AWARDED FIRST
Eugene - Old Oregon, University of Oregon alumni magazine, has been awarded a first place in the Oregon Industrial Editor's association competition. The magazine, which is circulated to all alumni of the university, won the award in the Magazines, External, division of the competition. This division includes all house organs that are circulated beyond their organization.

Too Late for 'Oops'
Consulted, he advised House officials that it would cost between $150,000 and $200,000 to provide doors through the walls in the new $70 million House Office building. Apparently, nobody noticed that an additional door would be needed in each of the 169 suites until some sample rooms in the as yet unoccupied building were put on display recently.

By that time it was too late to say "oops" and start over. The major portion of the building, a part of a $131.5 million House office expansion program, had already been completed.

Cutting Extra Doors in House Office Building Would Be Costly
By DICK WEST
Washington—(UPI)—Congress may spend as much as $200,000 cutting extra doors through the walls in the new $70 million House Office building. Apparently, nobody noticed that an additional door would be needed in each of the 169 suites until some sample rooms in the as yet unoccupied building were put on display recently.

Pope's Last Will Leaves Goods To Brothers, Sister
Vatican City—(UPI)—Pope John XXIII, in his last will and testament released Thursday, said he awaited "simply and happily the arrival of sister death" and asked that his final burial place be in the Basilica of St. John in Lateran.

"What little goods that with His (God's) help I managed to accumulate," the Pontiff wrote, should be given to his three surviving brothers and a sister.

"Born poor, but honored by humble people, I am particularly happy to die poor."

900 Words Long
The last will and testament was started in 1925 and was last brought up to date on Sept. 12, 1961. It was about 900 words long.

The Pontiff asked that when the restoration of the Basilica of St. John in Lateran had been completed, his body be buried there along with other popes and saints who have it as their final resting place.

St. John in Lateran, in a working section of Rome, is the mother church of Christendom and is senior even to St. Peter's Basilica, where most popes are buried.

Tradition says it dates back to the Emperor Constantine. It had always been the Pope's own church.

In the most recent part of the testament he said, "I await and will welcome simply and happily the arrival of sister death in the circumstances that it pleases the Lord to send her to me."

Special Blessing
And, speaking about his worldly goods, he said that "I cannot leave but a great and most very special blessing with the invitation to maintain that fear of God which made them so dearly lovable to me, even though simple and modest, without having to blush for them."

The surviving three brothers and sister were at the Pope's bedside when he died on Monday evening following four days of tremendous agony.
