

Official Social Season Is Ended in Washington

By HELEN THOMAS
 United Press International
 Washington - (UPI) - The White House curtain came down Monday night on another hit social season for President and Mrs. Kennedy.

The occasion was a state dinner honoring the president of India, Sarvepalli Radhakrishnan, and featured the Kennedy's famous formula for entertaining - relaxed conviviality, quips and culture.

The Indian president returns the gesture with a luncheon in honor of President Kennedy at the Indian Embassy today, and then meets with the President at the White House for a conference at 4 p.m. (edt).

The 164 guests Monday night got a kick out of the President when he got up in the state dining room to propose a toast "to the president of India - wherever you are."

The guest of honor was in the blue room dining at a round table on the First Lady's right, President Kennedy also paid tribute to Dr. Radhakrishnan's background as a distinguished teacher and professor.

"Here in the United States," he said, "we have never gone as far, nor may I say to Prof. Kenneth Galbraith (the American ambassador to India) do we plan to go so far, as to make a professor of the president of the United States. But we admire those countries that do."

Mrs. Kennedy, who is expecting a baby in August, wore a striking strapless pink crepe gown encrusted with beads. She had worn the dress last January at the unveiling of the Mona Lisa ceremony. A diamond sunburst pin sparkled in her coiffure.

After dining on aspic of salmon, roast lamb and a "bombe" of ice cream with peaches, guests were led to the East Room for a performance of Mozart's "The Magic Flute."

Miss Tuckerman New Secretary At White House

Washington - (UPI) - A petite, attractive brunette took over command of White House social activities yesterday from Letitia Baldrige who has resigned to work for the Kennedy family in Chicago.

Miss Nancy Tuckerman, a former roommate of First Lady Jacqueline Kennedy at Miss Porter's School in Farmington, Conn., said she still has a "lot to learn" about her new job as social secretary.

Nicknamed "Tuck" or "Tucky," Miss Tuckerman has been visiting the White House for the past month to be briefed on presidential protocol, partying and planning by "Tish" Baldrige.

She is attractive with golden brown hair and blue eyes and dresses fashionably. For the past 10 years she has been a New York travel agent. Previously, Miss Tuckerman was secretary at Miss Chapin's school.

She is a "political independent."

Miss Baldrige is leaving the White House to work for the Kennedy family enterprise in Chicago, the Merchandise Mart, starting July 1.

Local strawberry time is here again. Rogue River Valley Strawberry Growers association members have announced that the season will get under way this week. Strawberry Rose Pie with fresh strawberries, and chilled strawberry flavor gelatin makes a cool, refreshing dessert. Top with whipped cream and halved strawberries.

Strawberry Rose Pie Is Cool Refreshing Dessert

It's strawberry time again. Local strawberry growers have announced that the season will begin this first week in June with the season to peak about June 10 to June 20.

This scrumptious seasonal fruit makes desserts such as shortcake, tarts and pies real family pleasers.

A bright flavored treat is Strawberry Rose Pie made from the fresh berries "set" in strawberry flavor gelatin. This makes a cool, refreshing filling for a crisply baked pie shell. This pie also can be made throughout the season from other fruits or berries and fruit flavor gelatin. A suggestion, fresh blueberries and grape gelatin.

Shepard Book Is Reviewed For Study Club

Ashland - "Forgive Us Our Press Passes" by Elaine Shepard, known to thousands of Navy men as the Female Ernie Pyle, was the book reviewed on Monday afternoon by Mrs. Angela Sharyon when Ashland Study club met.

The young international correspondent with an amazing background of motion picture stardom, television and radio broadcasting, journalism and modeling, writes a pungent first-hand commentary on social and political life in all parts of the world.

Miss Shepard's experiences range from riots in Panama, a tete-a-tete with Castro (who borrowed her coat to smooth his beard) to Moscow with its surveillance and skepticism of all things American. Her one disappointment came when she was refused clearance to travel to the South Pole, ostensibly because no feminine toilet facilities were available. However she did achieve something of note when she was assigned to President Eisenhower's staff of correspondents touring the Middle East - the only woman among 82 press men.

Mrs. Clifford Maust discussed "Your Savings Account of Memories" in a short talk on the value of keeping a diary. She recommended the practice as an excellent way to settle arguments and remarked that "A diary brings its own reward and relaxation."

Mrs. R. Drew Lamb presided at the meeting which was held at the home of Mrs. Faith McCullough. The final session of the study club will be the annual luncheon set for June 17 at the home of Mrs. Horace Myers when the book review will be given by Mrs. Harry Skerry and Mrs. Harold Merrill will have the selected subject. Officers for the coming year will be elected at that time.

Both professional and amateur-ceramicists attended the recent annual show held in Talent as a benefit for the American Cancer society. Pictured here during the event are (left to right) Don Leulliman, Mrs. Harley Finney and Larry Dopps. The two men operate the Clay Art shop, 2475 Stewart avenue, Medford, specializing in ceramic molds, and Mrs. Finney, who lives on Anderson Creek road, works in ceramics as a hobby. Mrs. Finney and Mr. Dopps are holding molds which were displayed at the show, and Mr. Leulliman holds a ceramic pitcher from one of the exhibits.

Sex Education Needed, Home Economist Declares

By PATRICIA MCCORMACK
 United Press International
 New York (UPI) - Nearly 50 thousand girls under age 17 became mothers-out-of-wedlock last year.

Nearly 50 thousand boys under age 17 became fathers-out-of-wedlock - during the same year. Some of the 50 thousand males involved were a bit older than 17. The young fathers and mothers have problems stemming from emotional wreckage. The mothers, sociologists tell us, suffer more than the fathers who often manage to escape their responsibility.

But together, their problems are slight, compared to the problems some 50 thousand children, born out of wedlock, will have to shoulder throughout life.

The tragedy of teenage, out-of-wedlock motherhood and fatherhood, a problem that continues to grow, is one that Dorothy Foster attacks in the current Journal of the American Home Economics association.

The state supervisor of home economics education in Ohio asks:

"What would I tell my sons and daughters?"

Parents Responsible
 She believes that parents have the prime responsibility for sex education. She reported:

"As I observe, read, and hear about the alarming number of pregnancies that are occurring among high school students I ask myself - what would I tell my sons and daughters?"

"Since I am a home economist with an intense interest in homes and families, I find myself caring greatly about the sons and daughters of other people."

Sex education seems to be the place where failure has left its mark - via too little and too late.

The home economist says it's vital to acknowledge that sex is an important factor in every human life from the moment of birth.

"This is dramatically evident," she said, "as we con-

Girl Scouts

Fly-Up Held
 Brownie Troop 142 of the Kerby school held a fly-up ceremony recently in the Kerby school gymnasium. Girl Scouts of Mrs. Don Orton's Troop 81 conducted the ritual.

The gymnasium was darkened and as the girls gathered around a symbolic campfire, a candle was lighted as each Girl Scout took her oath. Mrs. Joseph Smith, Brownie leader, pinned on each girl her wings and Girl Scout pin.

Mrs. Smith's assistant, Mrs. Jim Hansen, presented awards.

Participating in the ceremony were Debbie Brown, Sherri Chamberlain, Donna Fulk, Laura Elliot, Debbie Hansen, Patricia Heacker, Gwen Madden, Jessica Nolan, Jeanne Olson, Kathy Smith and Wanda Terpening. Girls from Troop 81 served refreshments.

Troop 142 closed the year with a final meeting June 3. Mrs. Smith asks that girls not using their uniforms to return them to the uniform bank from which they were borrowed. Any unused uniforms will be welcomed for the bank. These are to be sent to Mrs. Smith at Kerby, or Mrs. James Baldwin, Cave Junction.

Spring flowers centered the tables and each of the past presidents was given a potted plant. The program included short talks by the honored guests who recalled highlights of her terms in office, followed by an illustrated travelogue.

Mrs. Gladys Gardner showed colored slides that she had taken during her recent tour. Amusing comments and observations added to the interesting account of experiences in the Orient, India, Egypt and other places visited during her winter cruise.
