Pampered Goldie Listens To Small Voice from Past

He lived a well ordered life. He was always served at the exact time. He lived with his family in an apartment, steam heated in the winter and air conditioned in the summer. He had regular medical check-ups. His toenails were carefully clipped; his coat regularly brushed; his every wish satisfied. He was a pampered pet: a small, golden-haired Cocker spaniel dog.

A one-owner dog, he had been a member of the family for all the five years of his life. His owners were proud of him; as they rightly should have been, for Goldie was well-mannered, perfectly adjusted, obedient and affectionate, and was a part of the family. He belonged, and his owners believed they understood him, and he felt he understood them.

Kidney Transplant

For years, it has been a surgeon's dream to help a man who is dying of Bright's disease by giving him a good kidney taken from a man who has just died, perhaps suddenly after a heart attack.

I now read that in Leeds, England, four doctors have successfully removed a kidney from a man of 54 who had just died in a hospital, and used it to replace a bad kidney in a 37-year-old man who was gravely ill. Four months later, the borrowed kidney was still functioning, and so the doctors were elated.

Arbitration Proposed In Dispute With Union

Grants Pass-Brown Plumbing and Heating company of Klamath Falls has proposed arbitration of the dispute with the union, which has had work on the plumbing contract in the new Josephine General hospital at a standstill for more than a week.

The proposal calls for the men to go back to work during the period of arbitration.

now struggling with is to do something to the person receiving the kidney which will keep his body from throwing out the foreign tissue that has been introduced.

Sometimes the ability of the tissues of the recipient to destroy the new kidney has been lowered a bit with the help of radiation with x-rays. In the case of the man in Leeds, the resistance of the body was lowered by a combination of radiation plus a drug. It is hoped that the success in this British experiment represents a "break-through."

I recently talked about this to one of America's ablest directors of a research group, and he says that today the craze for transplanting kidneys is very distressing to many families. A man with severe Bright's disease will say to his brother, "Give me one of your kidneys." The brother consults able physicians who say, "It is useless to perform the operation; it will not prolong your sick brother's life by more than a few weeks." The healthy brother then refuses to part with his kidney and then his relatives become disgusted with him.

What is a gallbladder for and can you get along without one? Are diseases serious and what causes gallstones? These questions and others are answered in Dr. Alvarez's booklet on "Gallstones and Gallbladder Disease." Testimony Sought On Sugar Quotas

Washington — (UPI) — A House subcommittee investigating fluctuating sugar prices has called representatives of Brazil, the Dominican Republic, Costa Rica, the French West Indies and the Philippines to testify on their sugar quotas.

One of the representatives, John A. O'Donnell, was a leading figure in the recent dispute over Philippine war claims. He still deals with U.S. sugar quotas for that country, but a subcommittee spokesman said O'Donnell's appearance would have nothing to do with the claims issue.

The representatives were expected to be asked about the ability of the countries they work for to meet this year's sugar quotas which the United States has assigned to them.

The subcommittee, headed by Rep. Leonor Sullivan (D-Mo.), has been told that sugar prices, which rose to a record level in May will return to normal in the near future. "Prices have been coming down as rapidly as they had been going up," Undersecretary of Agriculture Charles S. Murphy told Sullivan.

TWO PLEAD GUILTY
 Portland — (UPI) — Two suspects in the $34,469 robbery of the Eastport Plaza branch of the U.S. National bank here Jan. 24 pleaded guilty Thursday in U. S. District Court. James T. Hollywood, 64, and Richard J. Young, 36, both of Seattle, had earlier pleaded innocent.

Small Worlds Around Us

There were, however, just a couple or three actions his owners could never quite understand; actions, in fact, that bothered them, for they believed the long association with humans should have influenced the dog to overcome some of the peculiar behaviors he sometimes displayed.

Just why, the dog's owners want to know, "does Goldie bolt his food, when he should know by this time that he will always be fed, and at no time is he ravenously hungry?"

In spite of the fact this pampered little fellow has no definite knowledge that he is a dog, he still is influenced by the inborn patterns and activities common to his biological stock. Goldie is still a slave, to some degree, to instinct.

His long-ago ancestors had to gulp their food, had to hurry to get what they could while the getting was good. Some other wild dog might come along and take it away. Back in the beginning the dog that gulped its food was the one that enjoyed a full stomach. They knew, at least in principle, those dog ancestors of Goldie's, that "he who hesitates is lost," and hungry, too.

Another of Goldie's habits his owners mildly object to is the rapid turning round and round on a soft pillow or on the davenport, even though the dog must know the pillow is soft and warm. But it's hard on the pillow and seemingly silly, especially for a well behaved dog, who, in most respects, is a perfect gentleman.

Here again, innate impulse is at work; instinctive remembrance to very early dog-ancestors, still retained after thousands of years, of the time when the wild dog had to tramp down the weeds and grass in order to make itself a comfortable bed. A spark of that old behavior pattern still remains, even in today's pampered pet whose feet surface never trodden any surface harder than a deep-pile rug or a well clipped lawn. He still turns round and round on the pillow.

Sandy Arson Case Dismissed in Court
 Oregon City — (UPI) — An arson case has been dismissed in Clackamas County Circuit Court here against Howard William Baker, 61.

He had been accused in connection with a fire which destroyed the Sandy General Store last Dec. 27.

Judge Ralph Holman granted a defense motion for dismissal on the plea that no evidence has been presented to show the fire had been set.

$140 Million Voted for Running of Congress
 Washington — (UPI) — The House Appropriations Committee has voted $140 million toward the cost of running Congress next year and warned that another $20 million will be needed shortly to make sure the Capitol dome doesn't collapse.
