

Fishermen Compete For Hefty Records

Kailua - Kona, Hawaii - Deep sea fishermen who participate in the fifth annual Hawaiian International Billfish Tournament this summer will have some hefty records facing them.

The tourney mark for the biggest catch was achieved last year by Lt. Cmdr. Leo Brown, representing the Pearl Harbor Naval Air Station, who boated a 804-pound Pacific Blue Marlin.

In the same tournament, 90-pound Mrs. Pat Peacock brought to gaff a 72 1/2-pound Silver Marlin - for which a world record has been claimed.

NUN PRESIDES—The children have not attended this Louisiana school, Our Lady of Good Harbor No. 2, since it was ordered desegregated by the archdiocese of New Orleans. Here a nun presides alone. (UPI)

Desegregated School Remains Empty Except for Instructors

By I. J. VIDACOVICH and DON SWANSON

United Press International - Buras, La. - It's been a long, lonely year for a little red brick school building in this South Louisiana fishing and farming community.

The school, Our Lady of Good Harbor No. 2, joined thousands of schools across the country in opening its doors to classes last fall. But after the first week there were no students.

Each day for the following nine months a Franciscan priest and two nuns opened the doors to the Roman Catholic school. But no children came.

Our Lady of Good Harbor No. 2 was one of 185 schools ordered desegregated by the archdiocese of New Orleans. Located deep in the Plaquemines parish, heart of the political empire of Louisiana strongman Leander H. Perez Sr., the small brick building became a center of controversy.

Perez, an outspoken leader of segregationists, vowed the school would be boycotted by white students if Negroes were admitted. The Rev. Christopher Schneider, pastor of the parish church, said the school would abide by the orders of the archdiocese and urged white parents not to boycott.

4 Negroes Attend

Four Negroes and a small group of white students attended classes on the first day. The following day the Negroes did not return and the number of white students had declined. In a matter of days there were no students—and they never returned.

Every day Father Schneider crosses the highway and opens the doors of the school. The ritual is symbolic of the determination of the archdiocese to keep the school open, students or not.

Application blanks for school enrollment for next year have gone out. None have been returned thus far.

One parish official, commenting on the fact the church would try to get students in the school next fall, said "I don't think the people will go for it."

Press Present

Last year when Our Lady of Good Harbor No. 2 opened its doors for the first day of classes only a handful of people, most of them newsmen and police officers who had heard rumors of the move, were on hand.

When the word spread throughout the parish that four Negroes had attended classes it produced a larger crowd the following day. The people remained peaceful, except for an occasional remark as the children entered the school.

The watchers outside brought beach umbrellas, sprayed the grass to keep down the mosquitoes, and a sound truck played "Dixie." But after a few days they were gone and so were the children.

In contrast, the public schools at Buras showed an enrollment increase that was in almost direct proportion to the dropouts at Our Lady of Good Harbor No. 2.

The archdiocese is determined to keep the school open. It remains to be seen whether the total boycott will continue to exist next fall.

Battle Lines Drawn For Squabble Over Another Space Trip

By ALVIN B. WEBB JR.

Cape Canaveral - (UPI) - The United States has the wherewithal to challenge Russia's most spectacular manned space-flight records this year—but it may pass up the opportunity.

This nation apparently is ready to concede the Soviet Union an additional 18 months in propaganda value, and possibly new strides in research, in sending men out to conquer space en route to the moon.

And the usually free-spend National Aeronautics and Space Administration is trying to decide whether to put another $10 million into the present Mercury program one-man flights or use the money in moving ahead with two and three-man missions.

Battle Lines Drawn

The battle lines are drawn. Washington's stand is led by NASA Administrator James E. Webb, who said flatly there will be no more Mercury flights "unless we find a gap in information"; and his associate administrator, Robert Seamans, who called such a flight "quite unlikely."

The astronauts of Houston, on the other hand, want another Mercury mission and they made a point of telling President Kennedy so during ceremonies honoring Cooper. Kennedy quoted them as saying the flight would be worthwhile and "useful."

But Kennedy also made it emphatic that NASA would have the "final judgment"—and right now, the space agency's Washington head has the high cards.

Plans Being Made For Celebration

Ashland - "Ring the Bells for Liberty" will be the theme of the 1963 Independence Day celebration. Preliminary plans were discussed at a luncheon meeting recently at the Mark Antony hotel.

Clinton Lorbeer is general chairman of the day-long festivities July 4, and will head a committee composed of representatives from civic and business groups.

Al Brown heads the parade committee, and is making special effort to enlist the interest of children and youth groups. Bands, floats, equestrian units and marching groups will be featured in the morning parade along Siskiyou Blvd. to Lithia park where the band concert and amusement concessions will be the afternoon attractions. The Lions club will be in charge of booths at the park entrance and adjacent areas.

Tentative plans are under way for a horse show by the Wranglers and as usual there will be nighttime fireworks in charge of the Jaycees.

The Ashland celebration has become an outstanding event and one which attracts thousands of visitors from northern California and southern Oregon.

Wyatt Earp TV Show Loses Star's Double

Hollywood - (UPI) - Morgan Woodward has been signed by producer Richard Bernstein for the top featured role of sheriff's deputy in Allied Artists' "The Gun Hawk."

Woodward had been the second lead throughout the "Wyatt Earp" television series.
