

Helping to plan the annual spring party given in Ashland each April as a benefit for the American Cancer society are (left to right) Mrs. John Balog, Mrs. Philip Selby and Mrs. Sam Davis. The party will be held Wednesday, April 24, at 1 p.m. at the Mark Antony hotel; bridge and pinocchle will follow dessert. Reservations are to be made with Mrs. Keith Kimball, 482-2204. This is the fourth annual such party and this year's theme is "Over the Rainbow."

Tea Held Wednesday at Hillcrest House

More than 250 women attended the annual American Cancer society benefit tea given at Hillcrest house last Wednesday. The guests viewed exhibits on the theme "World of Arts" and flower arrangements entered in the annual contest. Twenty-one women's organizations submitted entries this year, and the winners of the contest were chosen by popular vote.

First prize was awarded Chapter AA, PEO sisterhood, for a table arranged by Mrs. Charles Lemery and Mrs. Eugene DeVoe. A Victorian bouquet of pink carnations and blue bachelor's buttons in an antique compote of white and gold china centered the table, which was covered by a linen and lace cloth. Ornate golden candleholders with gold candles, blue and gold Limoges china, Venetian glassware of crystal and gold, and antique silver flatware completed the display.

Second prize was won by Mrs. Ernest Barnes for the Contemporary Book club. White tulips and white broom blossoms, fern and a piece of bleached driftwood were arranged by Mrs. Barnes in a shallow white bowl. A realistic porcelain frog on a rock added a touch of whimsy.

Several of the entries had an oriental theme. Delta Omega chapter of Epsilon Sigma Alpha submitted an arrangement of flowering crab branches in a white, blue-lined dish on a carved teakwood table. A white Chinese figurine completed the display.

Medford Junior Women's club combined flowering plum and magnolia leaves in a black Japanese usabata vase on a bamboo mat. The entry of Chi Omega alumnae represented American oriental art. A black iron hibachi filled with a variety of white, orange and yellow flowers, and a white Chinese figurine, were placed on a carved Chinese table. A burlap scroll represented an arrangement representing Van Gogh. A white bowl containing a gay bouquet of mixed flowers was placed on a palette, and many guests commented on the Van Gogh colors in the bouquet, and the resemblance to a Van Gogh still life.

The Colony club centerpiece was a medley of white daffodils, narcissi, lilies, azaleas, rhododendrons and viburnum in an antique tureen of blue and gold china.

Three chapters of Beta Sigma Phi exhibited arrangements. Gamma Rho chapter entered pink blossoms and camellias in a shallow blue-green bowl. A handmade white linen cloth and a table screen of bamboo were accessories. Gamma Xi chapter combined a large piece of driftwood with rock plants and Xi Mu chapter arranged a table with a continental theme. A Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo program, long white gloves and a white beaded bag, and a spray of purple orchids were combined with a rose-colored crystal decanter filled with red wine.

The Junior Service league table also prompted the word "elegant" from viewers. It was covered with green velvet, and on it were placed an ornate gold-framed mirror and a gold and crystal jewel box. Pink camellias in a cut-glass vase completed this display.

A large figurine of a girl, "Le Ruisseau", by Hip Moreau, was the piece de resistance in the entry of the Central Point Garden club. Driftwood, yellow daronicum and tulip leaves were arranged with the statue in a shallow green bowl, and the able covering was brown velvet.

"Water Babies," small china figurines from Copenhagen, Denmark, were arranged on a mirror in the entry by the Medford Lady Lions. A blue glass vase with dainty violets was the centerpiece.

A Madonna of carved wood was featured in the entry of Altrusa club and a brass vase filled with crown of thorns completed the arrangement. Miniature orchids had been placed on the thorns by Mrs. Walter Young, who designed the display.

A rock garden was constructed by Mrs. Neil Davidson on the entrance veranda at Hillcrest house to display six antique bronze figures from her collection. Mrs. Davidson placed a bronze of Narcissus above a shallow white bowl filled with water and white rocks, and she arranged figures of Fortuna, the Dancing Faun and Mercury resting among rock plants and pansies.

A variety of art work was displayed by the Rogue Valley Art Association, the Southern Oregon Society of Artists and the Senior Activity center.

The Shakespearean Festival association, Broadway Theater league, Footlighters and the Civic Music association also had displays.

William Fontaine exhibited nine of his woodcarvings. Mrs. John Winton loaned her potter's wheel, a pottery jar and two mosaics she designed and made.

Mrs. Ernest Barnes exhibited several paintings from her art collection. Mrs. Joe Hearin showed two Chinese scrolls, and Mrs. A. H. Hiebert displayed two handmade enamel cake plates and several collector's items in handmade sterling silver.

Alexander Diepenbrock exhibited three Russian ikons and a caristic church cross on a wood inlay table from Florence, Italy. Yellow chrysanthemums in a fountain bowl and professional lighting were added to his exhibit, which included a very large oil painting, the property of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Anton Prack which has been in the possession of Mrs. Prack's family for generations.

A large revolving dollhouse, completely furnished, added a whimsical note to the displays.

The tea table was decorated in gold and white, and the centerpiece of yellow carnations and purple statice was arranged and donated by Mrs. Dorothy Ginn. Silver services were loaned by Mrs. John Day and Mrs. Ralph Thompson, the cloth of gold and eruv was the property of Mrs. Jerry Olson, and the gold and crystal candleholders were loaned by Mrs. Lemery.

Honored guests invited to pour were Mrs. Hanley Hefner, Mrs. J. P. Tobin, Mrs. Marjorie Pitts, Mrs. John Winton, Mrs. Dunbar Carpenter, Mrs. Leonard Mayfield, Mrs. Robert Sleet, Mrs. Timothy Daily, Mrs. Stephen Nye, and Mrs. Charles Lemery.

Members of the Hillcrest tea committee were hostesses for the tea, and each wore a colorful organza "mob-cap" decorated with flowers, fruit, yarn or amusing bric-a-brac. Background music during the afternoon was provided by John Stong of Purucker's Music house.

The silver tea is given annually for the benefit of the American Cancer Society, and the net proceeds this year exceeded $300.

Mrs. Charles W. Lemery (at left) made the flower arrangement and table setting which won first place in the competition held as part of the annual tea given at Hillcrest house to benefit the American Cancer society. Mrs. Lemery, pictured here with Mrs. John S. Day, a member of the planning committee each year, used pink carnations and blue bachelor buttons in a china compote. The table setting was of antique Limoges china and Venetian glass accented with golden candlesticks holding matching candles.

Annual Award Luncheon Announced For May 11

Medford Jaycees made plans for an annual luncheon and merit award of the year events, and elected the year's officers during a meeting April 17 in the home of Mrs. James Coon, 203 Genesee street.

Mrs. Everett Payton was elected president; Mrs. Wallace Williams and Mrs. William South, first and second vice presidents; Mrs. James Rouhier, secretary, and Mrs. Ted Dow, treasurer. The annual award luncheon this year is set for May 11 in North's Chuck Wagon restaurant. Reservations should be made with the ticket chairman, Mrs. Rouhier, telephone 773-3844.

Deadline for women's organizations to enter candidates is May 8. Mrs. South and Mrs. Williams are co-chairmen for the luncheon. A style show also will be conducted during the afternoon when models will be candidates for the Miss Rogue Valley contest, sponsored by Medford Jaycees.

Any church or organization which has not been contacted for entries in the award contest are invited to contact Mrs. South, telephone 772-8810 for further details. Styles for the models will be furnished by Burelson's Ladies Ready-to-Wear shop.

Jacksonville Pair Married In Noon Rites

Jacksonville - Josephine Schraum and Bruce P. Fleming were married in noon rites April 15 in the New Age church, Eagle Point. The Rev. D. E. Millard officiated and the Rev. and Mrs. Millard furnished the wedding music and songs.

Mrs. Emmett Gillings, a sister of the bridegroom, attended the bride, and Theodore Johnson Jr., was best man.

The bride wore a print dress of pink with white and light blue. Her accessories were white and her corsage was a white orchid.

Mrs. Gillings was dressed in a light blue and white knitted ensemble and her corsage was a purple orchid.

After the ceremony the wedding group was served dinner at the Colony restaurant in Medford.

The couple will live in the bridegroom's home in Jacksonville.

The bride has lived most of her life in Oregon and in Jacksonville for the past four years. The bridegroom, who came to the Jacksonville vicinity in 1916 has been engaged in farming and as an orchardist in Jacksonville.

1913 Graduation Class Plans Reunion in June

Six members of the Medford High school graduation class of 1913 living in this area have banded together to promote a class reunion to be held at Rogue Valley Country club on the evening of June 15. Working on the project are Mrs. Louise Williamson Isaacs, Miss Frances Kenney, Mrs. Edith Wilson Gifford, Mrs. Irene Smith Phetteplace, Mrs. Agnes Robinson Deaver and Herb Alford.

The committee ran into its first difficulty when it was determined that the records of the class of 1913 had been destroyed in a fire at the high school building, then located on Bartlett street. However a program of the graduation exercises was located and also a writup of the ceremonies which appeared in the Medford Mail Tribune were furnished the committee by Ralph Balcom, Seattle.

The Tribune clipping states in part that the class of 1913 consisted of 46 and was the largest in the history of the Medford High school. It also relates that the girls were to wear gowns of their own making with a cost limit of $7.50, some of the girls were making their own trimming of lace.

Of the 46 original members, 13 are no longer living and of the 33 remaining all have been located with the exception of 4. "Lost" are Gladys Hinman, Alberta Jones, Gertrude Schoultz and Elizabeth Blackford. Help in locating these four will be greatly appreciated by the committee, Mr. Alford states.

Although the reunion is two months away, of the 29 contacted 20 have stated that they will attend. Several are as far north as Seattle. One member of the class, Edison Marshall, widely known author now living in Augusta, Ga., states that he will make every effort to be present.

All members of the MHS classes of 1912 and 1914 are also invited to the reunion. Those interested in attending the banquet may write or call Mr. Alford, 517 West Tenth street, Medford, who is in charge of registrations.

Mrs. Larry Lee Nored
