

IV—The Bald Facts

Eventual Cure for Baldness Predicted by Research Doctors

Editor's note: There may be no hope for the man who has lost his hair, but some researchers foresee victory over baldness in the future. The following dispatch, the last of four, reports on the latest scientific advances and theories for the saving of mankind's hair.

By BARNEY SEIBERT
Chicago—(UPI)—Dr. Norman Orentreich, New York dermatologist, predicts there will be a cure for baldness in women within the next 10 years—probably through development of a synthetic female hormone.

Dr. Sidney Olansky, dermatologist at Emory University, Atlanta, Ga., who has been engaged in research on baldness causes and cures for three years, has hopes for all mankind.
"Someday we'll find a remedy that will prevent baldness," he said.
Present research efforts are centered around the endocrine gland system. Olansky said it is found to be linked to baldness, hopes for a cure will be multiplied.

Orentreich, who already is using female hormones in experimental treatments, said, "baldness is a chemical problem and the answer lies in chemistry."
Orentreich has another method for hair restoration in some persons—slow, somewhat painful, but effective.
He transplants small clumps of hair from the sides of the head—usually the last place where hair remains—to the hairless top. Within two or three months the hair begins to grow. He says the treatment has been used successfully on several hundred persons.

Plastic surgeons Edward S. Lamont of Los Angeles and Correa Iturraspe of Buenos Aires have a different method. They remove flaps of skin up to eight inches in length from the sides of the head and transplant them to the top. Within about six months hair growth hides any resulting scar tissue.
Experiments in grafting hair from the armpits to the head have proven unsuccessful.
Although non-surgical hair restoration in most cases is presently impossible, researchers say there are ways in which the balding individual may slow the loss of his hair or conceal its fast disappearance.

—Keep the head clean. Wash the hair with a mild shampoo. Avoid use of harsh products on hair. Wash as often as once or twice a week if the hair is oily or every two weeks if it is dry. Dirt-filled pores may impede hair growth.
—Avoid subjecting the hair to daily wettings. The American Medical Association reported in its magazine, "Today's Health," that continuous wetness "appears to increase hair loss."

—Brush hair daily for up to five minutes with a soft, natural bristle brush. Avoid synthetic fiber brushes or too vigorous brushings which may pull out the hair.
—Massage the scalp gently each day, stimulating blood flow to oxygen-starved areas. Light application of oils may be beneficial in summer when the sun dries out the hair but is unnecessary in winter. If a hair dressing is needed to train unruly hair, either a mineral oil or natural oil (lanolin) base may be beneficial. But the heavier the oil, the more likely it is to serve as a trap for dirt.
—Wear a hat when engaged in activities in which dirt may collect in the hair.
—Avoid frequent hair dyeing, which may cause hair to become brittle and dry.
—Avoid use of permanent wave preparations which do not contain a self-neutralizer. Such products may act as a depilatory if left on too long without being neutralized.
—Use a round tooth comb and avoid hair styles such as pony tails which exert pressure on the hair roots.
—Avoid use of large brush hair rollers, which Dr. Morris J. Lipnik of Detroit found to be related to baldness in 13 of his women patients.
—Change location of hair part to give the partline a rest.
—Comb hair over thinning areas.

Cleveland Paper Strike Concluded

Cleveland, Ohio—(UPI)—Machinists and printers ratified new contracts Thursday night bringing an end to the record 127-day Cleveland newspaper strike.

But publishers of the morning Cleveland Plain Dealer and the Scripps-Howard afternoon Cleveland Press, with a combined daily circulation of about 700,000, said they had no plans to resume publication before Monday.

Ratification by the International Typographical Union of a 26-month contract came 20 minutes after the International Association of Machinists approved a pact providing a $9.75 wage increase over 25 months, plus $2.70 hospitalization benefit increases.
The printers contract called for a $5 pay increase in the first year, with $2.50 of it retroactive to Oct. 1, 1962, and a similar pay increase to be effective Oct. 1, 1964. Fringe benefits were set at $3.95, including increased hospitalization, sickness pay and pensions. A provision for four weeks vacation after 20 years also was in the pact.

Long-Time Oregon Contractor Dies

McMinnville—(UPI)—Funeral services are scheduled Saturday for J. C. Compton, an Oregon contractor for 50 years.

Compton died in a Portland hospital Wednesday after a long illness.
At the time of his death, Compton was president of the J. C. Compton Construction Co., the Spaulding Pulp and Paper Co. of Newberg, and the Pacific Northwest Development Association. He also was vice president of Oregon Mutual Insurance Co. and a member of Multnomah-Canadian Fund Ltd.

KEY CHASES CROOKS

Houston, Tex.—(UPI)—Mrs. Lena S. Doyle, 72, chased off three would-be purse snatchers Thursday night with a car key. Mrs. Doyle told the police she was walking to her auto when the youths jumped from an alley and told her to drop her purse. They fled when she jabbed one in the face with her car key.
