MANOR-ISMS . . . .

By ETHELYN EVANS

In addition to describing the Manor and reporting our activities and good times — from time to time, as you know, I like to write about unusual talent or hobbies of members and a bit about their interesting life careers. Practically, I could well select such members by blind-folding myself and sticking a pin in almost any name on any page of the Manor directory. This time the subject of my theme song is a sister team from California: Mrs. Madge Mundy Blackwood and Miss Emmabee Mundy. Having to Jackson county was, for them, returning to the "lands of their fathers," so to speak. Their great-grandparents came over the covered wagon route as far as Coos Bay, Ore. (not the site of the present city), but turned back. However, a son, Dr. Andrew Overbeck, and wife, grandparents of our members, later returned and settled in Jacksonville, Ore. Dr. Overbeck was the first physician in Jacksonville and built the first hospital there. Fire destroyed all buildings, but, thanks to the Peter Britt collection, Miss Claire Hanley was able to have enlargements made from old photographs and gave them to the sisters, who are now assembling old family daguerotypes to present to the Museum. Dr. Overbeck, his wife and three of their children are buried in the old cemetery in Jacksonville. Although their mother, Amelia Overbeck, was born in Jacksonville, she moved to Missouri for schooling, was married and remained there during her lifetime.

Student Honored

Fredrich F. Burich, son of Dr. and Mrs. Fred T. Burich, 2303 Hillcrest road, class valedictorian of the 1961 graduating class of St. Mary's High school, who now is attending Seattle university, recently has been initiated into Alpha Sigma Nu, a men's honor society.

Membership in the society, which has chapters in Jesuit institutions of higher learning throughout the nation, is open to eleven junior and senior men who have exhibited high academic achievement, loyalty and service to the university. Mr. Burich, a 4.0 honor roll student, is currently participating in the university's Honors Program, under the directorship of Thomas L. O'Brien, S. J. This program, which has been judged the best of its kind in the nation, is partially subsidized by a grant from the Ford foundation.

Emphasis is placed upon the student's ability to think and to write independently for the program's classroom seminars which are conducted by means of the dialogue method instead of the traditional lecture system. The Honors Program is presently conducted for two years which constitute the student's freshman, sophomore and junior years.

Mr. Burich, who recently scored in the 99 percentile in the university's scholarship examination based upon a comparison of college sophomores in the nation plans to major in history and philosophy.
