By MAUDE ZIEGLER
Mail Tribune Correspondent
Applegate Valley - In view of the growing need for more recreation areas, private land owners of the Applegate and Rogue and outlying districts are being offered a plan for utilizing idle plots to alleviate this need, according to Neil Ledward, director of Jackson county park and recreation commission, who spoke at Upper Applegate grange Friday evening.

Ledward was introduced by Mrs. Marcel LePine, local member of the park and recreation commission.

Five pilot projects now are under way in Oregon, including a duck hunting area near Portland, golf courses, and other types of recreation permitted on private land.

Anyone need cheering up? Here is this month's "cheering up" story, authored by our Phoenix correspondent, Bertha Hanscom.

Ledward said that other park agencies, including forest service, bureau of land management, state, county, city and district agencies all find increasing pressure for more recreational areas, and are unable to meet the demand.

It is expected the project will be completed within a year. Aerial photos are being made of the Jackson county locations for possible parks.

The government has proposed low interest loans up to $35,000 for development of farm recreation areas.

"I awoke when the telephone rang at midnight the other night calling our smudger out. Then I couldn't get back to sleep for a long time, and when I did finally close my eyes, the house pet barked to be let out. The clock said 4:30. There was no use going back to bed. Little black sambo would be coming in soon from firing up the little black smudge pots, so I made a fire in the fireplace. Somehow the wind wasn't just right. The fire refused to burn. It was cold, and I was disgusted.

In some park areas restriction of hondas and late-models has become a problem. He said that trailer parks are coming into greater demand.

"Little black sambo came in around 6:30, as black as the world outside. I knew I was going to have a bad day. I felt it in my old bones.

"Every wife knows just what I had in mind at that moment, but I didn't whack him with the broom. I had to laugh. This man who never remembers a birthday or an anniversary or catches anyone with a joke on April fools day just seems to know when someone needs cheering up.

Carnival Scheduled By Rogue River PTA

Rogue River - This Friday a carnival is being held at Grade School Gym. It will be the second one sponsored by the local parent-teachers association and much effort and time has been put into it. Roy Heady, chairman of the affair, wishes to thank the high school and grade school students who have contributed their art work for the front of the booths.

There will be approximately 40 booths, including photography, gold fish game, hoola hoop, wishing well, fortune teller, cake walk, dart throw, baseball pitch, a dunk tank, country store, record roll and a special 28-minute movie with Abbott and Costello. Robert (Bob) Gail will be the carnival Barker.

A spaghetti feed will be held at the grade school cafeteria commencing at 6 p.m. and will continue until the food is gone. The carnival will be over at 10 p.m. Jim Beck will furnish organ music throughout the session.

Parents are donating the cakes and pies, and merchants from Medford, Rogue River and Grants Pass are contributing many worthwhile and expensive donations of merchandise.

On Thursday at 12 noon, the chamber will meet for a luncheon meeting at Rogue Riviera restaurant. Guest speaker will be Earl Harbin, chief appraiser for the Federal Housing Administration, of Portland. All members and other interested persons are invited to attend.

Prospect - The Prospect librarian, Mrs. David Neville, reports that the local library is receiving new books every week as a result of a book exchange program.

In this way, a greater selection of books is provided for readers in the Prospect area. An average of two to three boxes of books are exchanged every week, Mrs. Neville said.

On April 9, Mrs. Neville held an Easter party for pre-school children. Mrs. Neville read the story of the Enchanted Easter Egg. There were 16 children at the party, which was held inside because of bad weather. They played games and held an Easter egg hunt.

But the accident did not dull the enthusiasms of the group. They rented cars and proceeded on their way.

Wilderville - Leonard Sellers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Connie Sellers of the Bella Maria ranch near here, was elected president of the Journalistic Association of California Junior colleges at a recent conference.

The group from Monterey Peninsula college with which Sellers was traveling almost didn't make it to the conference, however. A blown tire and a broken axle sent their station wagon sliding off the road into an earth bank a few feet from a bridge.

Rogue River Citizens Don't Want New Park

Rogue River - The people of Rogue River have decided they don't want city funds spent for a new park.

At the Rogue River City Council meeting last week, results of a vote taken recently when ballots were mailed out with water bills were announced. The vote was 110 to 31 against using funds for a park.

For several years $5,000 has been retained in the city budget toward purchase of a park site.

One voter suggested the money be used for a swimming pool, two for a sewer system and one for new equipment, but most indicated they wanted the money spent for improvement of the city streets or other improvement projects.

Happy Camp Music Students Get Top Ratings At Festival

By HAZEL DAVIS
Mail Tribune Correspondent
Happy Camp - The music department of Happy Camp schools traveled to Yreka to take part in the Siskiyou County Music festival recently and returned with first place ratings in both the band and glee club divisions.

Under the direction of James Tristan, the high school band and glee club have been given first place ratings for the past four years, with the glee club receiving top honors for the fifth year at which time the band rated a second plus.

Dr. Muzzy, professor of Music at San Jose State, was judge for the festival and rated the performances of the various bands and choruses during the all day event.

Dr. Muzzy gave a short after dinner speech in which he gave much praise to the students and Tristan, whose efforts and extra hour practices showed that a goal can be reached. According to Dr. Muzzy, Tristan is one of those outstanding teachers that strive for perfection and are never satisfied. This trait is usually passed on to students who form this habit that follows them through life, Dr. Muzzy said, and thus they work hard for perfection.
