New Jacksonville Ordinance Establishes Sewer Charges

By KATHERINE HARRELL
Mail Tribune Correspondent

Jacksonville — An ordinance establishing sewer use rates has been adopted by the Jacksonville City Council. The charge will amount to a flat $3.50 until the sewer service begins. Starting Aug. 1, this charge will be applied to water bills in place of the $2 charge which has been made during the past year. When the sewer system is actually put into operation, the ordinance provides for various types of service charges, including the following: single family, $3.50; multiple family, $3.50 plus $1 for each additional unit; residential duplex, $4.50; auto court, $3.50 plus $1 per person; beer parlors, garages, grocery stores, restaurants and service stations, each $5.50; and dental labs, $5.50 plus $1 for each additional room.

As a protection for the property owner, a $10 permit must be obtained for installation of connecting lines between the main sewer and users. Eight dollars of this amount is refundable after inspection.

Dec. 15, 1963 is the deadline by which property owners must pay their fees for hooking on to the sewer, plans must have been made by that date for the connections to be installed.

The charge for connections will be $150. In other action at last week's council meeting, Sam Harbison, attorney for Warren Masonic lodge, stated that the lodge would agree to give the city of Jacksonville an easement for a sewer pipe lateral going through its property. City Attorney Ervin B. Hogan was directed to prepare easements for the lateral. A motion was made to have City Superintendent Albert Hackert and City Councilman C. L. McBeth study whether the city needs to open a secondary street off Cluggage st.

Indians Camp At Ghost Town, Plan Dance Programs

Illinois Valley — Kerbyville Ghost Town, established three years ago by Mr. and Mrs. Jack Sowell, has as guests for the summer an encampment of Sioux and Blackfoot Indians.

The guests have their tepee set up inside the ghost town fence, one mile north of Kerby, but most of it can be seen by motorists passing by on the Redwood Highway.

Mixed Family
Chief and Mrs. Carl McLean and their children will be here until August 1. Chief Carl is a member of the Sioux tribe of Rosebud, South Dakota.

His wife, the former Gloria Gaudippe, is a member of the Montana Blackfoot tribe. Their children, Sandra, 16, Irene, 14, Pixie, 13, Carla, 8, Carl, 6, and Levi, 5, are registered on the Blackfoot tribal rolls.

Accompanying the tribe is Montana Sioux Fred Shields, well known in the West for his authentic tribal songs. The party includes their general handyman Tom Burroughs.

During the week they give performances at 8 p.m. The dancers dress in handmade buckskin costumes decorated with hand sewn beads, hand-made moccasins and head dress. Music is provided by Shields beating on a hand made Indian Drum.

The McLeans are from Portland where he is the sole manufacturer and patent holder of an Indian game modeled after Indian hockey. A small rawhide whip is used to flick and spin the plastic tops replacing the stones originally used in the game, called Whip-pet.

The family gave the first Indian performance in the state of Oregon at the opening of Lloyd Center in Portland. The McLeans have made several appearances at the Pendleton Round-up. They now have an invitation to attend the all Indian celebration in Sheridan, Wyoming, to be held in August.

Organize Pow-Wow
Chief Carl has expressed a desire to organize a local Indian Pow-Wow of all interested tribes. They may contact him by writing care of General Delivery, Kerby, Oregon.

The McLeans are awaiting the arrival of Oklahoma Indian Dave Anderson who will bring with him what is believed to be the largest war drum in existence, seven and one-half feet tall. The McLean family will operate the food concession at Ghost Town for the summer, serving Indian recipes with Mexican dishes included.

No One Attends Central Point Budget Hearing

Central Point — No one attended the city of Central Point budget hearing preceding the regular council meeting July 2. The total budget, including bonded indebtedness, is $71,729.78. The amount outside the six percent limitation is $39,892.92. Since there is a 15 mill continuing levy, no election was necessary.

Councilman Don Patterson reported on the progress of the joint school-city park plans.

During the council meeting following the hearing, councilmen approved the budget.

In other action the council voted to:

- approve an ordinance annexing Royal Heights subdivision No. 3.
- sign a water contract with Medford.
- approve an ordinance spreading assessment on Sixth st. paving and curbs.
- approved plans for paving and curbs on Laurel st., Chestnut st., and south Ninth st.
- change the name of Constant st. to Ash st.
- Councilmen voted against rezoning the Koch property on South First st. from residential to commercial. After completing a map showing the area involved, council members measured the area of the properties of those who were in favor of the rezoning. The necessary 50 per cent was lacking.
