

Grange News

Pomona Grange

About 100 members of Jackson County Pomona Grange met in Shady Cove recently when Melvin Lattie, master, presided.

In an agriculture report, Roscoe Roberts, state overseer and a local dairyman, reported the HB 1376, a milk price bill, was out of committee and on the floor of the House. The Pomona Grange legislative committee has sent word to Jackson county representatives that the local group favors the bill.

Dee Hendricksen stated that it was too early to assess frost damage to fruit trees. Delmar Smith reported that honey bees are the most resistant to poison of any bee, but that it cannot do the job of pollination needed with the present high percentage of spray poison it encounters.

A memorial service was arranged by the chaplain, Willie McLean, Tableaus were given and a solo was sung by Mrs. John Patrick.

Bert Caster spoke on the 1964 wheat program. He explained that there are four main objectives in the program, fair price for producer and consumer; an orderly reduction of stocks; protection of other commodities; and reduction of government costs. He stated there would be a new market quota, a new national allotment and the wheat growers income would stay at a favorable level.

He urged all wheat growers to register in time to vote May 21.

Myrtle Hixson, home economics chairman, reported that there are 15 active groups in the county with 233 members.

A Home Economics luncheon, honoring past chairmen, will be held May 8 at Upper Applegate Grange. Mrs. Crouch, district chairman, will be there and all members are invited.

Mrs. Larry Sheehan, who is moving from the area, resigned as Ceres and Mrs. Ethel Lacey was elected to replace her.

Among resolutions presented to the Grange was an endorsement of the address given before a joint meeting of the Senate and House committee on the revision of the state constitution. In the address, C. H. Brooks of the Oregon State Grange legislative committee, reminded legislators that the Oregon constitution always has been considered a fine document except for a few outdated rulings, and that all the people wanted was to have these rulings changed. He said the Oregon State Grange has gone on record as opposing any changes which remove a single right of the people and Grangers feel the new constitution would do this.

He urged the two committees to bring the old constitution up to date and present it to the people, and asked them to vote down the new constitution and thus save the taxpayer hundreds of dollars by keeping it off the ballot.

Alva Walker was elected as insurance delegate to the annual meeting in June and Mrs. Willie McLean as alternate delegate to the state convention.

Central Point Grange

The recent meeting of Central Point Grange opened with the officers seating drill. Reports of standing committees were given. Those reporting were Arnold Bohmer, agriculture, stated that prices on hay and grain were looking up.

Delmar Smith reported on the number of cattle and swine slaughtered in a local meat plant. Dee Hendricksen reported on the horticulture situation.

HEC chairman Mrs. Morris Frink asked all Central Point Grange women to bring sandwiches for the meeting May 17, as this will be a special event when Roxey Ann Grange will confer the third and fourth degrees on candidates from several Granges at the Central Point hall.

On the display table were photos of mothers of Grange members, and a decorated cup and saucer sent by Mrs. Walter Mang who now lives at Santa Cruz. The next meeting of the HEC club will be held with Mrs. Mad Madsen May 22.

The lecturer Mrs. James Cornutt presented a Mother's Day program.
