Applegate Valley - Dedication ceremonies officially opening Jackson Forest Service campground to public recreational use will be held Sunday at 2:00 p.m. Camp Jackson is located on Upper Applegate rd. four miles south of Star Ranger Station.

Carl Johnson, Yreka, Installed In District Legion Officership

Yreka-Carl H. Johnson of Yreka was installed as commander of District Two, the American Legion, Sunday, June 30 at San Bernardino by Department Commander Lee Oeder.

District Two of the American Legion consists of 15 Posts in Siskiyou, Trinity and Shasta counties. "All eligible veterans are invited to join the Legion so they may help in the many community services the Legion has sponsored for over 40 years, with special emphasis on programs for the youth of our communities," Johnson stated.

Johnson is assistant to the Siskiyou county surveyor and secretary of the planning commission.

public is invited to the day's event to hold at the east-side entrance of the camp. Since the county court played a large part in obtaining the ground for public use, County Judge Earl M. Miller and county commissioners Donald Faber and Edwin Taylor will speak at the dedication.

C. E. Brown, forest supervisor, will speak on history of the area and development of the campground. Neil Suttell, District Ranger, will give the welcome. County and forestry officials will hang the portal sign. The Rev. Earl Best of Ruch Community church will give the invocation and benediction.

Construction of the camp was started two years ago, and the grounds have been in use for the last year. One hundred forty persons used the camp on July 4 this year.

Residents of Prospect Urged To Make Note Of New Phone Number

Prospect-Residents of the Prospect area were urged to write down the following telephone numbers: 380-2471.

It's the number of the Oregon State Guard station, where fire equipment is available in case of emergency. The number is a new listing and is not in the telephone book.

Spanish Girl Visiting Family In Fort Jones

Siskiyou County - Miss Maria de los Angeles de la Parte Sordo, who lives in Province of Asturias on the north coast of Spain, is presently visiting the Irwin Warner family in Fort Jones.

Miss de los Angeles is in the United States for a six month period under the auspices of the 4-H sponsored International Farm Youth Exchange program. During this time, she will visit with farm families in California and Mississippi, and will spend about three weeks with each family that she visits.

The Warners are her second host family in California. She visited the Dan Miller family in San Anselmo before coming to Siskiyou county, and will leave shortly for a stay with the H. K. Trobitz family in Humboldt county.

Teaches Kindergarten
Miss de los Angeles is a kindergarten teacher in her home town of Llanes. It is her hope to become a home advisor in her native country.

She has been a member of the Spanish equivalent of a 4-H Club for a number of years, so during her stay in California she has been attending 4-H meetings and events with a great deal of interest.

She is the sixth International Farm Youth exchange to visit Siskiyou county since the IFYE program was initiated. IFYE was one of the first in the People-To-People program which was inaugurated to create peace through better understanding.

Happy Camp Youth Gets Scholarship

Happy Camp-Bill Nowdesha, a graduating senior from Happy Camp high school with the class of 1963, has been awarded a $500 alumni scholarship from the class of 1966 of the University of California to attend that university.

Bill, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Nowdesha Sr. of Scott Bar, received word of the scholarship just this week and called the good news to his California State Scholarship Federation (CSF) advisor, Mrs. Vera Toleman of the Happy Camp High School staff.

According to Mrs. Toleman, Nowdesha was a Life Member of the CSF and was an exceptionally good student all four of his years in high school.

Besides being a bright student, Nowdesha also made much progress in the field of music in the school band and was leading ground gainer on the football turf this past season.

Historical Photos Now On Display

Happy Camp-Now on display at the Happy Camp Drug store is a collection of photographs enlarged from original photographs of early day Happy Camp.

The collection has grown from a hobby of Milton Kevershan Sr. and son, Milton Kevershan Jr., owners of the Happy Camp Drug, as they collect items of historical interest of this area.

Included in the collection are the photos of Nate Evans, father of Mrs. Guy Head of Happy Camp, who owned the original Evans Store in Happy Camp in the very early 1900's.

Other photos include those of Alice Swearingen Sedros, who was born near Indian Town Bar, which was a mining settlement about 10 miles up Indian Creek from Happy Camp. She was born in 1876 and still resides near where she was born.

There is a photo of Ohio Camp, supposedly the man for whom Happy Camp was named, a story that has been disputed by many of the old timers of the area who never heard of the man. There also are many pictures of the community itself as it changed through the years.

According to Milton Kevershan Sr., the photographs have created a lot of interest here, with many persons each day coming in to view the collection.

Planning Meeting For Jamboree Slated Tuesday

Prospect - Another meeting for the planning of this year's Prospect Hillbilly Jamboree will be held Tuesday night, July 16.

All organizations are urged to have representatives at this meeting to pick out their booth sites and make arrangements for the jamboree, set for Aug. 10.

All work that has been done so far has been deeply appreciated, a jamboree official said, but much more remains to be done, he stressed.

Hours are from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. and one dollar per car, plus twenty-five cents for whitewalls, will be charged.

Prospect Firemen Offer Advice

Prospect-It is important for onlookers at fires to remain at a safe distance and out of the way of firemen, the Prospect Volunteer Fire department reminded residents today.

Better yet - the department said - curiosity seekers shouldn't follow the fire truck at all.

Mail Tribune Table Rock Correspondent

A few days ago a man came to our house and introduced himself. He said he was Belmont Pankey and had gone to school with us in the little one-room school house some 60 years ago. During our conversation we asked him how long he attended school. He said one term. One term those days meant three months, in the spring. Later they had three months in the fall, making six months in the school year. Personally, we went more than one term. The rule those days was to go until you finished Barnes fifth reader, or reached the age of 21. We finished the fifth reader, and were carrying the U.S. mail before we were 21. There were no grades those days. Belmont dropped in to tell us that he had been told by Ed Vincent that the local ladies club was trying to get a speed zone here. He wanted to tell them he would go to bat for them, and would write to the Governor informing him of the situation. He said he had clocked several logging trucks going 70 miles per hour, which he said was much too fast in a community as thickly settled as this one. He also told us he had gone to Washington, D.C., and talked with some of our congressmen about matters pertaining to the welfare of this area. He said they listened to what he said and that he got action. So the good ladies of the local club have a sponsor who will go all out to help them get something he believes is badly needed.

The Exposure Fad
The following is from a M.T. Editorial written by E.A. several years ago.
"FOR MEN ONLY "Men -

"Just in case you missed it, there was a significant item in this newspaper the other day. It was printed in the 'society' or 'women's' section, which is why you might not have seen it.

"Anyway -
"It said -

"The men have won the battle to keep their women looking sexy instead of sassy. The decrying silhouette of the gynny sack of last spring is dead . . .

"What's more, this story, written by a lady United Press International writer named Gay Pauley, gave the credit to us - the men.

"It is clear that the grass roots protests from husbands and taxi-drivers - have not gone unheeded," it said. We haven't checked with any taxi-drivers recently, but we know at least one husband who is glad, glad, glad this abomination is to be removed.

"And we know at least one society editor who took the plunge into the sack, so to speak, and now wonders what to do about that humpy dress."
Recently we heard a minister talking on the radio say that if some prominent women started a fad of going bare-footed up to the chin and said it was the style, there would be a lot of women give it a whirl. I don't know how far they would get, but if a man tried it he would be arrested on the spot. We have wondered why Eric hasn't had something to say about this present day exposure fad.

Thought for the day -
We should remember that the person with a narrow mind generally has the biggest mouth.

Wagon Trek Members Hold Reunion At Ashland

Ashland - The home of Mr. and Mrs. Vic Stewart on Neil Creek rd. near Ashland was the scene of the fourth annual 4H Wagon Trek reunion during the week end of July 6 and 7.

Members who made the unusual wagon trip from Jacksonville to Corvallis during the summer of the 1959 Oregon centennial year met to renew friendships and recall events of the trip.

Trek members arrived on Saturday for a picnic supper. The evening was spent playing old-fashioned games, hearing communications from members who could not attend, visiting, and enjoying a bonfire much as the trekkers did on the actual trip.

Color slides of the trip and of Yosemite were shown by Vern Temple of Ashland, and those present enjoyed viewing color moving pictures of the 1959 trek shown by Stewart.

Breakfast was eaten by the campfire, then the group went to Emigrant Lake, where boating, water skiing, and a picnic lunch were in order.

Prizes were won by Glenn Klein, former Jackson County 4-H leader, now a state extension agent in Corvallis, for traveling the farthest distance; Mrs. Jessie James of Phoenix, trek cook, and oldest trekker present; and Bookie Stewart, who was three years old at the time of the trek, as youngest trekker present. Four of the wagon drivers of the five wagons starting from Jacksonville attended. Vic and Kenny Stewart, Ray Inlow, and Phil Krouse.

It was noted that during the four years since the wagon trek was made members have scattered in many parts of the country and thus many were unable to attend this year's reunion because of long distances to travel.

Many Accomplishments
Scrapbooks kept by members in attendance showed the many accomplishments of the young people since the 1959 trek, and each year's reunion is anticipated for the opportunity to catch up on the news of the trekkers and to reminisce about the events of the trip.

Assisting the Stewarts with this year's event were Ray and Ailene Inlow of Ashland. The group voted to meet next year's reunion on the North Umpqua, with Mrs. Perry Wright and Mrs. Wesley Davis as hostesses. Both joined the wagon train as part of the Douglas County delegation.

History, Boundary, Government Study Groups Of Boosters' Club Give Reports

Jacksonville - The filling out of membership cards in the Jacksonville Boosters' club opened a meeting of the club Tuesday night at the city hall. The cards state the aim of the boosters' club as follows: "A community organization working for the general welfare and improvement of the city of Jacksonville."

Three study groups will work through the summer (history, boundary, government). At the summer's end each group will turn in a report of its findings for community discussion. In the fall, a series of town meetings will be held, based on these reports. Here they will be received by the local people and from this open discussion will come another report, which will be called the community report.

Same Outline
This plan for the reports follows the same outline as the three-part community study on Cle Elum, Washington. This report, along with Richard Waverly Poston's book "Democracy Is You," are available in the library.

John Crabb spoke of the work the boundary committee has done so far. The work is based on a "point of identification" with such items as civic and fraternal clubs, water, sewer, fire department, health, church, school, telephone and power. The group will chart these areas, from which maps will be made with different colors for the separate outlines mentioned above.

The boundary committee found that city limits aren't very meaningful except in the realm of city government. Fire, health, and fraternal groups go outside the city limits quite a bit.

Crabb said he thought it good in any community for people to know each other and have confidence in one another. He urged building up the tourist trade by keeping Jacksonville's biggest potential intact - the historic buildings - and also by being a "living community."

Don Wendt reported on the history committee. This group has gathered together a number of people who have lived all or a great part of their lives in Jacksonville.

In this group are George Wendt, Charles Wilcox, Mrs. Grace Noble, Judge Herbert Hanna, Peter Pick, Alfred Carpenter, Fred Schreffel, Clinton Smith and Pearl Whitney. They meet at the library Tuesday afternoons and discuss the past and how they remember and knew it. Many facets are opened in the discussions and written down: the old stage coach, the Chinese district, etc. Some of the information goes back to 1860.

From this gathering an outline will be worked out as to how the old buildings looked, where old wells are, and how and what businesses were established. The material will be edited and told in a third person manner, as if by an old miner who tells the story of Jacksonville as he remembers it.

Another club member reported on the government committee. This subject is broken down into 13 divisions. Some of the divisions are "Your Local Government," "Structure and Functions of Government," "Public Protection," and "Planning and Zoning."

Check Charter
They will check the city charter, ordinances, the limitations placed on authority, and civic duties. The purpose is to develop a framework for where Jacksonville is going, and to develop an outline for its growth to work on.

This group asks especially for young citizens' help. The work planned will give a background on town government in relation to state and county. The committee meets every Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in the public library.

"Social" and "Population" are two committees to be started next week. The Boosters' club minutes are available for reading at any time in the library. The next general meeting will be held Aug. 13.
