Claim of Tampering In Hoffa Jury Case Results in Denial

Nashville, Tenn. (UPI) - Federal attorneys denied Monday defense claims that they offered to "take care" of one of the defendants in the James R. Hoffa jury tampering case. In briefs filed with District Court Judge Frank Gray, the government said it did offer, however, to protect Thomas Ewing Parks, one of the defendants, if he would testify against the Teamsters president.

Nothing Improper

The attorneys said there was nothing improper about the manner in which Hoffa and 10 others were indicted last May by a Federal grand jury. They asked that defense motions seeking a dismissal of the charges or a separate trial in another city for Hoffa be dismissed.

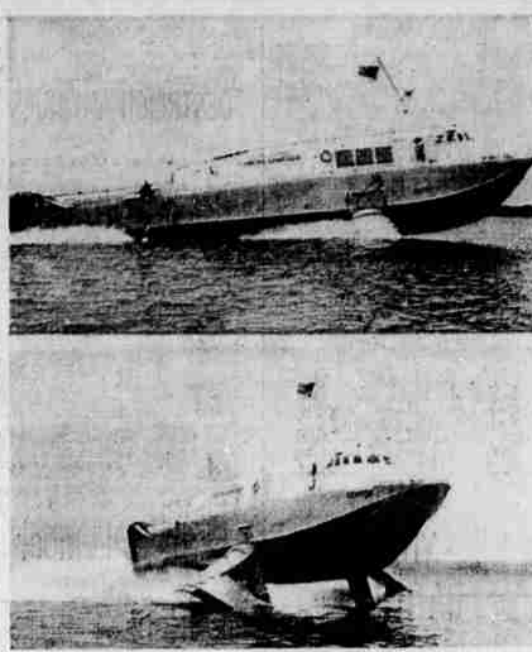

Arguments on the motions by both sides are scheduled July 22. Hoffa and the others were indicted on charges of attempting to bribe jurors and prospective jurors in Hoffa's $1-million conspiracy trial last fall, allegedly offering $75,000. The Teamster president could be sentenced to 25 years in prison and fined $25,000 if convicted on all five counts.

Results In Mistrial

The conspiracy case, in which Hoffa was charged with sharing an illegal payoff from a Detroit trucking firm, resulted in a mistrial last December. Two jurors and a prospective juror were dismissed during the nine-week trial and at its end, Federal Judge William E. Miller ordered the grand jury investigation.

Defense motions were filed last week and claimed that witnesses were "threatened and cajoled" by Federal attorneys.

Rockefeller Rapped By State Chairman

Portland - (UPI) - Oregon's Republican Chairman Phil Roth sharply criticized New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller's recent attack against rightists and supporters of Arizona Sen. Barry Goldwater Monday.

"This type of name calling and innuendo will only damage the party image and boomerang against its accuser," Roth said. Rockefeller had said the efforts of the Goldwater rightists would not only defeat the Republican party, "but would destroy it all together."

Roth said the Republican party has room for diversity of opinion, but when Rockefeller "questions the motives and intent of Republicans who differ with him, his violent outbursts damage his position and all those who accept his point of view."

Cigarettes and Lung Injury

A correspondent writes to remind me that in my recent column on the painting of cigarette tar on the walls of the bronchi (tubes in to and out of the lungs) only 31 out of 130 dogs developed a severe bronchitis, precancerous changes or actual cancer. The question asked me is, "Why didn't the other 99 dogs also get cancer?"

The answer is that in both animals and man there is a tremendous individual difference in the susceptibility of different members. For instance, Miss Maude Slye, years ago, at the University of Chicago, bred a strain of mice all of which, all by themselves, developed cancer. She bred another strain of mice that were immune to cancer. None of them could get it. I once saw an autopsy on a man who had gotten four separate and different cancers in four different parts of his body. He must have had a tremendous susceptibility to the disease. I have known families in which a father and two brothers all developed cancer of the colon (large bowel).

Because of these great differences in susceptibility some men can smoke heavily all their days and can get by, while others sooner or later get into trouble.

Torrential Rains Batter Chicago

Torrential rains struck Chicago's southern and western suburbs early today during a night of harsh thunderstorms in the Lake Michigan area and the southern plains.

Lightning and thunder filled the Chicago skies and rainfall was heaviest from Dolton on the southside to Joliet to the southwest and as far west as Rockford, Ill.

A funnel cloud was spotted in suburban Tinley Park but it apparently did not touch the ground. At least 1.45 inches of rain had fallen midway through the night.

Some streets on the south side were flooded and power was knocked out in some areas. However, police said damage was negligible.

Heavy rain and large hail also struck east of Liberal, Kan.

Columbus, Miss., got 1.45 inches of rain during a thunderstorm and Greenwood, Miss., received 1.16 inches during an afternoon storm Monday.

Task Force Tours Hanford Project

Richland, Wash. - (UPI) - The third "task force" studying diversification of the Hanford Atomic Works near here arrived Monday for a two-day study which will include talks with Atomic Energy Commission and General Electric officials.

The six-man team was headed by Robert F. Sleadman, economic adjustment advisor to the secretary of defense.

The group will tour all the major plant areas today and Wednesday.

The study is being made at the suggestion of Sen. Henry M. Jackson (D-Wash.) and Dr. Glen Seaborg, chairman of the AEC.

This is the third such group to tour the plant in the past six months.

Hell the World is Hungry

According to a recent article in Science Newsletter, sociologists are becoming frightened by the enormous increase in population which, by the end of the century, will probably cause the world to be populated by six billion people, or twice the number that we have today.

What is particularly alarming is the fact that right now there is not enough food to go around; and as a result, 1,500,000,000 people are hungry all the time. Unless people outside the United States and Canada can learn to produce much more food than they now can make or gather, they are going to have serious trouble, even in the next 12 years. Already a number of countries are having to buy and import large amounts of food. There have been small gains achieved in food production in a number of countries, but this gain has been wiped out by the rapid growth in population.
