Settlement Hoped In Boeing Dispute

Seattle — 470 — Top negotiators for the International Association of Machinists conferred again here today after expressing hope for a peaceful settlement of a contract dispute with the Boeing company.

Union officials called on their members to remain on the job at Boeing installations across the country until further notification.

Union and management representatives met Thursday afternoon but could reach no agreement. No time was set for another meeting.

John Sullivan, president of machinists' Seattle Aero Mechanics Lodge 751, said the committee still hoped to resolve the problem without a strike.
