Veni - Vidi

By MARGARET SCHULER

Rome - There are, besides measure and shopping habits, innumerable other differences in way of life in Europe - especially Rome - from those of the States. Here are some which come to my mind.

Barber shops are open on Sunday and closed on Monday. (And here is quite a difference - haircuts are 75 cents in Rome).

The average day for an Italian worker is from nine to eleven hours for a six-day work week. It is a great mistake for people to think that Italians do not work hard; they work very hard. Servants in homes and hotels do not even have rest hours from morning until night. In some homes where the butler serves all meals wearing his white gloves, the maid who does the washing, scrubs the clothes in the service bath tub. Linen towels a yard and a half long are ironed by hand, as well as linen sheets and pillow slips.

Breakfast is served in bed from nine to eleven. Lunch is from 1:30 to 3:30, and dinner from 9 to 10 p.m. Three to five course meals. Gracious living. (An impoverished Italian nobleman remarked, and was quoted in the New Yorker, "When social and economic justice advance, gracious living goes down.")

Italians wrap their candies in one, and often, two papers, individually. They do not wipe their cups, glasses and spoons in bars; just rinse them. There is no sterilization in Rome restaurants. You almost never see a dirty automobile in Rome.

I have never seen in all the times I have been in Rome an intoxicated-drunk-person. Italians season food very lightly. They use herbs, but little pepper, and not much salt. Romans believe it or not - do not use garlic at least - so that it is detected.

Liquor is sold in all supermarkets and bars, along with milk, coffee, and tea. No license for liquor, no tax, no age limit. There are no girl waiters in restaurants or bars. Girls are cashiers.

Here is another "believe it or not," and this is my own observation from riding on buses, being in all parts of the city, at the theater, cinema, on the streets - Romans do not smile or laugh. The idea that Italians are gay and singing, just is not true. Once or twice I have heard a young person, perhaps on a bicycle, burst into song. Italians are extraordinarily quiet speaking... in restaurants, and on the streets. (This does not apply to taxi drivers, or men who collide with their cars. All hell breaks loose when there is a bump or loss of right of way.)

No Roman sits at bars, or is on the better streets of the city without coat and tie. The big hotels have a man in the lobbies to prevent any man going into the lounges without coats, and with open shirts. (To be continued.)

Susan Shively, Richard Zare Are Married

Ashland - At rites held April 20 in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Milton Zare in Cleveland, Ohio, Miss Susan Leigh Shively, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thornton Shively, San Leandro, Calif., became the bride of Richard Neil Zare.

Only the immediate families of the couple attended the wedding. Sally Shively was her sister's attendant and the bridegroom's brother, Michael Zare, served as best man.

Mr. and Mrs. Zare returned to Berkeley, Calif., where the bridegroom is completing work for his doctorate in chemistry. He is a graduate of Harvard university. His wife received her college degree last year at Pomona college, Claremont, Calif. They expect to spend the summer in Mexico returning in the fall to Cambridge, Mass., where Mr. Zare will continue research studies at Harvard university.

The bride attended the Ashland schools and for many seasons has been a member of the Shakespearean Festival company. Her father was formerly on the faculty at Southern Oregon college in the library department.

The bride wore a turquoise suit with matching accessories for the wedding trip. The bride is a credit reporter with the Credit bureau of Medford. She attended Medford High school. The bridegroom, who attended South Side High school in Clinton, is employed at Harvey's West Main street Shell service station.

World Traveler Arrives Home

Ashland - Mrs. E. T. Carlton, 2230 Siskiyou boulevard, arrived home Wednesday from a two-month trip around the world. In the group were Mr. and Mrs. W. K. Harnden, 2225 Siskiyou boulevard, who arrived home from New York the last of May.

Mrs. Carlton reported many experiences, including riding a camel in Egypt, historic tours, sightseeing, and extremes in weather, ranging from high humidity in the Orient to frigidities in Scotland. At the end of her vacation she took part in a family reunion in Topeka and Kansas City, Kan., with her three sisters, seeing them for the first time in 23 years.

Family Here From Alabama

Guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. V. Jones, 1151 Brookdale road, are Mr. and Mrs. Owen Smith and children, Nancy, Charlotte, Ray and Roger from Mobile, Ala. While here they will tour points of interest such as Oregon Caves, and Crater lake and plan to fish in various lakes.

MOLB Delegates To Be Elected

Rogueette circle, Military Order of Lady Bugs, will elect delegates for a majestic hunt to be held August 19 through 24 in Seattle, Wash., when the circle meets Tuesday, June 11, in the Veterans of Foreign Wars hall, 42 North Front street.

Mrs. Harold Sutherland and Mrs. Ben Allison will serve refreshments.

Mrs. Ivan Lusk and Mrs. Ralph Pitcock presented the order's colors and banner for the Memorial day program held at the Veterans cemetery at White City.

Toastmistress Club To Meet; Will Nominate

A special orientation class for new members of the Medford Toastmistress club will be held at 7:15 p.m. Wednesday, June 12 in the Girls Community club. It will precede a regular club meeting scheduled at 8 p.m., also at the club. Mrs. C. E. Goodwin will conduct the special class.

A report from the nominating committee for new officers will be given. The nominating committee consists of Mrs. George Watson, Mrs. C. A. Thatcher and Mrs. W. E. Acord. Election of officers will take place following the report from the nominating committee.

Speakers for the June 12 meeting will be Mrs. Winnie Weixel, Mrs. George Watson and Mrs. A. I. Prugh.

Those speaking at the last club meeting were Mrs. L. E. Payton, who gave an "icebreaker" on "This Is My Life," Mrs. Dennis E. Garcelon, who also gave her "icebreaker" on "A Little of Me," Mrs. Robert D. Ford, who spoke on "The Many Faces of Eve," and Mrs. W. G. Beard, whose speech was entitled "It Might Have Been."

LPNA Annual Banquet Held; Speaker Noted

Mrs. Stella Demo, Ashland, adviser to the Jackson County Licensed Practical Nurses association, and home nursing instructor at Medford High school, was guest speaker at the annual dinner meeting of the association recently held at Kim's restaurant.

The speaker's topic was "Satisfaction in Your Career." Guests were students and the instructor of the Rogue Valley School of Practical Nursing.

During a business session plans were discussed for a state convention to be held in Medford September 17 through 19 in Prineville. Mrs. Thelma Edison Marty and Mrs. Bessie Baldwin will attend a state board meeting June 17 through 19 in Prineville.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Elrod Jr., 1575 Roberts road, celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary May 29 and after their daughter, Sandra, became the bride of Doyine J. Maxwell, in a ceremony at Ascension Lutheran church. The Elrods observed their anniversary at a dinner at their home on May 28. (Knackstedt photo)

Elrods Observe 25th Wedding Anniversary

Mrs. and Mrs. Frank Elrod Jr., 1575 Roberts road, observed their twenty-fifth wedding anniversary at a dinner served recently in their home. Friends also called during the afternoon.

Newlyweds Return to City

Mr. and Mrs. Doyine J. Maxwell, whose marriage was an event of May 29 in Ascension Lutheran church, returned Thursday from their wedding trip to the coast. They will live at 540 Marie street, Medford.

The bride, the former Miss Sandra A. Elrod, is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Elrod Jr., 1575 Roberts road, and the bridegroom is a son of W. T. Maxwell, Clinton, Ark., and the late Mrs. Maxwell.

The wedding ceremony was performed on the 25th wedding anniversary date of the bride's parents. The Rev. Vernon Hansen officiated for the double ring service.

Miss Jean Heidemann was maid of honor and bridesmaids were the Misses Judy Kimney, Central Point, and Mary Jane Verstrate.

Donald Wayne Bowling served as best man and seating the guests were E. William Harmon and Robert Gillespie.

Father Escorts Bride
Mr. Elrod escorted his daughter to the altar and gave her in marriage. For her wedding the bride wore a floor length gown of nylon organza over taffeta styled with fitted bodice and long sleeves. The scalloped scoop neckline was applied with Chantilly lace embroidered with pearls and iridescent sequins. The bouffant skirt was designed with simulated pick-up front defined by organza roses, and a matching rose repeated the effect on the full chapel train. Her veil was of pure silk illusion in elbow length and was held by a tiered queen's crown of Chantilly lace trimmed with pearls and crystals. She carried a white orchid encircled with stephanotis.

The attendants wore ballerina length dresses identically styled with Alencon lace fitted bodice tops and skirts of nylon organza over taffeta. The maid of honor wore Nile green and the bridesmaids' gowns were apricot and maize. All wore hats of organza flowers and float veils which matched their gowns.

The honor attendant carried a white gladioli bouquet and the bridesmaids' flowers were yellow daisies tinted with orange. Candles were lighted by Gregg Elrod, a brother of the bride, and Rodney Heidemann.

Church Decorated
Baskets of white stock decorated the church and wedding songs were furnished by Clyde Wheaton.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Elrod wore a sheath dress of turquoise satapeau with tiered plume overskirt and her accessories were white.

The reception given by the bride's parents was held in the church rooms. About 100 guests attended the ceremony and reception. The wedding cake had been baked by the bride's aunt, Mrs. Vernon Allen, Central Point.

The bride wore a turquoise suit with matching accessories for the wedding trip. The bride is a credit reporter with the Credit bureau of Medford. She attended Medford High school. The bridegroom, who attended South Side High school in Clinton, is employed at Harvey's West Main street Shell service station.
