Phoenix High School
 Edited by Lynn Morrison and Sherry Schwietzer

History was made recently when the consolidated high school of Phoenix and Talent elected its first female president. Presiding over student affairs next year will be Pam Grove.

Other student body officers elected were Ken Hawkins, vice president; Michele Dube, secretary, and Cynthia Owens, treasurer.

Danny Beeson, John and Ted Barker, Billy Bagley, Dale Sauer, Danny Cooper, Jim Consiuck, and Ron Williams are possible prospects for the Conifer Physical Fitness Camp for 1963 at Verdale, Wash. The camp is held during June, July, or August. Swimming, basketball, fishing and golf are a few of the sports in which the boys may participate.

A statewide language clinic was held at the University of Oregon in Eugene recently. Four students were chosen on the basis of classwork and grades to attend from Phoenix High. They were Jay Thomas, Spanish II; Teresa Mata, Spanish III; Lorna Fowler, German II; and Stuart Vencill, German III. Johns Kuchler accompanied the group.

Two PHS students, Mary and Mike Langley, have interrupted their high school careers to take a trip around the world. Along with their parents and other brothers and sister, the Langleys will spend "a couple of years" on their 74-foot cruiser, visiting Mexico, Hawaii, and "any other places which catch our fancy."

Next year, Phoenix will add another new organization to the realms of the student council. This group, which is going to be called the "Alpine club," will cater exclusively to students interested in winter sports, such as ice skating, snow-skiing and tobogganing.

Four Phoenix High students will attend the eighth annual Junior Engineers' and Scientists' Summer Institute (JESSI) this summer.

Students attending this year are Fred Swingle, John Homer, Sue Thrapp, and Lois Rasmussen. Teresa Mata is awaiting confirmation of her acceptance.

At a meeting of the Lettermen's club recently, officers were elected for the next school year.

Dave Westfall, junior, was elected president; Jim Consiuck, sophomore, was elected vice president, and Dennis Grennan, a junior, was chosen to be secretary-treasurer.

MANOR GIFTS—Two gifts of cash, to aid members who during their residency in the Rogue Valley Manor need financial assistance, were received by the Manor this week. One of the gifts, for $3,000, was made by George C. Flanagan (center), writing the check and Elk Lumber company. The other gift of $700 from an anonymous giver. Looking at one of the checks is Walter M. Higgins, (left) administrator of the Manor. Looking on is Melvin N. Hogan, president of the Rogue Valley Manor corporation. Flanagan, in addition to being general manager of Elk Lumber company, is treasurer of the Manor. (Knackstedt photo).

Manor Receives Two Gifts

The Rogue Valley Manor today was the recipient of two gifts to aid in caring for members who, during their residency in the Manor, need financial assistance.

One gift of $3,000 was made by George C. Flanagan and Elk Lumber company with the provision that it be specifically used for the care and help of Manor members who may need financial assistance. The other was an anonymous gift of $700.

Generous gifts like these make it possible for the Manor to continue to assist some of its members who otherwise would not be able to pay their way. Walter M. Higgins, Manor administrator, explained following the presentation.

The gifts and others like it, Higgins continued, have made the Manor serve a far wider group of people than it would otherwise be able to do. As a regular part of the program from the opening of the Manor receives worthy people into membership by special arrangements, who otherwise would not be able to enter
