Silver Tablet Discovery Vents Early Sacraments

By ERNEST SAKLER
United Press International

Vatican City — UPI — A first century silver tablet has revealed how the sacrament of extreme unction, or the last rites, was administered in the early days of the Christian Church in Palestine.

Details of the discovery, which throws much light on the rites and beliefs of the early church, were reported recently in the Vatican City newspaper Osservatore Romano.

The two and one-half by one-inch tablet was bought in January by a museum director in Jerusalem from Bedouins of the Ta'Amari tribe. The tribesmen said they found the tablet, together with a number of clay vessels of a type known to archaeologists as "Herodian lamps," and known to date back to the first century A. D.

The tiny tablet bore a 17-line inscription in Aramaic, the language spoken in Palestine at the time of Jesus. The writing allowed scientists to date it between 70 and 130 A. D., presumably closer to the former.

A translation, Osservatore said, showed the text was the ritual for the anointing of the sick, or extreme unction, as practiced in the original Christian — Jewish community, the first followers of Christ in Palestine.

The most interesting point, Osservatore said, was the close correspondence of the text to a passage of the Epistle of St. James and with early Christian rituals in the West. This confirmed the early Christian rituals in the West. This confirmed the early use of extreme unction — one of the seven sacraments of the Catholic church — and the common source of the rite.

The passage in St. James which had been the earliest testimony about extreme unction reads (James 5, 14-15): "Is there among you anyone who is sick? Let him send for the presbyters of the church, that they may pray over him, anointing him with oil in the name of the Lord; and the prayer of faith will save the sick, and the Lord will raise him up; and if he is in sin, it will be forgiven him."

The first line of the inscription on the silver tablet identifies the author as one Datzenaz and describes him as a Kohen, or the Hebrew word for "priest," thus confirming James' reference to the presbyters of the church. The fact that only his name is mentioned seems to indicate extreme unction was administered by one priest, as is still done in the Latin rite, rather than by several, as among the Greek rite Christians.

Osservatore said the tablet was evidence of "how the general laws issued by the head of the church in Jerusalem (St. James) were carried out concretely in the first century in the rite of adjoining parishes. In addition, we can now state with certainty that extreme unction was considered as a sacramental, grace-bringing rite as early as the first century, when the apostles were still alive."

Cal-Metal corporation of Torrance, Calif., was successful bidder for the high-tension transmission line pipe to be used in the construction of the gas main line from Grants Pass to Ashland, which will bring natural gas to this area. E. K. Albert, president of California Pacific Utilities, has announced.

The order for 2,550 tons of steel pipe, costing close to one half million dollars, is to be delivered July 1.

Invitations have been submitted to nine pipeline contractors for the actual laying of the 54 miles of the main line and this contract is expected to be let today with construction to start with arrival of the steel pipe in southern Oregon July 1, Albert stated.

Gas heating equipment connected to the present CPU mains will be adjusted for natural gas at no expense to the customer, Albert pointed out.

Blind Students Use Recorded Books

St. Paul, Minn. — UPI — More than 50 blind college and trade school students are using tape textbooks from a Minnesota library.

The tape library, under development for four years, is sponsored by the Minnesota State Services for the Blind and the Hamm foundation, a St. Paul philanthropic organization.

The project's first university graduate was Andrea Goudie, Minneapolis. Her textbooks during most of her University of Minnesota career were hundreds of reels of magnetic recording tape.

The program was undertaken four years ago when several blind students who had been using recorders suggested that textbooks be read into tape. They thought this would be easier to handle than disc recordings and live readers often weren't around when wanted.

So volunteer readers began putting textbooks into tape.

When Miss Goudie wanted to study biology or history, for instance, she would borrow a tape textbook from the library and play it on her recorder.

She took notes from the textbooks on her braille writer as she went along. When she wanted to take notes, she stopped the recorder and transcribed the passage in braille. If she wanted to repeat a passage, she reversed the recorder to the beginning of the section and replayed it.

To help students locate passages, the page number of the text has been read onto the tape at the beginning and middle of each page.

The textbooks have been prepared by 95 volunteers, selected carefully. Voices must be clear and agreeable. Monotone will put a student to sleep.

The volunteers must read rapidly. Blind students, who have developed strong powers of concentration and comprehension, prefer reading speeds of about 200 words a minute.

He was married to Cornelia Frances Mines in Warm Springs, Va., in 1901, and in 1911 the couple moved to Eureka, Mont., where Mr. Webb was a pioneer in the Montana lumber manufacturing industry, having shipped machinery from Virginia.

In Eureka, he was a member of the IOOF, Rebekah, and Masonic lodges. He took an active part in the mobilization for World War I in Montana as a volunteer field officer for the American Red Cross.

Research Done on Air Conditioning

Louisville, Ky. — UPI — How does air conditioning affect your health?

Nearly everyone agrees it can make life more comfortable during the hot summer months, but there is considerable controversy over its relation to health. Some persons claim it is a panacea for respiratory troubles. Others say it gives them the sniffles or worse.

Scientists at the General Electric Laboratories at Appliance park here recently reported that an air conditioner:

- Filters out germs. Some germs — not all germs. Most filters now in use inhibit the growth of the germs they trap. This doesn't mean all germs in the air, simply those germs trapped by the filter.
- Eases some of the discomfort of allergies. It will not cure allergies, but will make sufferers from allergies due to air borne dust and pollen more comfortable.
- Reduces the strain which extremely hot weather places on the heart. Cardiacs are advised to spend at least part of their time indoors during hot weather in air conditioned comfort.
- Benefits a sinus condition — because it dehumidifies the air and filters out most dust and irritating pollen. Cool, crisp, clean air is conducive to comfort, but it will not of itself cure sinus condition.

CLAM YIELDS PEARL — George Dion holds a pearl which he found in a clam while clam digging in the Kankakee river at Kankakee, Ill. The pearl was a pinkish hue and is 9 1/2 mm in diameter. Although it has two minor flaws, a Kankakee jeweler estimated its value at between $75 and $100. Dion was digging clams to use as fish bait when he made his find. (UPI)
