

Siskiyou Awards Dinner Is Held

Ashland - The first annual Siskiyou Awards dinner for staff members of the Southern Oregon college newspaper, was held in Ashland recently with Dr. Francis D. Haines Jr., SOC associate professor of history, delivering the main address.

Presiding over the function was The Siskiyou editor-in-chief, Fred W. Heard, Klamath Falls. Heard recapped the year and gave special thanks to "a very loyal staff." He introduced Hugh G. Simpson, director of information at Southern Oregon college, who presented the entertainment event of the evening consisting of vocal selections to guitar accompaniment.

Dr. Harold Barrett of the SOC speech department was designated as outstanding faculty member of the year and Robert Casebeer, Riddle, designated as outstanding student. Dr. Barrett will teach next year in Alameda, Calif., and Casebeer will work as an SOC faculty member this summer and teach at Riddle High school again this fall.

Editorial board member, Lowell Lux, North Bend, presented the staff awards to members present. Awards also were designated to staff members unable to attend.

In the address delivered by Dr. Haines, who is presently on leave of absence to Bellingham, Wash., he referred to "Galahad in Academe." He centered the talk around the search for excellence.

"Excellence is a performance that stands out from the ordinary," he said. He used Galahad's search for the Holy Grail to demonstrate the fact that the odds are often against the man who tries to find excellence, and closed by saying, "The foundation of higher education is the devotion for the search for truth."

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

AN ARTISTIC Indian erected a new wigwam and decorated it with costly manufactured baubles, purchased via a mail order catalogue. His neighbors, miffed because the new wigwam was getting too much attention, disparaged his efforts. Snickered they, "Cheap Sioux veneer!"

Windstorms in Kansas? Former Governor Alf Landon tells of one that was a whopper. At its height, a farmer was seen driving a combine lickerly-split down the State highway. "Where ya goin', Jeff?" called a neighbor anxiously. The farmer called back, "I planted that wheat and I'm going to harvest it if I have to chase it all the way to Mexico!"

The water up at Campobello, erstwhile summer residence of President and Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, was very chilly, and discouraged all but the hardiest of swimmers. Mrs. F.D.R. went for a dip every day—and invariably emerged trembling with the cold. "Do you really enjoy swimming in such frigid water?" a visitor asked her one particularly cold day. "As a matter of fact," confided Mrs. F.D.R., her teeth chattering, "I loathe it. I force myself to go in each day. It's good for my character!"

Grange News

Upper Applegate
John Patrick, former Eagle Point High school member of the Future Farmers of America, showed slides and described his trip with the Oregon FFA "People to People" delegation in 1962 at the meeting of the Upper Applegate Grange recently.

Patrick thanked the Granges for their contributions toward financing his trip and pointed out the advantages of sending young persons interested in agriculture into the various countries for a first hand look at the actual achievements under different political and economic systems.

Not only do the future farmers who take the trip benefit, Patrick said, but they find that the youth at home readily understand and accept the views of someone in their own generation, he stated.

Several guests attended the meeting. Roscoe Roberts, county deputy, and Melvin Lattie, Jackson County Pomona master, were present.

Melvin and Beverly Saltmarsh were obligated in the third and fourth degrees by Roberts. Upper Applegate received the award from Pomona Grange for having the most members taking the third and fourth degrees at the ceremony at Central Point May 17.

A report of the Mother's Day dinner at the Grange hall was given by Dana Gearhardt, home economics chairman. The Grange voted to sponsor a barbecue and camp-out for square dancers at the Upper Applegate hall June 15.

Mildred Redhead, chaplain, presented sets of the new edition of the "Patron" song book given to Upper Applegate Grange by Cipena Davis in memory of Harry Davis, and by Mrs. Mildred O'Donnell in memory of Verna Culy. Grange Sunday will be June 2 with observance at the Ruch church. A pot luck dinner will follow the services at the Grange Hall.

Roberts spoke briefly on the importance of farm liability insurance and comparative rates and coverages available through the Grange.

Mrs. Mildred Crouch, home economics chairman for District 1, was a guest of the Upper Applegate club May 28.

Mr. and Mrs. Glen Williams and Mr. and Mrs. John Byrne served refreshments.
