Presbyterians To Hear Speaker From Taiwan

Miss Florence L. Logan, who has been a Presbyterian fraternal worker in Taiwan, will be guest speaker for a meeting of the Women's association of First Presbyterian church Tuesday, April 23, at the church and all Presbyterian women of the area are invited.

Miss Florence Logan

The day's program will begin at 10:30 a.m. with prayer in the fireplace room of the church and at 11 a.m. a Bible study will be conducted by Mrs. Jack Sides. A snack lunch is planned at noon; women attending are asked to take sandwiches and the Women's association will serve coffee. Dessert and coffee are planned at 12:30 p.m.

The speaker taught Bible and personal evangelism in the Presbyterian Bible school at Hain Chee and also directed the self-help department. This school, which is under direction of the Presbyterian church in Formosa, has moved from Chu Pei to the nearby city of Hain Chee and now has new and more adequate quarters.

Miss Logan, who only recently arrived from Taiwan for retirement, began her work in 1921 when she was appointed by the former Board of Foreign Missions of the Presbyterian Church, USA, and was assigned to China. After language study she was stationed at Paoting, near Peking, for country evangelistic work among women and children. Later she served in Everett, Wash., but returned again to Paoting.

In 1942 she was repatriated and for the next few years was on the staff of Eastshore Community Church in Richmond. Back in Paoting in January, 1947, Miss Logan again took up evangelistic and relief work, opened a hostel for refugee girls and a child welfare center, led hospital chapel services and conducted Bible classes for students and businessmen. In 1952 she was transferred to Taiwan to serve under the Church of Christ through the Canadian Presbyterian church.

Legislator's Wife Reviews Cultural Events

MARY JANE DELLENBACK
Salem — There are a number of privileges connected with attendance at a legislative session. Friends of ours who know of my interest in Civic Music concerts and other musical events will not be surprised to learn how very much I have enjoyed the opportunities which have come my way of a cultural nature. I am sure that there are just as many such opportunities in the Medford area, but these have also been different, and thoroughly enjoyable.

Very early in the season an invitation came from Portland friends to attend the "Manhattan West" symphony ball in Portland about which so much was written in the newspapers. I would classify this as a cultural experience, and certainly different from anything which I had ever seen. Part of the purely feminine joy of this evening was looking at the elegantly gowned and coiffed ladies swishing by in both the Benson and the Multnomah hotels. The cultural part of the evening was the use of Portland talent (and I was amazed at the amount of real talent which there is to draw upon in the Portland area in the way of singers and actors) in presenting snatches of the music from a number of recent and popular Broadway musicals. They were presented in the various ballrooms, meeting rooms and dining rooms of the two hotels, and they had been assigned by lot to business firms and decorating firms in Portland to arrange for the evening in the theme of the show which was to be given in that particular area.

Fairy Tale Evening
They were both imaginative and beautiful. I think the greatest challenge was met by Seibert's, the Beaverton furniture store. They were assigned the "penthouse" in the Benson. Believe me, the penthouse was not what I imagined a penthouse would be. It was the just-under-the-roof storeroom, with concrete floor and concrete pillars all around. They had transformed it for "The King and I" with silken pillows, crepe paper "curtains" and beautiful vases, lamps, and other items of oriental beauty. It was really lovely, and the part of "The King and I" which they presented was the delightful Balinese dance version of "The Small House of Uncle Thomas." It was charmingly presented on a stage about as tiny as the Dellenback's dining room in Medford. Well, this was a fairy-tale evening, and I could go on and on.

Another opportunity which I considered very special was the last concert given in Salem by the Portland Symphony orchestra. People who are interested in music hereabouts are enchanted by the conducting of Jacques Singer, the new conductor of the orchestra, and I can see why. He fairly dances all the parts of the music, and the only complaint that I would have is that the audience is so thoroughly caught up on into the mood of the composer who is being performed that one is quite exhausted! The program was a vigorous one, and most exciting. Perhaps the highlight for me was the "Trumpet Voluntary" by Purcell performed by Mr. Smith, the exceptionally fine trumpet player with the orchestra. It was beautifully done, and this is a young man with an outstanding talent. He also had a few solo parts in the Gershwin concerto which was performed. I only wish that there might be some way for the Medford people, so many of whom are interested in fine musical performance, to hear this group once in a while. Perhaps they will some day be prosperous enough to travel around the state and give us all a treat of their special brand of symphony music. I am looking forward to the "Pops" concert which they are due to give here early in May (if the legislature is still in session), for the benefit of the Hospital auxiliary.

Choir Performs
There is no doubt in my mind of the minds of the people connected with the legislature that an outstanding cultural treat was available in the concert, brief though it was, given by the Medford High school choir. The group was given an unusual opportunity, in that they were permitted to sing in the House chambers themselves. Ordinarily the choir groups sing in the rotunda of the Capitol. This makes it sound as if angels have surely descended to the building, but it very difficult for the singers, as the acoustics cause an echo — how they know what note they are on, I don't know. The music offered by the choir was beautiful, and we of the Jackson County group were very proud.

The chance for them to perform in the House itself, incidentally, was arranged by the members of the delegation — Representatives Dellenback, Branchfield, and Redden, and Senator Newby, talking to the Speaker about what an outstanding piece of work would be done by our group. We have had many comments since about how fine they were, and how superior was the program selected.

I think I would have to include in cultural experiences the painting which I won, which some in Medford have heard about. The Auxiliary to the Chiropractic Physicians of the state gave a luncheon and hat show honoring the wives of state officials a few weeks ago. It was a lovely event, and the program consisted of a Portland artist, Earl Hazell, producing an oil painting on the stage as we ate and watched him work. He does this work in the palette knife technique, which means very thick "globes" of paint are involved. When we arrived a small section of blue was in the upper left-hand corner, and a couple of lines blocking off sections of the canvas. That's all. By the time we had finished, the artist had finished a very charming painting which looks for all the world like a section of the Rogue River. I was quite dazzled to discover later that I had won the painting and if this were not enough, Mr. Hazell had provided a frame for the painting, and proceeded to frame it. It was not dry, and we left it at the hotel for a couple of days, and it is still drying in the living room where we are living. I will surely have a special memento of this legislative session.

are amusing to watch as well. I understand that since they have been to Medford, they have become more popular nation-wide than ever, and have nearly reached the gold-record mark for a record album. It made me proud to be able to tell the Portland people with us that these two had already been in Medford.

So, with all the work that is going on all the time, it is nice on the weekends to be able to take advantage of some of the special opportunities that are here. But I am always well aware that we in our county can be pleased with the fact that there are enough people interested in the Arts to support them as well as we do, considering the comparison of our population with that of either Portland or Salem.

DAR Urges Withdrawal From UN

Washington — (UPI) — The Daughters of the American Revolution, after a brief but emotional debate, Wednesday urged the United States to withdraw from the United Nations.

There was scattered applause for some delegates' shouted defense of the United Nations as an instrument of peace.

The estimated 2,000 delegates to the DAR's 72nd Continental Congress overwhelmingly approved 11 other resolutions, most of which put the society squarely against President Kennedy's foreign and domestic programs.

Two votes were recorded against a resolution opposing ratification of a test ban treaty or any other measure that would lead to U.S. disarmament. The delegates unanimously opposed foreign aid, "managed news," a domestic Peace Corps, U.S. participation in an Atlantic community, and "payment of international blackmail and failure to enforce the Monroe Doctrine" against Communist Cuba.

The 186,000-member society, as it did, in a similar resolution adopted in 1958, went on record favoring U.S. withdrawal from the United Nations in the interests of "the survival of this country as a free and independent nation."
