SO Circuit Schools In Hayward Relays At Eugene Saturday

Track and field competition for Southern Oregon conference high schools this Saturday will be at University of Oregon's Hayward field at Eugene.

The District 6 A-1 crews will run, throw and jump in the 27th annual Hayward relays.

Medford, Grants Pass and Klamath Falls are billed for entry in the metropolitan division. Crater and Ashland will contend in Class A. South Salem in metro and Cottage Grove in Class A are defending champs. Cottage Grove's Lions will bid for an eighth straight crown.

PIL Not Entered
Portland Interscholastic and Metropolitan league schools will not enter the Haywards this year. They will have their own 21-school meet. The matters of time, cost and limit on number of participants influenced the decision.

South Salem's strength in its title defense lies in its two-mile, high jump, shot put and 440-yard relay teams. All four of the two-mile relay team members, Jim and Jack Price, Bob McAlpine and Terry Thompson have times of under two minutes. The Prices and McAlpine were members of the crew which set the Hayward record of 8:03.9. The Saxons reportedly will try to beat the national standard of 7:49.9.

14 In Metro
A field of 14 schools will contend in the metro class. Sixteen aggregations are listed in Class A.

The meet opened today with B and C division contests and a total of 1,200 athletes are expected to be in action over the two days. Field events start at 1 p.m. and running events at 3 p.m.

Coach Dean Benson has indicated a 27-man Medford squad for the Eugene jaunt. He reported that broad jumper and sprinter Jim Hill will be missing from action for the second straight week end. Hill is recuperating from a case of blood poisoning which resulted from a boil on his knee.

Benson said that the Black Tornado has had "its share of ups and downs" this week because of flu and colds.

Coach Ed Knapp of Crater also listed a 27-man crew. Cold's and little chance to work out have hampered the Comets.

Gary Player Sets Pace

Woods, Water, Wildlife

By Hank DeVoss

Tuesday night the game commission heard suggestions from all those interested in the big game regulations to be considered for this year. Most of the suggestions were that the commission stop setting seasons on doe deer. The majority opinion of those present was that the commission was making a mistake in allowing the taking of anything but bucks.

A MISTAKE
For the benefit of those who think this writer can find no wrong with the game commission, let them take note that it says here that the commission has made a mistake. The mistake was in holding a meeting and allowing suggestions as to how the deer herds of Oregon should be managed. This would give rise to an assumption on the part of those attending the meeting that they know enough about the management of deer to be able to say what should be done. It gives everyone the mistaken impression that he is an expert because he is allowed to kill off part of the deer population each year.

How many lawyers ask for suggestions from truck drivers as to how to handle a case of law? How many loggers ask school teachers how they should fall timber? How many doctors ask plumbers how to perform an operation? Do we go to farmers for advice on how to plan a community? What kind of logic is there in thinking that a person who has training or experience in one field is an expert in a field in which he has no training or experience?

Does shooting a deer make a person an expert in deer management? Is a mailing two pieces of wood together make a person an expert on timber management? Does buying a T-bone steak make a person an expert on butchering? Does the ability to swim make a person an expert on ocean currents? What kind of logic is there in thinking a person is an expert when he is only acquainted with the subject?

LOGIC?
It is a strange sort of logic that insists a person should be taken seriously when he ventures an opinion that has as its strongest supporting evidence the similar opinion of others. This is the same logic kept trotted out for many years. And now we are told that there are no deer because so many people aren't seeing very many.

EVIDENCE
How many of us can be honest enough to admit we don't know enough about deer, their habits, what they eat, and what they need to stay alive to be able to say what is needed to maintain them?

To condemn a program of management set up by trained people should require more than casual observation and majority opinion. An investigation and experienced in game management would appear to be the way to gather evidence on the question, and a better answer than letting Tom, Dick, or Harry decide how deer should be managed.

OPENING DAY
The 20th of this month marks the opening of trout season in the following places locally:

The upper Rogue river, including tributaries, a above Laurelhurst (Peyton) bridge and Big Butte creek and tributaries above Clebligh rd. bridge.

Fish lake, Howard Prairie lake, Hyatt lake, Lake of the Woods, Squaw lakes, and Willow Creek reservoir.

Trout may not be less than six inches in length, and 10 fish, but not more than five over 12 inches of which not more than two fish are over 20 inches, constitutes the bag limit per day.

THE ANGLER'S LOG

The first salmon of the season was counted over the board at Gold Ray dam last Tuesday morning. The storms and high water in the lower river have hopes fairly high in the upper river. This means there ought to be a fairly good escapement past the boats in the lower river and give us good fishing up here.

Klamath River - Reports from the Happy Camp area tell of fish from three to seven pounds that will take cluster eggs or night crawlers. Fishing for trout or yellow perch behind Iron Gate is reported to be on the fabulous side.

Rogue River - Six salmon were reported taken last week before the water muddied. They were taken at Galice and below. Savage Rapids ought to have a few available for this week end but only if things dry off a little.

THE OPTIMIST'S CORNER

The reports that stream conditions will be very poor aren't too encouraging for those of us who hope for bigger and better runs of steelhead and salmon. The only bright spot is the continued progress on the Rogue Basin project and the hope that these plans will provide the water for these fish.

GOOD LUCK!

Hot Line To Pittsburgh Pays Off for Washington Senators

United Press International
The Washington Senators aren't being consulted about that "hot line" between Washington, D.C., and Moscow but they sure are in favor of the one between the nation's capital and Pittsburgh, Pa.

The Washington to Pittsburgh "hot line" has been used by two different Senator general managers in a little more than 18 months—with results that must make Pirate G.M. Joe Brown flinch every time the phone rings.

On June 29, 1961 Ed Doherty dialed Brown and obtained Tom Cheney from the Pirates. Then, on Dec. 14, 1962, George Selkirk tried the same number and acquired catcher Don Leppert for the Senators. Both Cheney and Leppert are reacting to the change like a pair of G.I.'s who have just been transferred from Siberia to Paris.

Hurler One-Hitter
Cheney, who last Sept. 12 set a major league record by striking out 21 batters in a 16-inning game, made his 1963 debut for the Senators with a one-hitter Thursday night while Leppert, who hit only three homers all last season for the Pirates, belted three and knocked in five runs in support of his batterymate.

The result was an 8-0 victory over the Boston Red Sox that put the Senators in the win column for the first time this season.

The Baltimore Orioles achieved their best start in a decade when they beat the New York Yankees, 4-1, for their third straight victory; the Detroit Tiger downed the Cleveland Indians, 6-1, and the Chicago White Sox defeated the Los Angeles Angels, 3-1, in other AL games.

Two homers by John (Boog) Powell and the five-hit pitching of Milt Pappas enabled the Orioles to spoil the world champion Yankee's home opener. Powell hit a two-run homer to snap a 1-1 tie in the fifth and also connected in the seventh. Pappas allowed the Yankee run on a fourth-inning homer by Mickey Mantle. New York ace Whitey Ford suffered the defeat.

Mossi Leads Tigers
Don Mossi, one of the Tigers' big question marks, pitched a perfect game for 6½

this is the boat that likes people... even non-boaters

Some folks get a little nervous around boats. This one is as reassuring as a big brother in a new neighborhood. For one thing, you hardly realize you've stepped off the dock onto an OMC Boat, it leans so slightly. And once in, you begin to notice how spacious the passenger area is; how high, wide and solid the sides. The floor is flat and firm and carpeted; the seats have the familiar comfort of those in the living room at home. Which is how you're beginning to feel.

So when the dock begins to leave, you don't really mind. You sense the sure-footedness of an OMC, and not even an on-a-dime turn or lopsided load will shake your confidence. There's added security in the knowledge that you're sitting on a life preserver (part of the seat itself, so you can't forget to bring it along). And there's virtually no way to sink this boat, short of filling it with cast iron.

You feel rejuvenated, relaxed, as you realize the pleasures of owning and driving a boat that caters to your ideas of boating fun. And, most important, what you see, you get in an OMC 17 Deluxe. Complete. No extras to buy. Your dealer has the facts—and five new models for you, sailor. Yo, ho!
