Three Areas Report Employment Rise

Grants Pass—Unemployment claims were on the downturn in the Josephine county, Glendale and Rogue River areas during the last part of March as a back-to-work movement gained momentum here after the winter's short-term lay-offs, said Don Stiffler, manager of the Grants Pass office of the State Employment service.

Stiffler said sawmill employment had been unusually steady this winter with only a few short shut-downs, due to lack of logs or for repairs. The large local sawmill operators appear to have settled on volume production as their answer to competition, he said, and are operating steadily whenever logs are available. Stiffler said this is in definite contrast to past years when smaller mill operations were predominant.

The rate of insured unemployment in this area the last week in March was 11.9 per cent, slightly under that for the same week last year and less than half that of two years ago.

Stiffler said that out-of-state workers now living locally accounted for over one-fourth of his office's weekly claims for unemployment insurance during the past month.
