
This Week's Plan for Home Builders

By HIAWATHA ESTES

Are you looking for ideas which will make your home more striking and distinctive? If so, you should carefully analyze this exciting and thrilling new concept in home design. Most of the advantages of both one and two story construction are offered in this unusual layout.

Low hanging lights are suspended above twin planters which flank steps leading to the front porch of this contemporary designed home. A door also opens from the garage to this roofed porch.

From the wide double entry doors, there is an excellent traffic pattern making it possible to go from one area to another without disturbing the activities in any particular room.

Accessible from Entry

The den or bedroom is accessible from the entry so it could double as an office. If preferred, this door could be eliminated as another door opens to the rear hall.

The spacious living room appears even larger due to the partial wall separating it from the hall. Note the interesting corner fireplace design.

The large family room-kitchen area is accessible from the entry hall. Only cabinets separate these two rooms. This feature, together with the sliding glass doors in the family room, visually enlarges both areas. The eating bar is for family meals. The patio would be a wonderful spot for the enjoyment of outdoor meals.

When entertaining, a drop leaf table in the family room could be used or else a door could be located in the living room-family room wall and a portion of the oversized living room utilized as a dining area.

Laundry Facilities

The laundry facilities and broom closet are located in the service. There is additional space here from a freezer, serving cart or more storage closets. The bath can be entered from both the service and the entry hall.

Complete privacy is assured for the two bedrooms on the second floor. Notice the abundance of storage space on this floor. Two closets open to the master bedroom and one to the other bedroom besides the wardrobe each has in its private dressing area. Each dressing room features a pullman lavatory.

A bath opens to each of these areas. There is sufficient space in this dressing - bath complex that, if preferred, it can be redesigned to provide two separate baths plus a dressing area for the master bedroom.

Complete working drawings for this plan can be purchased at a cost of $7.50 for the first set and $5 for each additional set when ordered at the same time. This plan will be available at these prices until Sept. 19. Please allow two to three weeks of delivery. The following home plan books are also available: Hallmark Homes, $1; Award Homes, $1; Town and Country Homes, $1; Homes for Living, $1; Homes of Distinction, $1; Ranch and Modern Homes, $2. All books a $7 value, only $5. Send all orders for either plans or books to: Hiawatha Estes, post office box 404-T, Northridge, Calif.

Class Placement Consideration for Children Important

By DAVID NYDICK
UPI Education Specialist

This is the time of the year to give careful consideration to your child's class placement for September. Does your child have special needs which should be brought to the attention of the school?

It is possible the school will not be aware of situations existing in the home which might affect the proper choice of teachers. A parent should inform the school of any physical difficulties such as rheumatic fever, visual defects, or hearing handicaps. Social problems with classmates are important. Let the school know if father or mother is away from home for extended periods of time.

Sometimes placement with a particular teacher presents a conflict. This could occur when a teacher is a social friend of the family.

Many Factors Valuable

There are many factors which are valuable to the school in making a placement decision. These should be indicated either to the teacher, guidance counsellor, or principal. The principal is in the best position to match children's needs with a teacher best qualified to handle them.

Another important decision is that of retention, promotion, or acceleration. This should not be considered as a reward or punishment. Unfortunately many people look at it in just that way. Actually the purpose is to serve the best interests of the child.

Each case must be weighed separately. There is no rigid rule which holds true for all individuals. A careful evaluation by the teacher, school psychologist, principal, and parent is necessary. The school philosophy and program must be involved in these decisions. In most schools the policy is flexible and based upon the judgment of the professional staff.

If your child is having difficulty, find out why. This will often give a clue to the correct decision. A physical difficulty should be brought to the attention of a physician. Psychological problems should also receive therapy. Sometimes tutoring is needed in one or more academic areas. No decision will be fully helpful unless the cause of the problem is treated.

Frustration Involved

One of the most important problems involved in promotion is frustration. A child who is placed in a grade where the work is too difficult will be facing impossible tasks. He may become discouraged as he realizes that he has no chance for success. A child in this situation may lose confidence. He may seek attention by becoming a behavior problem or he may become shy and retiring. In any case the results are usually serious emotional and social problems. Obviously a child should be placed where he has the opportunity to be successful.

The school wants to place the child properly. You can be helpful if you supply information that is applicable. Close cooperation between parents and school will be of major benefit to the child.

DOES 'GOOD DEED'

Herne, Germany – UPI – Police said a 7-year-old boy who handed 100 mark ($20) bills to passersby Thursday said he found the money in a neighbor's home and wanted to "do a good deed."
