McGregor Awarded 12 Cents

New York - (UPI) - Basketball coach James McGregor of Portland, Ore., who sued secretary Daniel J. Ferris of the Amateur Athletic Union for $750,000 for "damaging his reputation" today was awarded a total of 12 cents in federal court.

The award, by a 10-man and two women jury that heard evidence for four days, was broken down into six cents compensatory damages and six cents punitive damages.

McGregor charged in the suit filed in February 1960 that Ferris had damaged his reputation by a letter Ferris wrote to Swedish basketball officials whose team McGregor was coaching at the time.

McGregor charged that he had planned to bring the Swedish team on a tour of the United States but Ferris wrote the Swedish officials that the AAU could not approve the tour because it had been arranged by a "professional promoter" and that McGregor was "in disrepute" in this country.

Barrett G. Kreisberg, attorney for McGregor, asserted that this letter damaged McGregor's reputation as a coach although he had previously coached basketball teams in Italy, Austria, and Turkey.

The AAU originally had been included in the suit as a defendant but was ordered deleted by Federal Judge Richard H. Levitt, who presided at the trial.

Final Hunting Regulations Set; Unit Permits Reduced

Portland - (UPI) - The state game commission Friday set Oregon's general deer season from Sept. 28 through Oct. 30.

The commission followed closely its tentative regulations adopted two weeks ago in setting final seasons and bag limits on the state's big game.

Members had considered testimony ranging from an appeal for closure of all deer hunting to wide-open seasons.

As in the past, hunters will be restricted to bucks with forked horns west of the Cascades and bucks with visible antlers in eastern Oregon during the general season.

The unit permit season for taking antlerless deer will run from Oct. 12 through Oct. 20, one week shorter than last year's season.
