SERVICE PLUS - Patrons driving into a service station at Bloomington, Ill., are somewhat amazed as a little energetic attendant rushes out and swarms all over their with attention. This pint-sized attendant is a monkey called Willie, who loves to polish windshields until he can see his reflection (top photo) and then get down and blow air into the tires (lower photo). Actually the station owner says Willie prefers to remove the valve caps and let the air out of the tires. (UPI)
