Papastedgios Mows Down Minnesotans; Orioles Keep Lead

United Press International

Milt Pappas' real name is Miltiades Stergios Papastedgios and the there are times he's tougher to hit than he is to pronounce.

Tuesday night happened to be one of those times.

The 23 - year - old Greek righthander mowed down the Minnesota Twins as if they were tenpins, 80 of his 110 pitches being strikes, in a five-hit 1-0 victory that kept the Baltimore Orioles atop the American league.

Pappas pitched superlatively in striking out eight batters without giving up a single walk.

"He started with good stuff and got better as he went along," said Manager Billy Hitchcock. "He kept the ball down all night."

Southpaw Dick Stigman of the Twins pitched well, too, but not quite well enough as the Orioles put together singles by Brooks Robinson and Joe Gaines and Jerry Adair's sacrifice fly for the only run of the game in the second inning.

The up-and-coming Kansas City A's took over second place with a 3-1 triumph over the Detroit Tigers and the Los Angeles Angels nipped the Washington Senators, 5-4, in 10 innings. The only other game scheduled between the Boston Red Sox and New York Yankees was postponed because of wet grounds.

Strikes Out Nine

Ex - Dodger Ed Rakow struck out nine Detroit batters and did not issue a single walk in gaining his second victory for Kansas City with a five-hitter. Errors by Bubba Morton and Dick McAuliffe helped the A's score three unearned runs off Phil Regan. Norm Cash homered for the Tigers.

Jim Fregosi was the man of the hour in the Angel's victory over the Senators. The 21-year-old shortstop helped Los Angeles tie the score with a ninth inning single and then won the game with a 10th inning homer off former Yankee Jim Coates.

Jack Spring, fourth of five pitchers employed by Angel Manager Bill Rigney, was the winner and Coates the loser. Leon Wagner and Ed Sadowski also homered for the Angels while Chuck Hinton paced Washington's 10-hit attack with a homer, triple and a double.

The second fracas was the Raiders' all the way. Seven runs crosse dfor SO in the second frame on four hits, two hit batmen and two errors.

Portland Splits With Salt Lake

United Press International

The Spokane Indians, fast becoming the doormats of the Pacific Coast league, made an admirable effort at Ft. Worth Tuesday night but that fatal combination of the long ball and too many errors came back to haunt them once again.

The Indians took the Dallas-Ft. Worth Rangers to 12 innings before bowing 5-4 on the strength of a solo home run by the Texans' Joe Mossek, the first batter in the bottom of the 12th. Earlier, Spokane aided the opposition's cause by contributing two of its three errors in a three-run Ranger uprising in the second inning.

The loss solidified the Indians' hold on last place in the Pacific Coast league's northern division, four games behind front-running Seattle.

For their part, the Rainiers eliminated the jam-up at the top in the Northern division by taking a day-night doubleheader from Denver, 2-0 and 4-2. The sweep put Seattle a game in front of Portland and Tacoma, tied for second place.

In other games, the Salt Lake City Bees finally made their home debut after four consecutive rainouts by dividing a doubleheader with Portland, winning the opener 5-1 and losing the nightcap 3-1, Tacoma dumped Oklahoma City 3-1 and San Diego shaded Hawaii 5-4.

The Padres' victory put them back into first place in the Southern division standings, a half game ahead of Oklahoma City. The Padres scored all of their runs on homers–two by Art Shamsky and one each by Deron Johnson and Don Pavletich–but had to stave off a ninth inning threat by the Islanders to nail down the win.

The Salt Lake City-Portland twin-bill produced some good pitching by the Beavers' Aurelio Monteagudo and the Bees' Al Lary. Monteagudo spun a three-hitter and struck out 13 batters in the finale, while Lary turned in a three-hitter in the first game. Hector Martinez homered for Portland and Bill Cowan smacked a three-run shot for the Bees in the opener.

At Oklahoma City, Tacoma pitcher Jerry Thomas scattered six hits and struck out 10 to gain his first victory of the year. He was in real trouble only once, loading the bases in the fifth before he got the side out.

Ed Donnelly, who came on in the 10th inning in the Spokane-Rangers contest, gave up only one hit in the three innings he worked while picking up his first win of the year. Thad Tillotson threw the home run ball to Mossek and was tagged with his second setback.

Denver was never able to solve the offerings of Seattle hurlers Pete Smith and Bob Heffner. Smith stopped the Bears on five hits in the first game, then Heffner threw a three-hitter in the second contest.

LINESCORES:

(First game)

Portland	010	000	0—1	3	1
