Handicapped Also Face Discrimination

By GAY PAULEY
UPI Women's Editor
New York—Discrimination is a problem the handicapped also face, says a young polio victim who has written a special guide for residents of and visitors to the nation's largest city. Segregation is not confined to racial or religious minorities, said Sandra Schnur. "It goes for people in wheel chairs too."

Miss Schnur, confined to a wheel chair since she had poliomyelitis in 1950, is the author of a 70-page pocket guide called "New York With Ease." It covers public places—restaurants, theaters, museums, hotels, stores, beauty shops, movies, sight-seeing trips, sports arenas—telling how best the handicapped person can visit them.

Second Work
This is Miss Schnur's second work on the subject of interest to the handicapped, telling what buildings have ramp facilities, whether there is one, two, three or four steps involving in getting in and out of a building. In short, a report on architectural barriers the handicapped person faces.

St. Mary's Concert Announced

Selections from Victor Herbert's "The Fortune Teller" will be featured during the annual Spring choral concert at St. Mary's High school announced for Tuesday, Thursday and Friday, May 7, May 9 and May 10. The concert will begin at 8 p.m. each evening in St. Mary's High school, 818 Black Oak drive. Those in charge point out that no Wednesday concert is scheduled.

Proceeds from the event will be used for school equipment. Students will be admitted at a special price.

One of the choral numbers, "Poor Man Lazarus," a spiritual, was arranged by Jester Hairston, who taught at Southern Oregon college the past summer.

An organ and piano selection is to be played by Ingrid Bergstrom and Sarah Robinson.

ICE CREAM TOPPER

Served warm or cold, banana caramel sauce is a wonderful topping for ice cream, cake or pudding. Cut two medium all yellow bananas into small pieces and force through strainer. In a saucepan, combine pureed bananas with one-half cup of firmly packed brown sugar, one-quarter cup of granulated sugar, one tablespoon of lemon juice and two tablespoons of butter or margarine. Bring to boil, stirring constantly. Boil one minute. Makes one and one-third cups.

The first was in 1958. "I've seen quite a change in the attitude of people since then," said the Bronx girl of "21 plus" years. "When I was doing research on the first one, I'd ask about the number of steps or width of a door... would a wheel chair go through... and they'd hang up."

"Now the attitude is quite changed," Miss Schnur did research by telephone and through visits, and friends supplied additional information for the guide.

Edwina A. Sutes, director of the association's Easter seal society, said architectural barriers are a problem the handicapped face everywhere. He said that nationally there are more than 19 million persons who are crippled so seriously their activities are curtailed.

"More than 20 per cent of these people require rehabilitation care... but once rehabilitated, they face the problem of entering into life of the community," he said.

"We hope that some day all public buildings will have a flight of stairs, doors wide enough to accommodate wheel chairs."

Illustrations are done with humor by the artist Kirk Plowitz.

The author, who lives with her family and does proofreading for a regular income, said that the telephone is one of the greatest assets for the handicapped person. A call to the store, the beauty shop, restaurant or theater usually can iron out any difficulties in advance of the actual visit.

An interesting note as far as New York City's marriage license bureau is concerned, says Miss Schnur's guide: "Believe it, but I don't know, I'll have to go count!"
