Ashland - Four Southern Oregon college trackmen will be at the NAIA national meet in Sioux Falls, S.D., for the Saturday events.

Those representing SOC are: Fred Thomas, Bill White, Mike Hanby, and Spike Gordon. Besides these four Raiders, ten other top trackmen from Oregon will participate.

The Raider four were chosen after SOC placed first in the District 2 NAIA track tournament.

Thomas, high point man in the district meet, captured first place in the broad jump, triple jump, and placed second in the hundred. White took a first place in both the high and low hurdles, while Hanby and Gordon are two top pole vaulters with records exceeding 14 feet.

Bob Charles Paces Golf Qualifying

Atlanta - (UPI) - The final eight berths in the sectional trials for the U. S. Open golf championship were filled on Wednesday and it still appears the men to watch, in addition to the big name pros, are Bob Charles and Stan Thirk.

Charles, a 27-year-old left-handed swinger from New Zealand, led the nation in the first round tests, held at 56 cities throughout the United States, with a blazing 65-67-132 at Memphis Tuesday.

Thirk, a Kansas City pro, carded a neat 133 the day before in his home district trials.

The two sharpshooters, along with 481 other top linksmen, will take to the courses in the sectional tests at 13 cities June 10-11. Those survivors - after the field is trimmed to 129 - plus 21 other stars exempt from qualifying, will tee off in the Open championship at Brookline, Mass., June 20.

Among those exempt from qualifying, on the basis of their records, were defending champ Jack Nicklaus, Arnold Palmer, Gary Player, Gene Littler and Bill Casper.

Unlawful To Pick Up Fawn Deer

Portland - All outdoor users are reminded by the game commission that it is illegal to pick up fawn deer or any other young animal or bird found in the wild.

With camping, fishing and other outdoor uses now getting in full swing for the summer, outdoorsmen will be coming across many of these young creatures in their travels through the fields and forests of the state.

Foremost on the list are well-meaning individuals who are taken in by one of mother nature's most beautiful creatures, baby deer. The first reaction of the individual is to pick up the "deserted" creature and take it home for a pet and thus become a benefactor of wildlife. Such action on the part of the individual may prove dangerous as well as costly.

Oregon law states that it shall be illegal for anyone to hold in captivity any bird or animal of the state without a permit from the game commission. According to the commission, no permits are issued for keeping fawn deer as pets. Anyone who picks up a fawn and holds it in captivity is subject to prosecution under the law.

Can Be Dangerous
This ruling is to protect both the fawn deer and the people involved. Not only does captivity put the fawn deer in unnatural surroundings but often, as the fawn grows older, this cute little creature can become dangerous. In the past, many persons have been seriously injured by the slashing hooves or sharp-tined antlers of their P.s.

Nature has amply provided fawn deer with spotted coats for camouflage and consequent protection from predators. In addition, female deer often leave their young while they forage, and fawns, dependent on their protective camouflage, will allow persons to come near and even pet them without moving. Often the mother is frightened away from her young by the interloper but will return promptly when danger is past. And don't be misled, for the fawn deer is not lost or abandoned.

Only close observation should be the extent of the individual's relation with fawn deer. The commission advises them to back off and leave the little fellow right where he is found.

Boxer Clay Is Ring's Own Orator

London - (UPI) - Like any fast-talking circus barker Cassius Clay appreciates an audience.

Wednesday, heavyweight contender Clay, boxing's gift to the world of poetry and oratory, stormed out of a London television studio when an interviewer told him "you talk too much."

Clay, who bills himself as the "Louisville Lip," boasted to television interviewer David Coleman that he once had former heavyweight champion Ingemar Johansson "out on his feet" during a sparring session.

Apparently Irritated
Cassius, who has received rough treatment by British boxing writers since his arrival here to prepare for a fight with British heavyweight Henry Cooper, apparently irritated Coleman with his answers.

The one that finally broke Coleman's patience had to do with how much money Clay has made for his manager. "I don't know how much he has made. All I know is how much I've made," Clay reported.

"Mr. Clay, you talk too much," snapped Coleman.
"Look here, this is way past my bedtime," came back Clay. "I didn't have to come to this place. If you think I talk too much, I'm just leaving."

And he stormed from the studio.

SCORES KNOCKOUT

Seattle - (UPI) - Eddie Cotton, Seattle lighthweight, sought more action today after scoring a third-round knockout over Honeyman Peterson, Springfield, Ohio, in their scheduled 10-rounder here. Cotton, who returned to the ring wars after a long lay-off because of a broken hand suffered in a bout with Mauro Mina of Peru, put Peterson away at 2:37 of the third with a withering right to the mid-section. The Seattle fighter weighed 173 while Peterson came in one pound lighter.
