Court Signs Plat For Subdivision

The Jackson county court Friday signed Hacienda Park plat extension No. 2 for Edward (Pop) Stevens, subdivider in the Phoenix area.

The signing follows up approval of the plat by the Medford Irrigation district board at a special meeting last week.

It and the Leever-Whalin subdivision plat, Siskiyou Village No. 1 unit, had been awaiting approval by the MID board for approval approximately five months. The Siskiyou Village unit was approved by the board early this month, and was approved later by the county court.

The board signed the Hacienda plat after the subdivider paid $220 for a meter to measure irrigation water to be delivered to the subdivision. Approval was held up earlier until the subdivider complied with an earlier agreement on the original Hacienda plat by providing irrigation water facilities.

Approval of the Leever-Whalin plat had been held up pending some agency assuming responsibility for maintaining an irrigation channel extending through the subdivision and the subdivider assuming liability for any damage to residential property due to overflow or leaks. The subdividers later eliminated the portion in the tract subject to flooding, and the creek. Another Leever-Whalin plat will be presented for the MID board's July 2 meeting.

Family Council

Editor's Note: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a woman's editor, and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counselors.

Mrs. H. L.—Someone should show her how it feels to be teased.

Brenda F.—Her little angel is just a big crybaby and squealer.

Mrs. H. L.—Instead of dealing with Brenda's mother, I'd like to hear how Brenda herself defends the cruel teasing she hands out to my daughter. They each 12, but we're new in the neighborhood and Dotty isn't used to bullies. It's come to the point where Dotty dreads going out to play. Yesterday Brenda a new her gang grabbed Dotty's harmonica and played catch with it.

Brenda F.—Her little darling ought to learn to take a joke. She acts so superior and when we try to kid her a little, she's a bum sport. Every day she shows off a new present or brags about her marks. Who needs that? But when I asked her to turn one end of a jump-rope she said no, she'd rather read. She got her harmonica back, so what's the excitement?

The Council: Teasing is one-way fun. As such, it's sadistic. Real fun is two-way. What goes on when Brenda encounters Dotty shows the value of supervised play, as against letting two kids with little human insight slug it out emotionally. A little intelligent intervention at this point can save much emotional warring for these pre-teens, and Mrs. L. is wise to pin the matter down for evaluation. A general answer is that kids should be taught "human nature," its universal rules, from kindergarten on. Then, perhaps, Brenda would "feel for" the newcomer and understand her standoffishness, while Dotty would know that the way to a peer's heart is through acceptance. But these girls may have special problems requiring some counseling from guidance experts. Dotty's social awkwardness makes her a "sitting duck" for Brenda who must bully away her own insecurities and hurts on others. Thus the teaser needs as much help as the teased, despite her brash assurance.

Two Phoenix Mayors Meet in Arizona

Two Phoenix mayors, one from Oregon, one from Arizona, recently met in the Arizona city.

Comparing problems, they found they had some similar ones although the Jackson county city has a population of 900 and the Arizona capital a population of 500,000.

Mayor Darrell Paxson, Phoenix, Ore., has a tight budget and so does Mayor Sam Mardian.

Paxson stopped in Phoenix, Ariz., while on a trip through California and Arizona with his family. He formerly lived in the Arizona capital and graduated from Arizona State university.

While exchanging views on city government, neither mayor commented on the Egyptian legend of the miraculous bird from which each city gained its name. The bird, the embodiment of the sun god, was fabled to live for 300 years, to be consumed by fire, and to rise in youthful freshness from its own ashes.

Mayor Paxson is scheduled to return to his office this week, according to report from Phoenix city hall.

single in another tally and now has eight RBI's for the season, all at the expense of San Francisco pitching.

Palmer Stages Late Surge, Ties for Lead in Tourney

Cleveland - (UPI) - Arnold Palmer put on one of his late charges Saturday with a 5 under par 33-33-66 which sent him surging into a tie for the third-round lead with champagne Tony Lema and burly Jack Nicklaus in the $110,000 Cleveland Open golf championship.

Palmer fired seven birdies against two bogeys as he matched Lema and Nicklaus at 205 - eight under par for the three rounds despite intermittent showers - as they moved one shot in front of South African Gary Player in the chase for the $22,000 first prize.

Player carded a 71 over the par-busted Beechmont Country club course which put him one shot in front of six others. They were Jackie Burke, with a 68; Dave Hill, with a 69; Sam Snead and Don January, with 70s; and Bo Wininger and Tommy Aaron, with 72s.

Nicklaus, playing "my best round since the Masters," shot a 34-35-69 while Lema blew himself to a 33-36-69.

Lema, the 29-year-old ex-Marine from San Leandro,

Calif., had the lead all to himself until he bogeyed the 18th hole by three-putting and the 17th by trapping his approach shot. He thus lost big shots and fell back into that three-way tie entering today's final round.

Asked how he felt, the lean Californian smiled painfully and said: "I feel just fine - has anybody got a knife?"

Three shots off the pace in what has been the "closest tournament in golf history" - with only eight shots separating the 75 qualifiers as they began today's third round - came Fred Hawkins of El Paso, Tex., former U.S. Open champion Ed Furgol, Bab Shave and Mason Rudolph. All had a 5 under par 208 total.

Hawkins, who has won only one tournament in 16 years on the tour, shot a 65 which equalled the course record. Furgol had a 68, Shave a 69 and Rudolph a 70.

Still well in contention at 209, four shots off the lead, came Bill Eggers, with a 72; Art Wall and Jay Hebert, with 70s; U.S. Open cham-

Pauly Wins National Decathlon Crown at AAU Corvallis Meet

By GORDON RICE
Corvallis, Ore.—(UPI)—Oregon State's Steve Pauly, rising to a 1,101 point effort in the javelin, captured the 1963 National AAU Decathlon championship Saturday with 7,852 points.

Dick Emberger, a Marine stationed at Camp Pendleton, finished second with 7,331 points, and won the second berth on a United States track team which will compete with Russia and other European countries next month.

Pauly succeeds C. J. Yang of UCLA as national champion. Yang, who holds the world record of 9,121 points, passed up this meet to join other Nationalist Chinese athletes on a European tour.

The 6 foot 4 Oregon State basketball and track star from Beaverton, Ore., had the meet won before he cut loose with a 241 foot 3 javelin throw in the next to the last event of the meet, but the 1,101 points he got for that throw were the most in one event in the two-day meet.

Pauly started the day in first place with 4,045 points. He added 894 on a 14.7 time in the 110 meter hurdles, another 790 with a 149 1/2 foot discus throw.

He then added 715 points with a 12 foot 11 pole vault, and an unneeded 307 with a time of 4:53.6 in the 1,500 meter run which closed the meet.

Competing in his seventh decathlon, Pauly surpassed his all-time best mark in five of the 10 events. His previous best total mark was 7,244 last year. He finished third in the 1962 championships and was a member of the U.S. team which competed against a Russian team last summer at Palo Alto.

Pauly's first day marks were 11.3 in the 100 meter dash, 22 feet 10 in the broad jump, 47 feet in the shot put, six feet in the high jump and 49.6 in the 400 meters.

Behind Pauly and Emberger in the final standings came Dave Edstrom, Oxnard AFB, 7,326; Russ Hodge, Oxnard AFB, 7,112; Bill Toomey, Santa Clara Youth Village, 6,822; Phil Mulkey, Birmingham, Ala., 6,393; and Charles Mosely, University of Alabama, 6,383.
