

Patio Cover Color Choice Said Important

Choosing just the right color when considering a translucent fiberglass panel installation for more fun in outdoor living can be just as important as the weight and configuration of the material, according to experts in the field.

A new four-color booklet entitled "Ideas for Better Living" stresses this often overlooked aspect of patio cover installation, as well as other outdoor construction. Offered without charge by Filon Corporation, Hawthorne, Calif., leading manufacturer of fiberglass reinforced plastic building panels, the booklet gives complete details on a variety of outdoor and indoor building and decorating ideas.

For example, each of the 20 decorator colors manufactured by Filon has its individual characteristics and should be evaluated with extreme care, depending on where the home owner lives and where the installation will be in relation to the home, the company pointed out.

In those areas of the country that have an extremely warm, sunny and bright climate, exclusive "Thermoblok" colors should be installed on patio, carport or porch roofs.

Colors Are Noted
These colors: Canary, Dusty Peach, Snow, Shamrock and Tangerine-filter out a major portion of the sun's heat, allowing only 20-36 per cent to pass through while retaining maximum light transmission. Any of these colors will provide a cool, comfortable relief from the sun even during the summer's warmest days.

For temperate, mild climates, turquoise, emerald, coral, green or yellow colors would be suitable. These colors have heat transmission values ranging from 37-68 per cent and transmit as high as 84 per cent of the light.

For well shaded areas around the home and clear colors could be used, as heat would not be a serious problem. These colors transmit 61-68 per cent of the heat and allow up to 88 per cent of the available light to come through.

Northern Exposures
The company said that as a rule of thumb, jade, clear and green are best for northern exposures, while the "Thermoblok" shades are best for southern exposure. But, regardless of the color chosen or required, proper ventilation techniques must be employed for maximum benefit of any fiberglass installation. If these are not adhered to no patio or porch will be comfortable.

Conversely the firm's "Rolo-lite," a crinkle finish fiberglass material in roll form, reduces the glare in all instances regardless of the color chosen.

The "Ideas for Better Living" booklet is available without charge from: Filon Corporation, 333 N. Van Ness Ave., Hawthorne, Calif.

PANEL FENCING—Cooking takes on real glamor in a handsome, comfortable outdoor setting such as this one. Completely enclosed with colorful, translucent fiberglass panel fencing, a barbecue party or any cat-out occasion will be private, and free from wind and dust.—Fence panels by Filon Corporation.

License Plate Game Suggested While Traveling

Even the best vacation trip by car has stretches of dull scenery when the back-seat passengers get bored or restless. A game played for years by passengers is seeing who can spot the most state license plates or the most unusual plates.

Here are some variations on this game, as well as some interesting information on plates:

Count to see which truck that you pass carries the most tags. The American Trucking association reports that the most it knows of was 39 on an Arizona moving van.

reflective license plate during a night time journey. Eleven states and the District of Columbia now use "safety" plates that reflect light, so you have a good chance to see one soon. They pop out brilliantly at night.

'Collect' Animals
Let the passengers try to "collect" all of the animals, people or things shown on plates. For your information, there are four presidents shown on South Dakota plates; a pelican in Louisiana; a heart in Alabama; a flag in Alaska; an outline of the Rockies in Colorado, etc.

A variation of this would be a guessing game based on plate mottos. Let one passenger call out such mottos as "The Beef State," "Land of Opportunity," "Water Wonderland," and "Sportsmen's Paradise" to see if the other passengers can match the state with the motto.

Give a special award to the passenger who sees A. J. "Stub" Farlow and his horse Deadman. This pair, famous from World War I rodeos, is the horse and rider shown on Wyoming plates since 1936.

All told, 32 states use mottos, pictures or other art on plates.

Summer Can Be Fun for Mothers

It might be a good idea to make the weeks during summer and vacation months "special" weeks for mothers and home makers.

The idea would be for the wives, mothers, and home-makers to gather the family and picnic foods and make their get-aways often, leaving all schedules at home. Only foods easy to pack and stack would be included, along with paper plates, cups and a thermos. It would be their time to lean back and relax.

Apple Tuna Salad
For this recipe, all you need is a seven-ounce can of solid pack tuna fish, drained; two large eating apples, cored and sliced; one and one-half cups thinly sliced cucumbers. Mix together. Pack in your paper freezer containers along with another container of sour cream dressing.

Then combine one cup sour cream, two tablespoons elder vinegar, two teaspoons sugar, and pour over salad when ready.
Hot or Cold Honey Lemonade
Combine the juice of 1 lemon and 2 tablespoons honey in a glass. Add enough hot water to fill the glass to within 1 inch of the top. If you want it cold, add ice cubes.
For dessert, carry in a box, some peanut butter cups, enough to satisfy the sweet tooth.

SAILOR OUTFIT—A pretty picture for summer fun is this young miss in her Venetian-sailor outfit. Perky middie shirt and gay shorts are coordinated in combed cotton knit. Her terry tote bag is roomy enough to hold fun-time essentials such as her aim-and-shoot, fixed focus Brownie for black and white or color snapshots.—Venetian Sailor Outfit by Regal "Fiesta" Brownie camera.
