

The Family Council

Editor's note: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, three editors and a women's editor. Each article is a summary of a family disagreement presented to the council. The council deals with problems, major and minor, encountered by guidance counselors and social workers. Edited by Mrs. Alma Denay. (Copyright by General Features Corp.)

Mrs. C. A.—You should put an end to her "going steady." Dolly B.—That would only make them sorry for each other.

Mrs. C. A.—For a year now, my 16-year-old granddaughter has been keeping steady company with a 17-year-old boy, a dull fellow who goes to a private school. He's a year behind Sue's grade, and he's made her lose all interest in her studies. I'm puzzled by my daughter's wishy-washy attitude. She should warn Sue about the harm, forbid her to see the boy so much, and drum up other dates for her. What's a parent for?

Dolly B.—My mother thinks it's easy to end a teen-age attachment, but I've tried everything — showing Sue articles and statistics about misery from steady dating, getting my friends' sons to invite her out. What happened? Now she wears Gary's ring and lets him drive her to school every day, and wait to take her home. The more we try to discourage the thing, the more she seems to feel like a martyr.

The Council: Let her feel like a martyr, Dolly. Let her "suffer for love," but, as a mother, speak out loud and clear so she'll do what's wise and right no matter how she feels right now. Regardless of this teen-ager's dramatic talk and defiant rebuttal, she wants to be stopped. Adolescents get themselves on runaway horses and then pray that a strong restraining hand will grip the reins and save them. Mrs. A. is right. Dolly must lay down the law and try to enforce it, emphasize

Applications Being Taken for Theater

Eugene — Applications are still being received from persons interested in becoming members of the Carnival Theater company, a summer theater operation at the University of Oregon. Prospective members may apply either for full-time or part-time membership. A few high school students, nominated by their teachers, also will be accepted as full-time members.

Scheduled to operate June 17 through Aug. 10, Carnival Theater will present a new play each Friday and Saturday. Titles of the productions will be announced following the selection of cast members; however, the summer theater will be comprised of musicals, revue, melodrama, comedy, drama and children's theater.

Original Art Works Offered For Sale

Ashland — Original works of art by Southern Oregon college students may be purchased at the Britt Student center from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. daily, May 24, 25 and 26. Dr. James Doerter, head of the art department, explained that such art objects were unique, and that many art lovers were now in the field of collecting representative samples, not only for the aesthetic values pertaining to them but as a form of speculation as well. Thirty-five per cent of the profits of the sale will be contributed to art scholarships.

Certificates Awarded To Area Bank Personnel

"Every banker must have intelligence, integrity, and courage and these can be gained by study and work," according to William Merrill, who addressed about 100 members of the Rogue Valley Chapter, American Institute of Banking, at their annual banquet recently in Ashland. Merrill, who is the executive councilman for this district, is from the National Bank of Washington at Tacoma. Merrill congratulated the chapter on finishing the first year with more than 75 students enrolled in courses, and 140 members. He explained why education is needed today to compete in a fast moving economy. He also encouraged women to enroll in courses because "two-thirds of employees in banks today are women." Merrill said he would like to see all bankers in southern Oregon take advantage of the education and leadership training offered by the American Institute of Banking. He explained there also is a leadership training conference each year. This year it will be held in Salem in July and he encouraged members to attend. New officers of the local chapter were installed. They are Edwin Christie, Central Point branch, First National Bank, president; Kenneth Swan, Grants Pass branch, First National Bank, first vice president; Mrs. Vievea Redmond, Medford branch, First National Bank, second vice president; Miss Jean Bitterling, The Rogue Valley branch, The Oregon Bank, secretary; and Mrs. Viola Purrier, Southern Oregon State Bank, treasurer. New members of the board are Louis Gauthier, Southern Oregon State Bank in Grants Pass, and Pat Rashko, Medford branch, the United States National Bank.
