Hopes Buoyed for House Approval Of Cuts in Taxes

Washington - (AP) - A sharp cut in government red - ink spending today buoyed prospects for House approval of the income tax cut President Kennedy wants.

Kennedy announced the good news Wednesday. He told a televised news conference that the government wound up the fiscal year on June 30 with a budget deficit $2.6 billion less than he had predicted last January.

The President said final figures to be released by the Treasury within the next few days would show that outgo exceeded income by only $6.2 billion. In his January budget message Kennedy had forecast an $8.8 billion deficit.

He noted, happily, that the deficit had turned out to be even smaller than the previous fiscal year. The deficit for the year which ended June 30, 1962 - the first full fiscal year of the Kennedy administration - was $6.4 billion.

Plea Renewed
Kennedy coupled the announcement with a renewed plea for passage this year of a $10 billion cut in income taxes for individuals and corporations.

In other congressional business, Navy Secretary Fred Korth appears for the seventh time in the continuing congressional investigation into the controversial TEX fighter plane contract award. Chairman John L. McClellan (D-Ark.) of the Senate investigations subcommittee so far has held four months of hearings into the award of the $6.5 billion contract to General Dynamics Corp. over Boeing Co.

U.S., Mexico To Settle El Paso Island Dispute

El Paso, Tex. - (AP) - Settlement of the century - old Chamizal dispute between the United States and Mexico was to be announced today, United Press International has learned.

The announcement that will transfer the area to Mexico will be made by President Kennedy in Washington and by Mexican President Adolfo Lopez Mateos in Mexico City. The U.S. is expected to give up most of the Chamizal to Mexico in return for Cordova Island, a Mexico-owned river island that juts 20 blocks into El Paso.

Negotiators have been working out details of the settlement since the President and Lopez Mateos discussed the situation when Kennedy visited Mexico City June 29, 1962.

Heavily Populated
The Chamizal (Spanish for thick) is a section of land left on the north side of the Rio Grande when the river changed channels in 1852. It is now heavily populated and contains several schools, El Paso's only meat packing plant and a number of small businesses.

The 630 acres in the Chamizal have been estimated to be worth as much as $20 million. Approximately 4,000 persons live there.

Former El Paso Mayor Ralph Seitsinger proposed July 19, 1962 that a new channel be dredged in the Rio Grande. He said at that time that a settlement was near.

He said U.S. property owners would get about $35 million in payment for the land turned over to Mexico.

Recommendation Refused
In 1911 an impartial boundary commission recommended the land be turned back to Mexico. The United States refused to accept the recommendation.

Seitsinger conferred with U.S. Ambassador to Mexico Thomas C. Mann and with Joseph Friedkin of El Paso, of the U.S. International Water and Boundary commission on the Chamizal a year ago.

The area, comprising 60 blocks, includes four elementary schools, one high school and a government housing project. The settlement was expected to give Mexico a net gain of 437 acres, with 193 acres of Mexican-owned Cordova Island reverting back to the U.S.
