

Students Visit Aquarium In Jacksonville

Jacksonville - Thirty third and fourth grade students from Selma, accompanied by their teacher, Jack Rawls, were recent visitors at the Carbetta aquarium here.

The pupils expressed surprise and interest in the many varieties of tropical fish on display. The group also visited the Jacksonville Museum.

Other visitors at the aquarium recently were Cub Pack Scouts from Phoenix, Tommy Uvies, Nick Marcum, Phillip Lange, Mike Shaw, Dale Lange, Mike Roosen and Timmy Giffin. The boys were accompanied by their Den Mother, Mrs. Dean Marcum and her assistant Mrs. Ben Rooser, all of Phoenix. The Cubs are working on a project concerning life in the sea, and a visit to the aquarium was a part of the study.

The Carbetta aquarium is owned and operated by Carl and Bette Hoskins and is located at 102 West Fir st.

Happy Camp High School English Teacher Resigns

Happy Camp - The resignation of Happy Camp High school English teacher and JV basketball coach Leon Perry has been received by Principal James Foote. It will be effective at the end of the current school term.

Perry has taught here for one year. Previously he taught English for two years at Lawton, Okla. He will now return to Lawton to teach at Thompson Junior High school there.

Perry explained that he and his wife decided to try California living for a year. After doing so, they decided they would prefer to move back to Lawton and be close to their relatives and friends there.

PETITIONS BEING CIRCULATED - Property owners who haven't signed petitions being circulated in the Prospect area to form a rural fire protection district may do so by contacting any of the fire board members, John Morse, Bob Koklin, Joe Josephson, Frank Artmeir or Don Stewart. Mrs.

Koklin and Mrs. Rex Norman may also be contacted. Shown above is the present fire truck used by the area's volunteer fire department. District proponents urge formation of a district in order to improve fire protection facilities in the area.

VISIT FAIR—Parents and other interested persons viewed more than 200 projects at the Central Point Elementary school science fair recently.

Hundreds View CP Science Fair

Central Point - More than 200 projects, ranging from prehistoric times to the space age, were entered in the science fair held recently at Central Point Elementary school.

Among them were exhibits on communication, volcanoes, insect life, rock collections, the solar system and the digestive system of man.

Five hundred Jewett school pupils made a field trip to the fair and more than 200 adults viewed the displays.

Because all entries were on a voluntary basis and to keep interest high, all entrants will receive award certificates, according to Jack McCoy, principal of the elementary school.

Meeting Planned in Butte Falls To Form Fire Department

Butte Falls - A meeting for the purpose of organizing a fire department in Butte Falls will be held here Wednesday, starting at 7:30 p.m. Gordon Barker, chief of the Medford Fire department, is scheduled to attend for the purpose of offering advice to the local residents.

The move to form a fire department is being spearheaded by the city council, announced City Recorder Kissie Edmondson.

City officials hope that formation of a fire department will eventually result in a reduction of fire insurance rates.

Rogue River Girl Wins Elk Lumber Company Scholarship

Rogue River - Miss Becky Irwin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Irwin, of Route 1, Box 297, Rogue River, has been informed that she is the recipient of an Elk Lumber Company scholarship to Lewis and Clark college in Portland.

The award was based upon scholarship achievement and participation in church activities.

Miss Irwin has maintained a 3.8 grade point average in school work while participating in band, F.H.A., and serving as student body treasurer. Outside of school, Miss Irwin is an active member of Hope Presbyterian Church youth groups, teaching a Sunday school class and helping with other church activities.

Valley Authors And Artists Show Work At Shady Cove Tea

Shady Cove - In observance of National Library week the Shady Cove branch library held a tea last Tuesday afternoon from 2 to 5 at the branch library, located at the Treasure Trove in Shady Cove.

Mrs. Ransald Axtell, a friend of the library, was in charge of the tea, assisted by librarians Mrs. Carroll Watson and Mrs. Charles Wells. Two flower arrangements made by Mrs. Floyd Kelley of Shady Cove decorated the tea tables.

Over thirty-five persons attended the tea and were acquainted with the work of the branch library.

The window display was of local talent in connection with books and featured paintings by local artists, Frank Linden, Louise Andre, and Phyllis Reaves and Dorothy Mason of Shady Cove, and Rudella Myklebye and Olga Brill of Trail.

Mrs. Virginia Carpenter of

Shady Cove displayed a ceramic picture. Other ceramic items were entered by Mrs. Ann Briggs. Tumbled rock flower pots and rock bookends were the work of Clara Hanson. Mrs. Rose Kelley displayed a coral collection, and a collection of shells was displayed by Mrs. Anne Silver of the Rogue Elk Fruit stand, Trail.

A glass butterfly together with handmade flower greeting cards were the work of Mrs. Leah Bressler.

Two entries were along literary lines, two books of poetry "The Shoreless Sea" and "Peacocks on the Table" by Mrs. Helen Axtell of the Folding Hills Ranch, Trail, and a book of prose "Bright Passage" by Nancy MacDougall Kennedy, authoress who formerly resided in Shady Cove and now lives at Jefferson, Oregon.

A wood lamp made of manzanita was entered by Mrs. Polly Hammons.

LOCAL WORK - On display at the Shady Cove branch library tea last week were these items made by local artists, left to right, an Indian baby by Dorothy Mason, a tree in bloom by Frank Linden, and a copy of the painting "At the Shrine" copied by Louise Andre from the original by Linford Donovan. The rock flower pots in the foreground were made by Mrs. Clara Hanson.
