

Garden Show To Stress Conservation, Schools

Conservation will be stressed at the 17th annual flower show of Central Point Garden club, set for Wednesday, June 12. Theme of the show is "Salute to Our Schools" and on display in the Junior section will be posters and essays done by Central Point and Crater High school students for the recent conservation contest.

Also displayed will be trees raised by Junior Garden club members of the Central Point area.

The project of planting nearly 200 trees on the grounds of the Jewett Elementary school is the inspiration for this year's flower show theme.

Language, music and art, science, mathematics and recess are among the topics for artistic design classes. Flowers and foliage will be combined to present designs suggesting these school subjects.

Flowers in bloom can be entered in some of the 30 classes arranged for horticulture. These entries must have been grown by the exhibitor or have been in his possession at least three months. Entries in these classes can be made at the Jewett school Wednesday morning between 7 and 9:30 a.m. The show will be open to the public from 2 to 9 p.m., both Wednesday and Thursday, June 12 and 13. Jewett school is located on Tenth and Manzanita streets, just off the freeway.

Any questions might be answered by calling the show chairman, Mrs. L. C. Gordon, 664-2219 or Mrs. Arnold Bohner, 664-1154 or Mrs. Wallace West, 664-1428.

Evaporated Milk Content Explained

Evaporated milk is homogenized whole milk from which about 60 per cent of the water has been removed by heating under vacuum. Vitamin D is added to provide 400 International units per pint of evaporated milk. An International unit (abbreviated I.U.) is the measure of strength for vitamin D. The milk is sealed in cans and sterilized. When diluted with an equal amount of water, it has about the same food value as fresh whole milk, according to dairy industry spokesmen.

Popcorn remains dry and crisp and brown sugar is protected from lumping when stored in canisters with lids containing moisture-absorbing crystals.

Roma - Ways of life which seemed odd to me when I first came to Rome soon became commonplace and natural, so that I have to concentrate to remember just what is different from America.

Here are a few more however.

Italians do not chew gum. Mr. Wrigley's products are for sale at the so-called American bars, for sixteen cents a package. Around the corner, at any little shop for Italians, it can be bought for eight cents.

Women do not smoke very much in cafes and restaurants, Italian women.

Day Hotel

The Albergo Diurno is a day hotel at the railroad station. It offers the following services: Laundry, washed, ironed and returned in two hours. Baths, pedicures, manicures, shoe shines, clothes pressed (while you wait), massages, typewriters, shops of all sorts, and rooms to rent for the day, or for two hours.

"Loro" is the word for "they" in Italian. Well, Loro have one or two little inexplicable to health-minded Americans, Loro spit on the side walks, and Loro teach their fancy dogs bad side-

Guild Receives Gift of Lamb

A retired couple recently donated a lamb to Providence guild, requesting that the proceeds from its sale be given to the building fund for the new Sacred Heart hospital.

Sacred members accepted the unusual gift gratefully, and appealed to Kenneth Cearley of the Farmers' Packing company for help. The problem of converting a live lamb into cold cash was ably handled by Mr. Cearley, who donated the services of his packing plant, his men and his equipment. The lamb was transported from its rural home, and the subsequent sale netted $20 for the building fund. Mr. Cearley matched this with a $20 donation, and a check for $40 was mailed to Mrs. John Raapke, president of Providence guild.

Guild members have expressed their appreciation to the donors of the lamb and to Mr. Cearley. The gift represents the willingness of valley residents to support the building campaign for a new Sacred Heart hospital, guild members feel.

Today Mrs. Baker urged duplicate players of the valley to support the national charity efforts of the ACBL and pointed out that this evening a charity tournament is being held at Girls Community club to raise funds for medical research.
