Small Worlds Around Us

By Lynn W. Watkins

Here's One Case Where a Forceful Change Succeeded

There was vocal conflict, aggravated frequently by the appearance of commercial fishermen with nets in the near vicinity of sports fishermen who screamed loud and long that there ought to be a law making it illegal for nets to be used in areas where fishermen with rods and lines normally congregated.

As time went on, the arguments grew more heated. There were more severe reasons why fishing wasn't as productive as could be hoped, but the failure was attributed to the net fishermen.

Then came the day when the net fishermen stretched their seines across the mouth of the bay. This was the clincher. The balloon went up. The sports fishermen blew their collective tops. They determined to do something about it. Pressure was brought to bear and meetings were called. Tempers flared.

Only Bitterness

Interviews from both sides yielded only bitterness; all arguments were hashed and re-hashed, times without number. The wheels of final decision ground ponderously, but they turned. It was decided—no net fishing within certain defined boundaries. "Unlawful to block all, or part of any inlets leading into the bay."

The sports fishermen were happy; the net fishermen were angry; the netters had their day, illuminated by the glaring light of publicity.

The headlines forecasted dire results. The net fishermen screamed; "We will starve. Our children will be deprived of their birthright. Our way of life has been destroyed. We will be out of work; it was the only way we had of making a living."

These, and many other equally startling statements were printed. There were some folks, aside from those directly concerned, that believed all this, and their hearts ached for those unfortunate victims whose livelihoods were being interfered with, and who would now starve.

This all actually happened just a few short years ago. In the meantime there has been ample time to analyze the decision, the result, and measure the damage, or the advantages.

No Evidence

Without food, a healthy man can live for about 30 days. The records show that not a single one of the dire forecasts of what was expected to happen to any of those concerned has occurred. Not a single person has starved to death, in fact, now at the end of 10 years, no evidence can be found that anyone even suffered from even the mildest case of malnutrition.

What seems a little stranger is that all those that expected to undergo a radical change in living standards suffered little or no inconvenience. Neither was there any suffering; in fact now, after just a few short years, there is a certain degree of harmony between the net fishermen and those that use a hook and line. Sometimes a forceful change in a way of life proves beneficial.

Surgery on Throat

Hyannis, Mass.—(UPI) — Mrs. Joan Kennedy, wife of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy (D-Mass.) had a sore throat Friday but otherwise was in good condition following surgery for an abscess.

She was reported "resting comfortably" at Cape Cod Hospital, through suffering from a sore throat, the after-effect of the surgery.

Talent Youth Hurt In Auto Accident

Dave Westfall, 17, son of Mrs. Bill Perry, 218 North Second st., Talent, received a head injury from a car accident early Saturday morning, it was reported.

The car, driven by Gary McGarity, son of Mrs. Ethel McGarity, 219 Gibson st., Talent, hit a telephone pole on Main st. between the old highway and I st., it was reported.

The driver was not hurt. A physician used 13 stitches to close the 17-year-old passenger's head wound.

Hatfield Reported To Be Improved

Salem — (UPI) — Gov. Mark Hatfield, who has been down with the flu for the past week, was described as "much better" Friday by his press secretary, Travis Cross.

Cross said the governor's appointments for Friday have been cancelled, "but we're shuffling work out to his house."

Cross indicated Hatfield might return to his office Monday.

LICENSE INVALID—Mr. and Mrs. Roy Harmon of Star City, Ark., display their 1945 marriage license which is invalid under a 1941 Arkansas law. They plan to marry again and have invited other couples in the same situation to join them. Under Arkansas law the husband must be 18 and the wife 16 to marry without parental consent. Harmon said his age was 21 and Mrs. Harmon gave hers as 18 when actually they were both 17. The Social Security Administration announced last April that it would not pay widows' benefits to persons who were not legally married. (UPI)

Former Jacksonville Resident Praises Work Done On Beekman Home

A Tempe, Ariz. woman, a former Jacksonville resident, wrote this week praising the operation of the C. C. Beekman home in Jacksonville.

She wrote the county court that she was impressed by the rehabilitation of the home, its furnishings and grounds. The guides who had a good knowledge of the historic facts of the period were also impressive, she said.

"The home has a marked resemblance to the Lincoln home in Springfield, Ill.," she wrote. "The old pioneer homes in the midwest are kept and cared for with obvious pride."

"The Beekman home is a fine example of American history," she concluded. The letter was signed by Mavis E. Peters, 1345 Don Carlos ave., Tempe, Ariz.

PET TALK

By M. I. L.

HOT WEATHER CARE

The pet you save may be your own!

Be sure to move the dog house into the shade; it becomes a place of torture if exposed to the hot, mid-summer sun. Be sure there is good ventilation and that hard cushion or cedar pillow be provided for sleeping. Laundering of blankets, if used, should be frequent. Only scrupulous cleanliness will prevent an epidemic of fleas.

When you leave on vacation, please do not forget your pet. Remember always that he depends upon you alone for food and shelter. If you leave him in a kennel be sure that it is a reputable one. Many dogs have been known to contract disease germs from kennels not disinfected after each occupancy. If you are leaving him with friends be sure they understand his feeding schedule. Most certainly, it is unadvisable to leave your pet with anyone who is not fond of animals.

Another cruelty, too often practiced, is the adoption of pets at vacation spots and their eventual abandonment when the family is ready to go back home. So much suffering occurs as a result that we ask all who come within this category to be sure to turn these unwanted animals over to an accredited shelter or humanely put to sleep by a veterinarian. Remember—hunger, thirst and exposure are the results of abandoning animals under any circumstances.

Tips for summertime dog care: Have your dog clipped, if necessary, by a professional. Brush out shedded hair from long-haired dogs. Make plenty of water available at all times. Feed your dog smaller amounts at more frequent intervals. Don't exercise your dog immediately following a meal. When in a car, provide dog with ample ventilation. Do not park in direct sunlight; make sure there is plenty of shade when parking for any length of time.

"Extreme horror of cruelty is the mark of the spiritual man."—George Bernard Shaw.

9 Held In Portland Bookmaking Arrests

Portland — (UPI) — A total of nine persons had been arrested by late Friday in a crack-down in Multnomah and Clackamas Counties on alleged bookmaking operations.

Three persons were arrested in raids Thursday. Six secret indictments were returned by the Multnomah County grand jury Friday which resulted in more arrests.

Parade Winners at Ashland Announced

Ashland — Judges for the Fourth of July parade declared that they found decisions difficult because of the high calibre of the entries, further complicated by the unusual number of horses and riders in units that were interspersed in the line of march.

The committee headed by Bill Wright listed the following prize winners:

Sweepstakes: $50 cash and purple ribbon went to the Ashland Garden club.

In each of seven categories $20 and $10 were awarded first and second winners, with honorable mention ribbon to third place.

Children's group: 4-H Dairy club (1); Sis-Q 4-H (2); Kay Holderman (3).

Service and social groups: Kiwanis club (1); Beta Sigma Phi (2); Ashland Lions club (3).

Bands: Fire House Five Plus Two (1); Elks Kilty band (2); Ashland City band (3).

Commercial: Whitland Locke Studio (1); Rondo Lanes (2); Mark Antony Beauty shop (3).

Historical groups: Ashland Business and Professional Women (1); Southern Oregon college (2); American Legion Post 14 (3).

Churches: Assembly of God (1); Faith Tabernacle (2); United Church (3).

Special interest group: Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Clifford (1); Jon Bennett (2); Davis and Alinsworth (3).

First prize in the junior riding group went to the Yreka Rough Riders, Siskiyou Saddle Sitters (2); Rogue Riders (3). Junior riding group Class B: Southern Oregon Pony club (1); Wony chariot (2); Ashland Wranglers (3). Junior: K-Bar (1); Wenda Windbigler (2).

TEARS AND HUMIDITY—Jamie Hobbs, 2, adds a few tears to the humidity at the beach at Indianapolis, Ind. She didn't seem to realize how lucky she was to be where she was as the temperature soared to near-record heights. (UPI)
