrafts. They were given training in subjects which would now be called "social studies" and the art of living; and the effect has been like the ever-widening circles caused by a heavy stone thrown into a lake, since the children in turn taught their families and the community at large. Thus it might be said that the DAR established the first "health, education and welfare" movement in the south.

This information may not be too well known, since it is not, of course, "spot news," which reminds me of a story told in Washington about the "gentlewomen" who founded the DAR. They were the quintessence of gentility; they had grown old in the work but were still passionately interested and active. During a lively discussion, one, with her hands full of documents, emphasized her presentation by vigorous head bobbing and shaking until her bonnet slipped down over one eye. A solicitous sister leaned over and straightened the speaker's hat and tucked in straggling wisps of hair. Result: screaming headlines about the terrific argument and the free-for-all hair pulling match!

Mrs. Winslow Wetherbee designed and made a most artistic and attractive poster for the bulletin board, announcing the evening of Shakespeare readings by Richard Graham, Ashland, a former actor and director at the Shakespearean Festival. This poster was outlined by small crayon-colored replicas of the Elizabethan Theatre in Ashland with tiny hand-painted figures of actors. Just another instance of unusual talent among our members. No talent can remain long under a bushel with Administrator Walter Higgins sleuthing around for same. He positively glowed when announcing his discovery of this work of art. Mr. Graham gave four readings—one each from the four plays to be presented at the Festival this season—which were enjoyed by the members and surely should stir interest in the forthcoming plays.

Retired Teacher Tells Of European Travels

Mrs. Mabel Hundley, retired teacher of Central Point, spoke of a European tour before members of the Epsilon chapter, Delta Kappa Gamma society, an international honorary organization for women educators, March 16, at the Girls Community club.

The object of the seven-week trip was to see Moscow and to tour Europe. Mrs. Hundley was the only Oregonian in a group of teachers from the Pacific Coast section. Starting from California in 1959, the group traveled to London where this first seminar was held in the London university. As this was a time of universal examinations throughout Europe, the only schools they could visit were in England. The group traveled by bus to Amsterdam, Brussels, and to Moscow, where they were treated graciously. The tour continued to Poland and due to difficulties at the border, they entered Warsaw at night, unable to see as much of the city as planned.

Mrs. Hundley showed slides of Czechoslovakia and Prague where the group spent two and one-half days. Highlights were Charles bridge, Stalin's statue, the Castle and the Spanish hall of Mirrors within the St. Vitus cathedral, graduates from medical school, and the Tyn church. The tourists continued to Munich, Vienna, Venice, Florence, Rome, Pompeii and Cerreto, back through Italy and Monaco, then to France. The last of eight seminars was in the Sorbonne, Paris. Anyone in the study group could earn college credit.

Mrs. Keith E. Woodward, Grants Pass, presided for the business meeting. Reservations for the Alpha Rho state convention in Salem, May 3, 4, 5, with the Oregon Marion Motor hotel as headquarters were discussed. Mrs. Melvin E. Otis, Grants Pass, a chapter member and past president of Epsilon chapter and present state vice president, is to be installed as the new state president.

The chapter has been invited by the Omega chapter, Grants Pass, to attend a luncheon at the Riverside restaurant, Grants Pass April 6, at 12:30 p.m. Reservations to be in by April 1.

The next meeting will be held at the Girls' Community club, Saturday, April 20, at 2 p.m., honoring members of the Student Oregon Education association and Future Teachers of America which is to include the present and incoming executive boards.

Group singing was led by Miss Florence Allen, accompanied by Mrs. Otis at the piano. Hostesses for the meeting were the Misses Betty Lou Dunlop, Marie Prescott, and Ethel Reid and Mesdames John A. Fountain and Doris Lassen.
