Torrential Rains Flooding Nebraska

Wahoo, Neb. --UPI-- Torrential rains totaling up to 14 inches left several Nebraska towns either inundated or surrounded by flood waters today.

Hundreds of families were homeless. Scores of others were warned to be ready to leave some areas on an hour's notice. Two persons were dead, damage was in the millions.

Dewitt, Neb., was under two feet of water early today, Memphis and Valparaiso, Neb., were surrounded by the surging flood waters.

At Ashland, Neb., surging salt creek ran 14.73 feet deep, nearly four feet above flood stage. A highway bridge north of town started to crack and all dikes were reported broken.

The Weather Bureau said water had not reached the town but flooded nearby lowlands. Army amphibians rescued families, four of whom had taken refuge in their attics.

Automobile Crash Takes Baby's Life

Redmond, Ore. --UPI-- Julie Vall Rice, 11 months, whose parents were killed earlier in the day in an automobile accident, died in a local hospital Monday afternoon.

The bodies of her parents, Keith Doyle Rice, 20, and his wife, Glenda Rae, 19, were found in their wrecked car about three miles west of Sisters early Monday. The vehicle had struck a pine tree. The baby was brought to a local hospital by a passing motorist.
