According to the company, the record figure for 1962 represented an increase of $13,576,000 over the amount owned at the end of the previous year.

AMERICAN BIKE MONTH BEGINS MAY 1–FITNESS IS THE THEME FOR 1963. For the seventh consecutive year, the domestic bicycle industry honors the growing army of American bicyclists, now nearly 55 million strong, wtih the celebration of American Bike Month in May.

Where facilities are available, bike retailers will offer free inspections, in which skilled personnel will check lights, horns, brakes, tires, steering mechanisms and other vital operating parts.

All bike retailers will offer the free booklet, "America's All-Time Ten Best Bike Games," containing the nationally accepted bike rules of the road, riding tips, a bike maintenance chart, and the directions for 10 games which, while being fun, help develop safer and better coordinated riders.

With the nation more fitness conscious than ever before, and recognizing the excellence of the bicycle as a fitness tool, bike industry leaders have dedicated American Bike Month to a healthier and more physically fit America, supporting fitness programs instituted by the President's Council on Physical Fitness, the National Education Association, and the American Association for Health, Physical Education and Recreation.

Debbie Drake, shown above, nationally known physical fitness expert, author, TV personality and syndicated columnist has been named chairman of the observance, and as such will call attention to the fitness, health and safety elements of cycling.

With more than 30,000,000 bikes on the road this year, cycling has taken a larger and more positive place on the American scene than ever before.

Over two and a half million primary and secondary school youngsters go to school by bike each day. Another two million students use bikes to travel across sprawling campuses. It is with this knowledge that the American Association for Health, Physical Education and Recreation is preparing a handbook on the application of organized cycling to in-school physical fitness programs. When completed, the booklet will be distributed to the more than 30,000 coaches, gym teachers and recreation directors that make up the AAHPER membership.

Bike racing is at an all-time peak of popularity in America. More than 300 races are scheduled annually by the Amateur Bike League of America, with the 1963 National Championships scheduled to be held at Northbrook, Illinois in August. Additionally, more than two dozen colleges will field biketeams for this year's intercollegiate program.

Parents and grandparents, too, recognizing that bike riding is pleasant, healthful exercise, have joined youngsters in increasing numbers, swelling the ranks of the cycling fraternity.

KATY RAILROAD HAS NEW OFFICES HERE. The Missouri-Kansas-Texas Railroad Company is now located in Suite 4, Lumberman's Building at 1307 West Main street in Medford, according to Sales Manager D. R. Larsen.

NEWSPAPERS RETURN–SO DO SHOPPERS. New York merchants are making up for opportunities lost during the 114-day newspaper strike by advertising heavily to move out accumulated apparel inventories, reports the New York Times. Consumers in turn are responding in force and stepping up their purchases. Without newspaper advertising to spur their spring business, merchants found themselves behind a year ago. Store sales in New York City, including suburban branches, were 10% below the 1962 level in March, according to a survey by the Times. Every store surveyed in the city was on the down side in the month. Department stores in New York lagged 6 to 7% in the first quarter, while according to the Federal Reserve Board, the New York district (Northern New Jersey, Long Island, Westchester and Fairfield County, Connecticut) went ahead by 2%.

AUTOMATIC DRYER RECEIVES INSTRUCTIONS FROM CLOTHES. While most women prefer an automatic dryer to hauling their wash outdoors, a few laundry fundamentalists still believe that a machine just can't do as gentle a job as the good old sun and a warm breeze.

One recently introduced automatic dryer, shown at right, should do a great deal to help convince these steadfast ladies that there's a better way than depending on the weather, according to Jim Wells, heavy appliance division manager for Sears, Roebuck in Medford.

The new dryer employs an exclusive "soft heat" process that dries clothing more gently and fluffier than ever before. The heat input of the dryer is determined by the moisture in the clothes.

As the load becomes more dry, the amount of heat is decreased, and when the laundry is completely dry, the machine automatically shuts off.

Called the "Lady Kenmore 800", this dryer also features a "damp dry" setting that will stop the machine automatically when the clothes are just right for easy ironing. An "air only" setting is also incorporated for heatless fluffing of pillows or delicate clothing.

To make loading and unloading easier, the pull-down Load-a-Door covers the full width of the cabinet, providing a handy work shelf. A single dial control on the back panel gives a choice of an automatic or timed "soft heat" setting which takes the "guesswork" out of drying. The "Lady Kenmore 800" Soft Heat dryer is available in both gas and electric models exclusively at Sears, Roebuck and Co.

GREEN THUMB SEASON HERE. Interest in gardening has exploded in the past decade, says the New York Herald Tribune. Between 1950 and 1960, sales of goods and equipment were almost doubled and their rate of increase was five times greater than the percentage of population growth in the same period. In 1960 total sales reached $3.8 billion. By the early 1970's sales of about $6.7 billion are anticipated. According to a research survey, expenditures for hand tools and power equipment will jump from last year's $1.9 billion to $3.2 billion in the '70's.

HOBBY SALES EXPECTED TO CLIMB. The hobby industry will become a $500,000,000 plus business in 1963, says William L. MacMillan, Jr., executive director of the Hobby Industry Association of America, reports Advertising Age. Mr. MacMillan estimated the industry reached $475,000,000 in retail sales last year. He attributed the expected rise to the growth of the teen-age population and the increasing number of older people in the United States. Surveys indicate that 60% of the hobby business is concentrated in the 10 to 18 age bracket, with older men and women providing the second largest market.

BUCKET SEATS ARE NOW AVAILABLE as optional extra in the new Datsun sedan, according to officials of Stevens Auto Sales, Inc., Medford dealers at 505 North Riverside avenue.

Power, economy and dependability are, however, standard equipment on the smart new 1963 Datsun 4-door sedan shown above, according to Tom Boyd. The high performance 60 horsepower engine gives power when needed, yet still delivers up to 33 mpg actual mileage. Datsun features the only three speed, full synchromesh, column-mounted shift.

The Datsun 4-door sedan has plenty of leg and head room, plus large trunk space.

QUEEN FOR A DAY. Mother's Day, May 12, second biggest gift-giving event of the year, will once again offer major promotional opportunities for many store types. Among the stores which will demonstrate an all-out effort will be: department stores, ready-to-wear, jewelry, drug, candy, appliance, supermarkets, beauty shops and discount houses. More than a billion dollars is spent for gifts for mothers, grandmothers, mothers-in-law and foster mothers–averaging $20 per family, estimates the National Committee on the Observance of Mother's Day.

IN THE EARLY 1950's C. STARK of Stark's Cleaner Sales & Service, Portland, established a Stark's branch store in Medford. In 1954 he sold out to Sam Bateman. On March 28 of this year Stark's of Portland purchased the local Stark's store from the Bateman estate and now operates it as a branch.

C. Stark, who headquarters in Portland, Ore., is president of Stark's Vacuum Cleaner Sales & Service, Inc., Spokane, Wash.; president of Stark's Seattle Vacuum Cleaner Co., Seattle, Wash.; and president of Northwest Wholesale Distributors, Inc., Portland, which is the registered owner of Stark's Vacuum Cleaner Sales & Service of Portland. All rebuilts will be rebuilt in Portland where Stark's have one of the finest rebuilding plant in the Northwest. TRUCK SALES OUTPACE AUTO BOOM. Truck sales, a good measure of the nation's economic health, are setting a torrid pace, reports The Wall Street Journal. In the first three months of this year, 291,600 new trucks were delivered in the U. S. compared with 250,100 in the like-period last year. This was not only a record for the period but also surpassed the 282,000 sold in the fourth quarter last year, a record for that period. The resulting boom in trucks is even outstripping the current one in autos. In the first quarter of this year, car sales were up 10.3% from the like period last year; truck sales were ahead by more than 16%. Estimates of industry sales for the full year vary among truck executives but all are optimistic. "Sales are at a 1.3 million-a-year rate," says Rupert Lewis, Ford Motor Co. truck marketing manager. Ford expects this pace to lower slightly with sales hitting about 1.2 million trucks for the full year. However, that still would be a new high. The previous record was set in 1950 when sales hit 1,142,000.

LIVING COSTS TO CONTINUE UPWARD CRAWL

Your cost of living will continue to climb in 1963 as it climbed in 1962. As the year rolls on, the government's index of consumer prices will hit several new peaks. As always, the movements of this index to the highest levels ever will make the front pages, arouse cries of alarm about "inflation" even in this prolonged cycle of sticky unemployment.

But despite the hike in steel prices, despite the fact that service costs are still rising, despite the early winter jump in fruit and vegetable prices, the increase in living costs this year will be held to a crawl. Barring events that cannot be foreseen, the expert forecast is that for the whole year the increase in the Bureau of Labor Statistics' consumer price index will be under 1½ per cent.

This degree and type of rise in consumer prices cannot be called inflation by any accepted definition of inflation—even though new all-time highs in living costs are a certainty.

To be specific, the probability is that at the start of 1964 it will cost you between $1.07 and $1.08 to buy the same marketbasket of goods and services $1 would have bought more than a half-decade ago—not much of an upswing considering the length of time involved. And while on the index your dollar will be worth less in the marketplace in January 1964 than in January 1963, prices of some important things are declining, there are hidden markdowns in many areas.

When the BLS reports the March consumer price index next week, the chances are it will be approximately where it was in February—slightly over 106 (1957-59 equals 100). The rise in the index early this year was due almost entirely to the big increase in fruit and vegetable prices after the winter freezes, but this trend has not run its course. Meat prices tended lower in March. Sugar prices have skyrocketed, but sugar doesn't have much weight in the index.

Here's a rundown of the 1963 outlook for prices of the major things and nonthings you buy.

Food: Seasonal upturn in summer, seasonal downturn in fall and early winter, without any significant factors pushing prices sharply one way or the other. The food price index will be titled upward, though, if the increase in the cost of sugar is translated into higher prices for bakery products, soft drinks, candy, etc.

Durable goods: Some price increases are on the way and the reasons go far beyond the steel price hike, but competition is too rough to permit major across-the-board price boosts.

Housing costs: Prices will be pulled up by gradual increases in the cost of maintenance and repairs and quite possibly by rises in real estate taxes and interest rates. The cost of a house itself, however, isn't going to change much in this competitive era.

Rents: Still climbing despite vacancies in areas throughout the country, but the rate of rise is now a creep.

Clothing: Up a bit. When the April index is issued, it well may be higher because of the introduction of the spring lines.

Services: Higher. Costs of medical and personal care are still climbing, but again the rate of rise has perceptibly slowed.

So, where do you come out? As one of America's tens of millions with a steady job and getting year-to-year pay increases of more than 1½ per cent, you come out ahead. Your "real" purchasing power is continuing to increase an average of 2 per cent a year.

As a housewife, you also can come out ahead if you shop with moderate care. Taking advantage of the food specials and bargain sales in reputable stores can cut big chunks from your budget.

We cannot ignore the tragedy of the millions who are unemployed and the millions who are wholly dependent on small, fixed pensions. These challenges we must meet.

But for the vast majority, 1963 is shaping up as another best bread-and-butter year ever.

U. S. Not To Send Manpower to Laos

Washington – (UPI) – Undersecretary of State W. Averell Harriman says the United States has no plans to send troops to Laos and will not send military supplies unless requested by the neutralist regime.

Harriman said President Kennedy had deicded "not to become involved militarily in the Laos conflict."

U. S. military personnel have left Laos under the Geneva cease fire agreement, he said, and "we are not giving any more military aid except a few minor supplies which . . . could be given under the agreement."

Francis N. – Why should an old friend suddenly turn cold?

Laurette A. – Because suddenly we've turned into in-laws.

Frances N. – Among the guests at my brother's recent wedding was Laurette, a friend I hadn't seen for 20 years. We'd been bunkmates at camp for two summers when we were fifteen. The bride, it turned out, was Laurette's niece. But instead of the reunion leading to a renewal of our old warm friendship, Laurette wants us to act formal with each other. She says it's wiser for in-laws to keep a distance.

Laurette A. – I'm talking from experience. I've been bitten: So has my mother. There was an estrangement and a feud with one whole branch of my father's family, caused by my mother getting too friendly with an in-law who betrayed her. It's nothing against Frances. But this is a second marriage for my niece. I want to wait a while until it's solidly under way. Should anything go amiss, relatives find it handy to quote in-laws from each side who "fraternized" too much.

The Council – Frances must realize that the old relationship can't be resumed on the old terms. Something has been added — namely marriage in which they're each emotionally involved. Laurette hopes that her niece and Frances's brother will build a strong, successful union. But, through experience with family "chemistry," she knows how, with any rift in the lute, each side looks around for "meddlers" to blame. She just does not want to be a sitting duck for that, as was her mother and probably others who showed too much interest in a young, see-sawing marriage . . . Knowing her niece, Laurette wants to stay far on the sidelines. No "assists" from either side, she asks. But a few years from now, when the new home is on perceptible bedrock, she'll feel safe in welcoming Frances as a personal buddy. Until then—and we agree — Frances is a delegate from "the other side."
