

Women's Quest for Beauty Subject for Discussion

By GAY PAULEY
UPI Women's Editor
New York — (UPI) — Modern woman's search for beauty has led to the multi-billion dollar industry of cosmetics, over 30 per cent of the women world-wide used them. What lies behind this quest for beauty?

Five experts representing psychiatry, dermatology, plastic surgery, psychiatric social work and education discussed present-day attitudes of women concerning their appearance in a symposium on "The Psychology of Beauty," sponsored by a cosmetics manufacturer Chesbrough-Pond's.

All agreed on the desirability of being attractive. But they warned also that the desire and search for beauty should be tempered with judgment.

Quest for Beauty
As one of the panelists, Dr. Marynna F. Farnham, a practicing psychiatrist and assistant clinical professor at the College of Physicians and Surgeons, Columbia University, put it: The 20th Century "perhaps will go down in history as the century of disaster; perhaps partly because women kept chasing beauty all the time."

But beauty has been a feminine concern since the cave woman, she added. "Somebody said that if Cleopatra's nose had been differently shaped, the history of the world would have been different," she continued. "Such beautiful women make trouble—in fact, really beautiful women make trouble for themselves and everybody else."

"Of course a lot of unattractive women have had power too. . . I have the greatest possible belief that women are influential and powerful not only because of their beauty, but essentially through their innate capacities of the mind and of the spirit."

"A woman's power to attract is basically, inherently and entirely dependent upon the sense of herself," said the psychiatrist. "The realization of her inner self. And no matter what she does about her exterior, it will not provide her with the love she wants unless she believes in herself."

Dr. Farnham said much of the "driven pursuit of beauty arises out of fear—the fear of being left, abandoned, lost, unloved, without anyone."

the "perpetual pursuit of what must be lost, the beauty of youth, which is behind all these anxieties. . ."

Another panelist was Dr. John M. Knox, associate professor of dermatology and pathology at Baylor University College of Medicine.

Dr. Knox said his interest in beauty was "secondary." "I became interested in this because of my interest in skin cancer," he said. From that, he went into the subject of skin's aging.

He produced slides illustrating the "degeneration" of skin from over-exposure to sunlight. "A true suntan," he said, "is a response to injury—just like a callous is, on the hand. It's the body's way of recognizing an insult and trying to do something about it to prevent further such damage."

The dermatologist said vanity has been a "real blessing to many women; for a woman who wears a lot of makeup, that has pigment in it—anything that colors—these particles stop sunlight to a great extent."

Name Officer, Delegates for Rebekah Lodge

Mrs. Riley Appelgate was elected district deputy president of the Rebekah lodge during the April 1 meeting of Olive Rebekah lodge in the Odd Fellows hall, Mrs. Appelgate and Mrs. James Hoskins were elected as delegates to attend the grand lodge convention to be held in May in The Dalles.

Alternate delegates are Mrs. K. G. Stockhoff and Mrs. Carrie Milnes.

Mrs. LeRoy Cline was narrator for the program, "Women of the Bible." Dolls dressed in clothing similar to that worn in Biblical times were used to decorate the hall. Mrs. W. H. Dyer had designed the doll costumes.

The degree team with Mrs. Marjorie Pearson, captain, will conduct initiation ceremonies for a visit of the grand lodge president and her officers during the IOOF trek to be held in Jacksonville.

Insurance Women Hold Installation Ceremony

Newly elected officers of the Insurance Women of Jackson County were installed following a dinner at Kim's restaurant April 2. The installation ceremony was conducted by Mrs. Ellen Mann, member of the Rogue Valley Insurance Women's association, Grants Pass.

Shady Cove-Trail Area CFG Groups Organized

Shady Cove-Trail-Bluebird, Camp Fire and Junior High Camp Fire groups have been organized here by Mrs. Thomas Gerety of Medford. Mrs. Gerety trained leaders at the home of Mrs. Robert Vincent, Shady Cove, and at the Elk-Trail school.

Leaders in Shady Cove are Mrs. Larry Jolliffe, second grade; Mrs. Robert Vincent, third grade and Mrs. Richard Gannaway, fourth and fifth grades.

In Mrs. Jolliffe's group are Lynn Berry, Terry Goodman, Nancy Hodge, Linda Robinson, Valerie Winkle, Carol Westfall, and Lydia Zomerdyk.

Those in the group Mrs. Vincent leads are Linda Campbell, Altha Dickenson, Karen Stockton, Shelly Surgeon and Marian Vincent.

Mrs. Gannaway's group is made up of Susie Baker, Deanna Bidwell, Debra Calfee, Connie Gannaway, Susan House, Sherri Pennell and Pam Roberts. This group conducted a fly-up ceremonial led by Eagle Point Junior High school Camp Fire Girls, Mrs. Betty Bedingfield, leader.

Miss Regina Krambeal directed the ceremonial and seven other girls assisted. Fathers of the group's members tied on their daughters' scarves.

The Elk-Trail leaders are Mrs. Naomi Friese, Mrs. Lois Crouch, and Mrs. Barbara Fry.

Members of Mrs. Friese's group are Linda Anderson, Noveline Crouch, Judy Friese, Dorothea Kristof, Karen Sargent and Debra Young. Those led by Mrs. Croucher are Cheryl Anderson, Elaine Crouch, Margaret Perkins, Debbie Rickard and Joyce Sanderson. In Mrs. Fry's group are Connie Anderson, Kitty Barlow, Cindy Fry, Penny Fry, LaVonne Myers and Linda Robbins.

The Shady Cove-Elk-Trail leaders meet with Eagle Point leaders once a month, on the first Wednesday of each month. The April 3 meeting was held in the home of Mrs. Gannaway in Shady Cove.

A dad-daughter dinner was held by the Shady Cove-Elk Trail groups in the Shady Cove school cafeteria, when 47 dads and daughters attended.

The Shady Cove-Elk Trail group closed their candy mint and nut sale last week. Shady Cove third grade Bluebirds used their share of the sale proceeds for a skating party. A grand council fire is planned in May when Eagle Point, Elk-Trail and Shady Cove groups will participate.
