Cubed Chicken, Avocados Make Perky Entree

Borrowing from Spanish cookery, "Spanish Galleons" is a peppy mixture of cubed chicken, tomato sauce, chili powder and garlic salt heated and served in a avocado half-shells with a topping of toasted bread crumbs. Avocados have been a staple food in Mexico, Central and northern South America for centuries. Spanish padres reportedly planted the first avocados in California.

Summer varieties of this luscious fruit begin reaching markets before the end of May. Some of them have pebbled, almost black skins and are known as "black avocados," some have green skins. No matter what the outside appearance may be, inside the fruit is the same the year-round, a favorite ingredient in numerous salads, party dips, sandwich fillings, main dishes and desserts.

SPANISH GALLEONS
Three avocados; salt one can (8-oz.) tomato sauce; one cup cubed cooked chicken; one-half teaspoon chili powder; one-fourth teaspoon garlic salt; toasted buttered bread crumbs.

Cut avocado lengthwise into halves; remove seeds. Sprinkle with salt. Combine remaining ingredients except bread crumbs in saucepan; heat to boiling.

Fill avocado halves with hot chicken mixture. Top with crumbs. Place in shallow pan containing warm water to depth of one-half inch. Heat in 325-degree (moderately slow) oven 15 minutes. Serve at once. Makes six servings.

A plastic shoe bag hung from the back of the car seat is a good place to keep toys and snacks.

The symbolic De Molay emblem formed a background for the councilors' chairs during the program which followed the ritual. Vocal numbers were sung by Everett Winter accompanied by Miss Edna Dougherty, and afterward guests were introduced.

Included among those presented were the parents, sisters, brother and grandparents of the new master councilor. Mr. and Mrs. Pierre Roberts are his parents and Mr. and Mrs. Ted Streeter his grandparents.

Charles Calhoun was given the past master councilor's pin and at the conclusion there was the traditional officers' march.

At the reception, which followed the installation, parents of the three councilors were in the receiving line. Those taking part were Mr. and Mrs. Roberts, Dr. and Mrs. John N. Reid and Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Lohman.

Hostess for the reception was Mrs. Charles Calhoun, president of the Mothers club, assisted by Bethel members. The De Molay insignia decorated the top of a large cake on the refreshments table where Miss Kandy Korhase served punch.
