

Political Effects Of Rockefeller's Marriage Debated

Washington - Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller's possible remarriage is setting off a greater spate of speculation among Republicans than anything since Wendell L. Willkie came from nowhere to win the 1940 presidential nomination.

The speculation grows with each "no comment" the New York governor gives to questions as to whether he may marry Margaretta Murphy, who was divorced in Idaho last month. Rockefeller was divorced last year after 31 years of marriage.

Fear Damage to Chances

There is a widespread belief within the GOP that remarriage would damage his chances of winning the presidential nomination and the White House - but no one is sure how much.

Those who regard themselves as Republican king-makers are sure to be taking a searching look at other possible choices. The alternatives include George Romney of Michigan, Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona, Gov. William W. Scranton of Pennsylvania and possibly former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, the defeated 1960 nominee.

Fred A. Young, newly elected New York state GOP chairman, said Tuesday he did not believe remarriage would damage Rockefeller's political future.

"If it's a solid marriage, what's wrong with it?" he asked.

'Political Suicide'

But Carl L. Shipley, District of Columbia GOP chairman, said he agreed with voters who had told him it would be "political suicide" for Rockefeller to remarry.

"Nobody thinks it's good, everybody thinks it's bad," said Shipley, "and I have to agree with them."

Other Republicans also are queasy. One GOP leader, respected here for his political judgment, feels that a Rockefeller remarriage would mean losing the votes of many women of middle age and older and would revive the religious issue which marred the 1960 campaign.

The GOP has expected Republican Catholics who voted for President Kennedy would return to the fold in 1964 and most of the Democrats who opposed the President because of his religion to drift back to their party.

4-H NEWS

Pins and Pans

Elizabeth Marciz and Patty Paradis demonstrated the making of oatmeal raisin cookies at a recent meeting of the Pins and Pans 4-H club.

The last cooking meeting will be held May 25 at the home of Mrs. Joe Petrusick. Each member will make a half dozen cookies. A tea will be held for the mothers.

In July, the club will go to a 4-H club camp at Howard Prairie. The camp opens July 16 and ends July 19.

Spareribs

Romeyn Kruiwyk, manager of Western Farmers association, Medford Branch, talked on feed rations for swine at the meeting of the Central Point Spareribs 4-H club and showed slides of the experimental farm in Washington. The meeting was held at the John Crockell residence.

Four members reported on their trip to Oregon State university recently.

Don and Louise Herzog gave a demonstration on preparing a pig for show.

The members had a weighing tour Saturday, starting at the M. L. Frink farm. A judging tour is scheduled for May 4.

The next regular meeting will be held at the C. A. Adams home, May 27, at 1:30 p.m.

Juvenile Council Holds Conference

The Oregon Juvenile Council's annual spring conference was held in Roseburg recently.

Robert Swan, superintendent of Jackson county juvenile detention home, was area chairman and planned the conference around group therapy.

Dr. Stuart E. Atkinson, assistant professor at Southern Oregon college and consulting psychologist for the Jackson County Family and Child Guidance Clinic, spoke at the luncheon upholding the advantages of handling delinquent and disturbed children in group therapy sessions.

Miss Donna Gilkey, director of the Family and Child Guidance Clinic of Jackson county, with Dave Epling, Jackson county parole officer from MacLaren School for Boys, led two active workshops.

Also attending the conference from the Jackson county juvenile department and detention home were Mrs. Frances Swan, matron of the detention home and counselors Robert L. Schmidt, Ivis Clay and Mrs. Ruth Walker.

Lawrence L. Tweedy, director of the Jackson county juvenile court, presided over the day's meeting.

Dick Swan, home from duty at Balboa Naval hospital, was on hand to see his mother and father, Robert and Frances Swan, accept the Oregon Juvenile Council's meritorious award certificate for "service to youth in Oregon" for their outstanding record of time, effort and energies spent toward the betterment of youth.

John Hellock, president of the Oregon Juvenile Council, presented the award.

HELPING HAND

New York - Pedestrians, forced off sidewalks by construction equipment, are getting a helping hand. The city Wednesday began a crackdown on contractors obstructing streets and revoked the permit of a company whose parked crane impeded traffic and forced pedestrians into roadways.

RESULT OF STORM - Grants Pass Sculptor Frank Dannelly was chopping up a tree knocked down by the Oct. 12 storm when he noted that the wood had a fine hard texture and pure white color suitable for sculpture. And so he took up his carving tools and created this bust of Lincoln, which he presented to the Josephine County library this week. (Richard Boyd photo).

Ill Wind Becomes Windfall for Room

By FRISCILLA AVERILL

Grants Pass - The ill wind of last Oct. 12 blew some good this week for the Josephine County library, which received a real windfall in the form of a bust of Lincoln carved by Grants Pass Sculptor Frank Dannelly from a black cottonwood tree which fell in his yard during the storm.

Dannelly, who originally set out to chop the tree for firewood, was intrigued by its fine hard texture and its pure white wood.

Putting aside his axe, he took up his carving tools, and a cottonwood Lincoln now overlooks the American history books on the shelves of the Children's Room.

Dannelly, who has made sculpture and woodcarving his lifelong hobby, is proud of the fact that the hair and whiskers on the bust are separately carved rather than blocked in as usual. He studied art and design in Los Angeles while working as a builder and designer of homes in Fresno, Calif. He came to Grants Pass 10 years ago, after his retirement.

Dannelly says that Oregon has extraordinary native woods for carving. A staunch Oregon booster, he recently won commendation for a booster letter he composed as part of a drive to attract more tourists to Oregon.

Five-Year $378,820 Grant Given Oregon

Eugene - A five-year grant, totaling $378,820, has been received at the University of Oregon for the training of clinical psychologists at the University Psychology Clinic. The grant comes from the National Institute of Mental Health of the U.S. Public Health Service.

Funds for the first year of the grant will amount to $75,764 with equal amounts pledged for each of the following four years providing sufficient funds are appropriated by the Congress. The annual grants represent approximately a $40,000 increase over the money currently available for this training project.

The funds will allow a doubling of the number of graduate students receiving trainee stipends. During the current year, six students have received support, and the NIMH gave permission for four additional students to receive support on a temporary basis.

The university psychology department established the Psychology Clinic in 1954 to provide an on-campus training facility for graduate students who are working toward their Ph.D. degrees in clinical and counseling psychology.

HIGH-PRESSURE LEADER AND SEVEN ACCOMPLICES CAUGHT - GROUP TO MAKE AMENDS THIS WEEKEND!

Eight food salesmen were rounded up today in what is believed to be the greatest piece of detective work ever performed in this area by Lick Bracy. All eight were indicted on a charge of using "high pressure" on Ray Norton, friendly operator of the Groceteria Market. Norton admitted that he was "taken in" with their sad tales of woe, and found himself on the receiving end of enormous shipments of food items.

Norton said that he had conducted business with these culprits in good faith, but they had overloaded his store room. He added that he hadn't taken any action before this time, because of the embarrassment of being "taken" the way he was. All eight were tried and convicted at "extreme" high pressure selling and were sentenced to work at hard labor Friday and Saturday at the Groceteria. They agreed to help lower prices to the bare minimum in order to help Groceteria clear stock.

Few of the group expressed great sorrow for their actions and vowed to get even with Norton, for imposing such a stiff sentence. They said they would slash prices to unheard of lows with "60" second specials whenever Norton wasn't around to watch them. "At least, the customers of Groceteria will forgive and appreciate us when we give them these values this week-end," one was heard to say.
