Luncheon Will Open Music Drive

A luncheon, Saturday, March 30 at the Rogue Valley Country club will open the annual Jackson County Civic Music association membership drive.

Mrs. John Lusk, drive chairman, announced that Dr. Arthur Kreisman of Southern Oregon college will be guest speaker. Also on the program will be the Medford High school choir directed by Lynn Sjolund.

Mrs. R. D. Ford is in charge of the luncheon and assisting her with table decorations is Mrs. Raymond Wise.

Those interested in a membership may make arrangements by calling the association secretary, Mrs. Kenneth Brown, telephone 773-5992. Headquarters for the drive will be in the Red Cross building, April 1 through April 6. Memberships will be available only during that time, and closed for the entire season after April 6. A student rate is given.

Memberships are transferable and are valid in the Eugene Music series. This fall the London Philharmonic orchestra will appear in Eugene.

Clothing for many occasions will be modeled at the fashion and variety show which Gamma Rho chapter of Beta Sigma Phi will give Saturday, March 30, at the Phoenix Community club with the cooperation of Town and Country, White City, and beginning at 8 p.m. Among the models will be Mrs. Wayne Woodward (at left) shown here wearing a smartly styled two-piece mohair ensemble; the yellow coat is slashed up the sides to reveal the frock beneath. Mrs. Charles Williamson will model a metallic print sheath with white top coat which will look just right for Easter Sunday. This will be the first such show to be held in Phoenix, and the sorority members hope to make it an annual event. Phoenix and Talent merchants have donated many prizes.

Auxiliary Plans Many Projects In Butte Falls

Butte Falls – Convention and money - making projects were the main points of discussion at the March meeting of the Butte Falls Lions auxiliary. This meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Bob Driskell with Mrs. Jim Moore as co-hostess for the evening.

Mrs. Bruce Pingle was absent since she was attending a board meeting in Portland as a representative of the Butte Falls auxiliary.

Mrs. Henry Tygart reported on the making of Lions jackets for future conventions and Lion functions. They are now in the designing stage and should soon be ready for construction.

An Easter basket project will soon be under way. Tickets will be sold in April when the basket goes on display.

Final plans were made for the Zone dinner meeting to be held in Butte Falls later in the month.

The nominating committee presented nominees for office for the coming year. They are Mrs. Shirley Hatcher, president; Mrs. Allan Pingle and Mrs. Jim Moore, vice-president; Mrs. Bruce Pingle, secretary; Mrs. Henry Tygart, treasurer; and Mrs. Bob Driskell and Mrs. David Ayres, tail-twister.

The March potluck will be held tonight at the community hall. Hostesses are Mrs. Andy Hamstra and Mrs. Burrel Facey. Entertainment for the children will be provided by Mrs. Jim Moore.

Wolber, Ashland, who is district auxiliary president, will conduct the auxiliary meeting. Both groups will elect officers.

Uncle Visits

Applegate Valley – Basil Hall, Bly, Ore., is a guest of his nephew, Harley Hall, and his sister, Mrs. Mabel Kober in Medford.

Rogue River Teacher Wins Magazine Award

New York—For her work in initiating and carrying out a "Consumer Buying" program designed to teach girls how to use money wisely, Annette J. Richmire, home economics teacher at Rogue River High school, Rogue River, Ore., has been named Seventeen Magazine's 1963 "Homemaking Teacher of the Year." Miss Richmire lives at 615 N.W. Fourth street, Grants Pass.

A panel of leading educators selected Miss Richmire's project from hundreds of entries submitted by teachers from coast to coast. Her citation climaxes the fifth annual "Seventeen Salute to Homemaking Teachers of the Year" program, designed to emphasize and give recognition to the importance of High school homemaking education in teen-age school, family and community life.

As her award for her outstanding achievement, Miss Richmire will be Seventeen's guest at the 1963 American Home Economics Association convention this June in Kansas City, Missouri, where she will be honored at a special reception.

Taught Two Years

Miss Richmire's honor comes in only her second year of teaching. In her first year, she created her school's complete course of study in home economics, and now is chairman of a committee to revise all the home economics materials in the Jackson County Materials and Curriculum center. The award-winning unit is a result of Miss Richmire's conviction that "rapid changes in our modern society have made it imperative for families to choose intelligently and plan wisely. One of the important goals of homemaking should be to educate girls to do so both as teen-agers and future homemakers."

Miss Richmire began the project by explaining why it is important for girls to understand money management; women handle most of the money in the United States. She then used charts, films and classroom guests to stimulate interest in the unit.

Make Field Trip

Students learned how to be informed consumers through movies on "Wise Buying" and "Consumer Protection" and booklets from the Better Business bureau and similar organizations. Together with the business class, they put on a 20-minute play called "Charge Account Magic." They made a "field trip" to a furniture store and were visited by a department store clothing buyer and a representative of a carpeting shop.

As a highlight of the unit, Miss Richmire's class tested various kinds of cooking utensils. They wrote to the Consumers Union for information on how to set up a consumers' testing panel, and received the material plus a request that they send their results to the Union.

The money management segment was enlivened by visits from a life insurance broker, automobile and fire insurance broker and a stock broker. After seeing two movies on the stock market, students decided to buy one share of railroad stock.

The nationally - recognized program received much acclaim from parents, too. Said one mother, "I've learned as much about consumer buying as my daughter has." According to Miss Richmire, "The students themselves expressed a lively interest in the unit and felt that they were more intelligent shoppers than before taking the unit."

Past Oracle's Club Names New Officers

Ashland – New officers of the Past Oracle's club of Ashland were elected at the March meeting held at the home of Mrs. Ivan Farris, 429 Morton street.

Mrs. John Scott Hall was chosen president, Mrs. Bert Roberts, vice president, and Mrs. Milo O'Harra, secretary-treasurer. Mrs. Wesley Reed, retiring president, conducted a short business meeting and during the social hour the hostess served refreshments. Mrs. C. A. Hartwell will entertain the club in April.

Applegate Guests Plan To Live Here

Applegate Valley – Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ginnett, Astoria, Ore., are spending some time in this area, and are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Gearhardt.

Mr. Ginnett is a retired sea captain and the couple plans to become residents of southern Oregon.
