Editor's note: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, three editors and a women's editor. Each article is a summary of a family disagreement presented to the Council. The Council deals with problems, major and minor, encountered by guidance counselors and social workers. Karen B.—My mother didn't prepare me for life as well as she thought.

Mrs. W. B.—I gave her the facts. I figured she knew the limits.

Karen B.—My friends envied me and my modern mother because I could tell her or ask her anything. She never washed out my mouth with soap over words I brought home. Instead she explained them. As a teenager I didn't feel guilty about sex desires. Mother always described sex as part of love, something to be regarded as sacred and beautiful. But I'm 20 now, in love with Jim, and she's shocked to learn that we've been intimate. Now she says she meant married love.

Mrs. W. B.—I hope my shock brings Karen to safe territory fast. It would be tragic if she became pregnant, or lost Jim, because I harped on the beauty of the sex relation, rather than on the brakes. What if Jim is one of those young men who merely "testa" a girl and when it comes to marriage prefers the "untest-

The Council: Sex instruction which includes facts only, that is, vocabulary, diagrams and descriptions—with a bit of poetry thrown in, perhaps, is like a racing car with a jammed steering wheel and no brakes. Along with the enlightening words Mrs. B. furnished her daughter, there should have been an underlining of ethics, morals, attitudes. Ideally, the sex act in our society is a responsible act. It has consequences—emotional, physical, social. Let a conscientious mother, sharing the "facts of life" with her daughter, wind up "selling" pre-marital sex-as did Mrs. B.—she must link every line of her talk to married love. Hold your knowledge, hold your love, Karen. Marriage is the place to reveal them.

Research Training Seminars Scheduled

Eugene—Three overseas research training seminars will be sponsored this summer by the University of Oregon's Institute of International Studies and Overseas administration.

One of the programs, all of which are financed with funds from the Carnegie Corporation of New York, is in Colombia. The other two are in Costa Rica.

The three research groups, all under directors who have had previous research experience in Central and South America, expect to spend the entire summer on their field projects, according to John F. Gange, director of the Institute of International Studies and Overseas administration. All graduate students participating in the programs are candidates for advanced degrees at the university.

Grazing Fees for Winema Listed

Klamath Falls—The 1963 grazing fees for livestock permitted on the former Klamath Indian lands, now within the Winema National forest, have been announced by Supervisor A. E. Smith.

A new rate for cattle has been set at $1.45 per animal per month, compared to $1.50 per month in 1961 and 1962. The rate for sheep, however, will remain at 32 cents per head per month, the same rate as in the two previous years.

The reduced rate of five cents per month for cattle was made possible through the application of a sliding scale formula which is based on market conditions, Smith said.

This formula is designed so that it will reflect in the annual grazing fees any yearly fluctuations in the price paid for livestock throughout the Western States. A drop in the average price paid for livestock in any given year results in a reduction of grazing fees for the following year. A rise in the average price would result in an increased fee.

The 1963 indices indicate a slight decline in the 1962 fall cattle market, while the sheep market did not fluctuate sufficiently to be reflected in the fees charged for sheep use of the range.

Users of national forest ranges are required to submit payment for grazing fees 15 days in advance of their scheduled date of turnout. In view of this and, in order to allow ample time for payment, billings have now been processed and mailed to the 1963 permittees, Smith said.

Vehicles Involved in Highway 238 Accident

Shopping fro New Auto Brings Rude Awakening to Driver of 1946 Car

By DICK WEST

Washington—(UPI)—For 16 years Stephen Spingarn, a former member of the Federal Trade commission, tool-ed around in a 1946 sedan. Life was good then. But a couple of months ago, disaster struck. His faithful old conveyance succumbed to fatigue and Spingarn was forced to go out shopping for a new car.

"It was then that I discovered," he said in relating his adventures, "that I had become a Rip Van Winkle among motorists."

His rude awakening came when he tried to get in one of the 1963 models. First he banged his head on the roof. Then he cracked his knee cap on the steering column.

"To my amazement, I found that the cars I thought had been getting bigger on the outside," he said. "On the inside they had been shrinking."

"They are fine for cobras and other reptiles that can crawl in on their bellies, but a man has to creep into his own car like a midnight thief. Then he has to curl up in the natal position before he can drive it."

Spingarn, who stands just under 6-feet-2 and weighs 250 pounds, test-entered every make of car that sell for less than $3,000, picking up new abrasions along the way.

"The only way I avoided a concussion was by training myself to stop and say 'Look out, Spingarn! Don't bump your head again!' before I opened the door," he said.

At some point, possibly as a result of too many lumps on the cranium, Spingarn changed from a Rip Van Winkle into a sort of latter day Captain Ahab.

He lost all interest in mileage and other performance features and became obsessed with the pursuit of an auto whose portals permitted easy

Nothing could be done about the roof and this is what has prompted Spingarn to organize the "inner space crusade." Its aim is to bring pressure on the auto makers to produce in at least a limited edition a model with a high roof and abundant leg room.

Many recruits have been rallying around the "inner ingress and egress. They were even rarer than white whales."

Finally, Spingarn found a dealer who promised to remove the front seat track and reinstall it four inches farther to the rear. Being a lawyer, Spingarn made him put in writing.

Then he carried the signed stipulation to another dealer, who agreed to match the terms. But, it turned out that the seat tracks on some cars can only be moved back about two inches.

Senior Day Slated At College Campus

Ashland—High school seniors from throughout Oregon and northern California have been invited to visit the Southern Oregon college campus on Senior Day, Saturday, April 20.

Registration will begin at 8:30 a.m. in Britt lounge. "College, Why," a symposium consisting of faculty members, Dr. Richard Byrns, Dr. Loy Prickett, and Mrs. Mary Christlieb will highlight the general session at 9:30 a.m. in Britt lounge.

Participants are invited to a noon luncheon and to hear the SOC panel discuss "You and College" at 1:30 p.m. At 3 p.m. campus tours will visit the library, residence halls, physical education building, science hall and Britt Student center.

Dinner will be served at 5 p.m. Students also are invited to attend the Spring Sing, a variety show, and a dance in Britt ballroom.

THIEF'LL BE SORRY

Frome, England—(UPI)—Donald Risdon, director of a tropical bird garden, he warned that whoever stole his pet salmon-crested cockatoo will soon "be glad to get rid of her." He said if someone has taken the bird home "he will be highly embarrassed by her whistles, cat-calls and screams."

HOUSE PASSES BILL

Salem—(UPI)—A bill to let upland owners get title to offshore river or harbor "fill" lands breezed through the Oregon House 54-5 today and went to the Senate.

Home Discipline Is Due for Change

Ann Arbor, Mich.—(UPI)—The nation's children will face a general stiffening of home discipline in the years directly ahead, a University of Michigan psychiatrist predicts. "Today we are at one extreme of the disciplinary pendulum," says Dr. Jack C. Westman. "It's a common atmosphere of permissiveness in which children too often run the home. The pendulum is set to swing back, and if it settles in some middle position it will mark a change for the better."

WRONG LEG

Bournemouth, England—(UPI)—John Barker said his 2-year-old son, Ashley, broke his right leg but when he went to the hospital they put a cast on the left leg. Barker said a doctor at the hospital told him "that sort of thing does happen" and then changed the cast.
