Still Waiting

Members of the Ashland Chamber of Commerce are still hoping that one of these days they'll get a chance to hear about the new Bard's Inn motel, now nearing completion on the old Presbyterian church property in Ashland.

A program was scheduled on the motel a couple of months ago, but the builder was detained by a roundabout set of circumstances, involving delay of a plane arrival, caused by bad weather. Then for yesterday's meeting a program again had been scheduled on the new motel, but this time the owners had to be in Portland and were unable to attend.

Meanwhile, the handsome new motel appears as if it were just about ready to open. Some residents were surprised during the winter when they heard the motel operators were already accepting reservations for accommodations during the Shakespearean festival. But now it looks as if the owners knew what they were doing.

Bashaw Named Phoenix Attorney

Phoenix - The Phoenix City Council has decided to appoint E. R. Bashaw, Medford attorney, as city attorney for Phoenix. He will take the place of Richard Cottle of Ashland, who resigned.

In other matters at their Monday night meeting, councilmen heard a request from Richard Peters, part time city police officer, that he be appointed a full time officer. The council agreed, however, that Peters should remain on a part time basis until the city budget for the next fiscal year is drawn up.

The council approved a proposal to have a portion of First st. filled in close to the post office in order to provide more room for parking. A portion of the Douglas McClurg property south of Phoenix was annexed to the city.

And it was announced that Pacific Power and Light company has taken over maintenance of all street lights in Phoenix.

Julius Lusky presented a cornet solo. The program was dedicated to Norman D. Carothers, music instructor at Crater who is convalescing following surgery at a Portland hospital.

The entire group was under the direction of his wife, Mrs. Jean Carothers, Central Point Junior High chorus instructor.

As a token of appreciation for taking over the program with only four days notice, the group presented Mrs. Carothers with an orchid.

Old Little Butte Motel Sold, Now Being Remodeled

By DOTTIE HARBISON
Mail Tribune Correspondent

Eagle Point - The Little Butte motel, built in 1942 to answer the plea for housing at the time Camp White was being built, was sold recently to Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Stotler of White City.

The motel, located on the corner of East Main and South B sts., is being partially removed to make way for the construction of two new homes.

The main home was originally built by a Mrs. Gilbreath and is constructed on a unique pattern with rooms having rounded corners. The house, built of red tile, will be remodeled and either sold or leased by the new owners.

The long row of cabins at the southwest corner of the property is presently being remodeled into a modern dwelling while all of the smaller cabins have been sold and most of them removed. Stotler said the cabins were not modern and he wasn't interested in fixing them up for rentals.

At a latter date he is considering the possibility of putting in a new motel on the south end of the property.

The wash house is being remodeled for a shop.

The large corner lot located directly on Main and South B sts. is being saved for commercial use with the possibility of an eating establishment with covered outdoor eating facilities being erected.

Mrs. Gilbreath sold the Little Butte motel to the Church of the Golden Rule, which used it for retreats after the war. Church members used the main house for dining and meeting rooms and slept in the cabins. After about 10 years they purchased part of the Hanley ranch in Lake Creek, and the motel was sold to Mr. and Mrs. Louis Culy who again rented it out as a motel.

The Culy's owned the motel for about 10 years, recently building themselves a new home in the Ruch area and selling the property to the Stotlers.

Eagle Point Junior Says State Is In Good Hands

Eagle Point - "I think that our state is in pretty good hands," Leonard Hanson announced on his return from visiting the state legislature recently.

He went on to say that everything was well organized and worked out. "One thing I found out, was that only about one tenth of the actual work is done in the general assembly. The rest is done in committee meetings," he commented.
