

Regional Roundup

by Clove Twitchell
Mail Tribune Regional Editor

A couple of pieces of mail arrived on the regional editor's desk Saturday. They came all the way from Central Point in the near-record time of eight days. The arrival of the two envelopes, both from Mary Colley, our Central Point correspondent, solved something of a mystery. In the course of a telephone conversation last Wednesday, Mary mentioned something about how unfortunate it was that a certain Lions club story hadn't been in the paper yet.

"What Lions club story?" we remarked. As further details of the situation were revealed, it became evident that four or five stories, including one about the Crater High school graduation, hadn't put in an appearance on the regional desk. Fortunately, Mary had made carbons of the stories, and so almost all of them had actually appeared in the paper by the time the originals showed up Saturday.

While we were looking over the envelopes for a clue as to what had happened, an alert colleague noted an innocent looking postmark on the back of one of them. It read, "New York, N. Y., June 11, 1963, 3 a.m."

Well, at least in this instance, the post office department can't be accused of sending mail from Central Point to Medford by mule train. It quite possibly went by air - with a slight detour to New York along the way.

From the Correspondents -

Velda Barr, Prospect correspondent, is back from a trip to Adel in the Warner valley east of Lakeview. She and her husband Warren brought back his father John Barr, who will make his home with them at Prospect. It was a windy but scenic trip, Velda reports, although no cabins or places to stay overnight were open in the Adel area and the group had to sleep in their car.

Katherine Scott, Illinois Valley correspondent, back from a fishing trip to Bolan lake, saw many patches of snow still in the high mountains but noted that they were melting fast. The view from the top of Happy Camp and Page Mountain roads is beautiful, she said.

Alice Burnette, Talent correspondent, sent in a routine item about a family moving, but added this little twist; Don Kane, who with his three sons moved from Foss rd. in Talent to the Evans Valley area, is a widower. After all his furniture was moved he came back and scrubbed the house and waxed and polished the floors. "How many people leave a rented home spotless and polished when they move out?" Alice remarked.

Keep Those Plates Warm

The State Department of Motor Vehicles had the right idea about some of those pre-dawn temperatures we had during the first few nights of June. Step number three in the department's list of directions on how to apply the registration renewal stickers reads, "Warm plates to above zero before applying new stickers."

Central Point Water Pressure Problem Explained

Central Point - The fluctuation in water pressure, which has prompted many calls to the Central Point city hall in the past two or three weeks, is caused by a slow timing element in the electrical panel in the new pumping station according to Freeman Mason, city administrator. The new water distribution system went into effect a month ago and includes the pumping station and a million gallon reservoir. It should maintain a constant water pressure of 70 pounds.

GH Chamber Draws Praise

Gold Hill - Curtis Parker, former Gold Hill businessman, congratulated Gold Hill Chamber of Commerce for the work that has been accomplished here by Chamber members. Parker, who now resides at Santa Rosa, Calif., was a guest of the chamber at the June 6 luncheon and business meeting held at Dardanelle restaurant. President Ralph A. James, Sams Valley, conducted the session. Parker and his wife Aletha are former owners of the Gold Hill Auto park which is now known as Cogwells Market. The couple are managers of Journey's End Trailer court at Santa Rosa, Calif.

Eagle Point Lions, Auxiliary Install

Eagle Point - The Eagle Point Lions Club and Lions Auxiliary held a joint installation following a buffet dinner at the Rogue River Lodge, Friday, June 7. Also present was Bill Young, district zoning chairman from Gold Hill.

Ribbon corsages made by Mrs. Ted Flury were presented to the incoming Lions Auxiliary officers, who were installed by Mrs. Nat Etzel as follows: Mrs. Hoyle Jordan, president; Mrs. Dale Bates, vice president; Mrs. Ray Ragsdale, secretary; Mrs. Vern Steward, treasurer, and Mrs. Darrell Copeland, corresponding secretary.

Valley Residents Enter Albany Event

Talent - S. Sgt. Harland H. Lowe, retired, accompanied by Dan Homer, Ashland, left Saturday to attend a model airplane meet at Albany, Oregon. Lowe planned to enter the glider event, one of his gliders entered having won first place in the International meet at El Paso for him while he was in the service.

12 Top Students At Ruch Receive Elementary Awards

By MAUDE ZIEGLER

Mail Tribune Correspondent
Applegate Valley - Twelve top students in the six grades at Ruch elementary school received academic achievement awards at the close of school recently. Citizenship and study habits were considered with good grades.

Directors of Jacksonville Club To Meet Tuesday

Jacksonville - Directors of the Jacksonville Boosters club will meet in the Jubilee restaurant again at 12 noon Tuesday to get the study program under way as part of the new community development program for Jacksonville.

Some 32 communities in the state of Washington successfully instituted this program which originated with the University of Washington bureau of community development.

The closest of these to Oregon is probably Winlock, Washington in southwest Washington. One of its most successful achievements is the annual Winlock Poultry and Egg Day.

Like the Jacksonville Jubilee it lapsed temporarily due to lack of "working interest." It started in 1921. A huge egg on a float has become symbolic of this town of approximately 900 population. Had Parade.

June 8 the Egg Day parade marking the 27th annual celebration drew 6,000 people. Seventy-five entries were in the parade including bands, marching drill teams, floats, children, clowns and characters.

Preparations were made to serve free 3,000 egg sandwiches and 50 gallons of coffee and soft drinks. A chicken barbecue dinner was served at the school playground.

Afternoon highlights included games, field events, baseball games and a horse gymkhana at the old ball park. The gymkhana was repeated Sunday afternoon.

Two Saturday evening dances were scheduled at the school gym and community building.

Montague Elementary Students Have Picnic On Last Day of School

Montague - The last day of school for the 22 school children and the teacher of the Little Shasta school was marked by the annual picnic at the Soda Springs on May 31.

At noon hot dogs grilled on a barbecue, many assorted dishes topped off with a variety of cakes, pies and cookies were the fare for the meal.

Parents, pre-schoolers, a few high school boys and friends joined in the last gathering before the long summer vacation ahead.

The mothers of the school children presented Mrs. Paul Weddle, the teacher, with a handbag as a gift of appreciation.

Prospect Service Stations Change Hands

Prospect - The Prospect service stations have again changed hands. Raymond Artmire and son Frank who ran the Richfield station for about two years have now taken over the Chevron station by the Prospect cafe and post office, formerly run by John Moore who has made a trip back to Oklahoma.

The Frank Boothby boys, Rex and Byron Boothby, are now running the Richfield station. Frank Boothby has owned the station for a number of years and leased it to past operators.

Bible Schools Scheduled

Illinois Valley - Vacation Bible schools began at two valley churches this morning. Classes are being held daily this week from 9 to 11:30 a.m. at Cave Junction Community church. The same hours are being observed at Immanuel Methodist church where the school will run Monday through Friday through June 28.

A closing program will be held at the community church Friday, to which parents and other interested persons are invited. Theme of this school will be "The Story That the Bible Tells."

At Immanuel Methodist, classes are divided into kindergarten, junior and intermediate groups.

Mrs. B. R. Elliott, Hanley road, took the sweepstakes prize for the horticultural division. About 300 persons visited the two-day show. Mrs. Gordon was general chairman for the event.

Talent City Council Discusses Expansion Of Sewer System

Talent - The Talent City council discussed a variety of items at its June 12 meeting.

Ed Singmaster, Ashland, who had been present to recommend insurance for members of the Talent City Volunteer Fire department, recommended that the city take out State Industrial Accident insurance on members, which he said could be done on a special plan covering volunteer firemen.

Richard Cottle, attorney for the city, presented a resolution he had been asked to draw up to ask for a government grant to defray part of the cost of enlarging the present sewer system. Cost of the enlarged facilities has been estimated at approximately $50,000.

Cottle also presented a complaint that Southern Pacific railroad erect some sort of safety device at the Main st. crossing.

Councilman Lee Boyd announced that members of the city water and sewer committee consisting of himself, Ed Lunaford, Glen Mosser and Jerry Stephens would meet Wednesday evening at 7:30 at the Talent City hall with Henry Watson of Pacific Pumping company, Portland, to hear and see his samples and information about pre-fabricated sewer lines.

Several members of the Phoenix council, who have been invited, may also be present to meet Mr. Watson.
