COUNTER CARDS—These counter cards, presented to firms which sent representatives to the Rogue Valley Visitor Host school last week, will tell the tourist that information about the area is available there. The school, cosponsored by the Chambers of Commerce in Medford and Ashland, was attended by 63 valley persons. Showing one of the counter cards to Jack Sutton, (right) Grants Pass, teacher at McLoughlin Junior High school who was one of the speakers for the school, is Don McNeil, Medford Chamber manager. Sutton is an authority on southern Oregon history. This is the first time such a school has been held here. In addition to a counter card for each firm, individuals attending the school received gold ballpoint pens. (Knackstedt photo)

On the Air By ELEANOR WIESE

Greatly encouraged by the recent successful transmission of live television from Rome via Telstar communications satellite, the CBS network is negotiating with the European Broadcasting Union to present a Town Meeting of the World.

Anthony Eden, Dwight D. Eisenhower and Jean Monnet have already agreed to participate in such a meeting: Eden from London, Eisenhower from Gettysburg or Denver, Monnet from Paris or Brussels. Each participant would speak in the presence of audiences of interested citizens who will ask questions via Telstar.

In describing to the European Broadcasting Union the intent of such a program, Frank Stanton, President of CBS, explained: "The oldest and purest democratic forum in America, directly descended from the Athenian forum, is the town meeting. Here, at least once a year the inhabitants of American towns get together to discuss issues upon which the town will be ultimately called to act. A moderator is chosen to preserve orderly discussion, but everything is open for all to hear, every side of an issue is examined, every viewpoint exposed. When the meeting is over, no one has any doubt about the issues being thoroughly aired."

The subject for the World Town Meeting will be of international interest and urgency.

Mr. Stanton admits that the program will be "frankly experimental, but we hope that it will set a pattern or at least establish a precedent for broadcasts of similar intent in the future."

We hope so too.

Partial Eclipse Of Sun To Be Visible in Oregon

Portland - There will be a partial eclipse of the sun over Oregon on Saturday, July 20.

But don't look at it if you value your eyesight. The time-worn schoolchild's pastime of viewing eclipses with the naked eye cost 170 Australian youngsters partial loss of their central vision and permanent retinal damage in 1959, warns the Oregon Optometric association.

There is no "best" way to look at an eclipse, says Dr. William E. Shackelford of Albany, OOA president.

"If you must indulge your curiosity," the optometrist says, "the safest way is to turn your back to the sun, hold a piece of pinhole-punched cardboard over one shoulder, then let the sun's rays come through the hole onto another piece of white cardboard held in front of your eyes. The sun's image will be reflected but its dangerous infra-red rays will be avoided."

Sun Glasses Mentioned Dr. Shackelford says that sun glasses or smoked glass are not completely safe. "A piece of photo film, overexposed and developed over its entire surface, is adequate protection, but the pinhole device - especially in a darkened room - yields a well-defined solar image without danger."

Looking directly at the sun anytime is dangerous, Dr. Shackelford warns. Further, the use of binoculars or telescopes during an eclipse heightens the chance of incurring complete blindness - which happened to 20 Utah viewers in 1960. Magnified sunlight can damage the eye permanently in the fraction of a second.

Says Dr. Shackelford: "We suggest that Oregonians stay indoors between 11:30 a.m. and 2:30 p.m. on July 20. We will experience a 60 per cent eclipse here. The best bet is to read about it the day after it happens."

Selected Students Return to School

Yreka—Monday, June 17, approximately 200 selected academically talented high school students of Siskiyou county will voluntarily return to school for an intensive four-week period of educational exploration and challenge.

The program is sponsored and financed jointly by the local high school districts and the Siskiyou county board of education and is under the administrative direction of Paul Fisher, county superintendent of schools and Joseph M. Turbovsky, psychologist, Siskiyou county schools.

The guidance-academic program was initiated in the summer of 1960. Last summer the program was expanded to two centers and this summer three centers will be operational providing a participatory opportunity for all of the county's academically talented high school students.

The program is based on the premise that students can be stimulated to greater academic effort and production when they are helped to realize their own potential.

The students do not receive academic credit for attendance. They do not receive grades nor is production mandatory.

The three centers will be located at the Yreka High school, the College of the Siskiyou campus, Weed, and at the Tule Lake High school. The academic areas to be offered include humanities, anthropology, political science, modern foreign language, modern mathematics and science and creative writing and speech. Classes will be held daily, Monday through Friday, 8:15 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. through July 16. Teachers, administrators or interested lay people who are interested in observing the program are to do so at any of the three centers.
