

New Talent Water System Gradually Taking Shape

CONSTRUCTION IN PROGRESS—Work is progressing at this site a few miles west of Talent where a water treatment plant for the city's new water system is being constructed. In the past, the city water supply has come entirely from wells. But believing that source to be inadequate for future needs, the Talent city council proposed that a new system be built so that water could be taken out of Wagner creek, purified in a treatment plant and distributed to users. The voters last year approved a bond issue to finance the $185,000 project, about $40,000 of which will be spent on the treatment plant.

PIPELINE FOR THE NEW SYSTEM—Lengths of pipe are shown along Wagner Creek rd. near the Talent city limits as workmen last week were laying the main pipeline which will bring the city's water in from the treatment plant to users. Starting from the plant site, workmen have been digging a ditch and laying the pipe, gradually working toward the city. The ditch had not yet been extended to the part of Wagner Creek rd. shown above when this photo was taken.

Consultant From University To Visit Jacksonville Soon

Jacksonville—At the Tuesday noon meeting of the Jacksonville Boosters' club, Mrs. Edna Valentine reported on her trip to Washington, where she looked over the set of reports on the community development study of Soap Lake, Wash.

Dirk Anderson, community consultant for the Bureau of Community Development Studies of the University of Washington in Seattle will be here July 25.

Anderson will be available for work shop consultation with the study chairmen in the morning at the community hall. A box lunch will follow, where he will speak at noon.

Residents, Boosters' club members, interested citizens and officials are invited to attend. Members of small communities in the valley who might have problems similar to Jacksonville's, and are interested in how this community is attempting to solve them, are also welcome.

Old Forest Service Office Building

New Quarters Nearly Completed

Ranger District Building Going Up At Union Creek

Union Creek—Personnel of the Union Creek Ranger district will move into new quarters soon-located across the street from the forest service's present office building here.

The move will take place as soon as the new building is inspected and accepted by forest service authorities.

The new quarters will provide more working space and better lighting, plus a desk for each member of the staff and a private office for District Ranger Emil Sabol.

Walks, curbs, parking area and landscaping are planned.

DEATH NOTED
 Prospect—Word was received by Mrs. Raymond Artmire last week that her nephew, Major Gene Rae of Medford, who was critically injured in an auto accident July 12, died July 14. Major Rae had recently been transferred to Oakland, Calif. His wife, who also was injured, is still hospitalized.

Reading Program Held in Hornbrook

Hornbrook—The reading improvement program sponsored by the Siskiyou County Schools office and local school districts concluded Tuesday of last week.

A total of 20 pupils from the Hilt-Hornbrook area attended the local class, held at the Hornbrook school-house. Besides the class held here, others were conducted at Dorris, Dunsuir, Etna, Fort Jones, Grenada, Happy Camp, Montague, Mount Shasta, Tulelake, Weed and Yreka.

Twenty-four reading specialists were employed for a four-week period, and were recruited from the states of California, Washington, and Oregon. Director of the program was Paul Fisher of Yreka.

Reading instruction was given to children in grades 3-12. Materials and supervision were provided by the county schools office.

Children attending the centers were referred by local school districts throughout the county on the basis of achievement tests in reading. Classes were held daily from 8 to 12.

The program is believed to be the first of its kind in the state in that it relied on individualized instruction by reading specialists.

Relative Of Siskiyou Family Builds Age Determining Device

Yreka—William Schell, grandson of Mrs. Gussie Schell and nephew of Walter Schell, both of Hawkinsville, was the subject of a story in the July issue of the San Francisco News Call Bulletin.

William Schell, who has often visited in Yreka, and who now is a graduate research assistant in chemistry at the University of Washington in Seattle, has constructed a "time machine" designed to determine the age of things through a system known as the Carbon-14 process.

Uses Gun Barrel
 The machine, according to the story, includes a section of a 16-inch gun barrel from the scrapped battleship USS Colorado, which serves as the housing for the age counter which is made up of household canning paraffin, a box of borax and 325 pounds of quicksilver in which a couple of tubes have been inserted.

There is more to the process, however, than just a gun barrel full of ingredients. Schell's laboratory is an array of beakers, glass tubes, wiring, burners and other equipment.

SCHOOL COMPLETED
 Wilderville—The Wilderville Methodist church has completed the third year of its Vacation Bible school. It was attended this year by 45 young persons.

The age counting process is based on the simple theory that any material containing radioactive carbon - C14 - can be dated by merely counting the radioactive rays it emits. And scientists are convinced that plants, animals - even sea water - have been absorbing Carbon-14 on this earth for millions of years.

Compare Old With New
 Because they know the nature of C-14, scientists can count its rate of radioactivity by comparing the C-14 in old material with that in new, and using a precalculated scale, can determine the age of the old material.

Schell's machine is such a counter.

Entries Are Invited For Siskiyou County Fair Parade Slated Aug. 17

Yreka—Entries are beginning to come in for the 1963 Siskiyou County Fair Parade to be held Saturday noon, August 17 in downtown Yreka.

Entry blanks can be picked up at the fair grounds office in Yreka, or can be obtained by writing to the Tenth District Agricultural association, Box 338, Yreka. Entry blanks must be returned to the fair office no later than Friday, Aug. 2.

Ribbons and trophies will be awarded in the following divisions: musical, specialty (unusual entries), floats, vintage cars, horse drawn entries, best dressed rider, riding groups, marching units and family groups.

A large silver platter will be given as a sweepstakes award to the most interesting over-all entry.

'Queen And King' Crowned Following Tiller Bible School

Tiller—Iris Stone and Richard Loblien were crowned queen and king of the 1963 Vacation Bible school at a recent program at the South Umpqua Community church. They won this honor for having the most fish in the net, as a result of fishing for boys and girls to bring with them to Bible school.

Attendance increased every day until there were 60 children in attendance the final day.

Awards were presented to all the children by their teachers. Each group sang the songs they had learned and the Juniors presented "Christ's Way My Way" showing how highway signs could be used as guides along Christ's highway.

The Rev. Kenneth Thompson, pastor of the church, gave the closing benediction, after which everyone went to the youth room to see the displays of the children's handicrafts. It was evident the children had had a busy week for they made everything from mitten holders and napkin holders to plaques and watering cans.

Refreshments of cookies, doughnuts, coffee and punch were served.

TRANSFERRED
 Prospect—PH2 Fred Poole, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Poole, has been transferred from Charleston, S.C. to Key West, Fla. He joined the U.S. Navy five years ago and is in photo laboratories work.

Wonder—Mr. and Mrs. Harold T. Briggs have sold their ranch on Slate Creek rd. They plan on remaining at the property, called White-water ranch, for an indefinite period, however.

Turin, Italy—An Italian air force plane crashed during an air show Sunday, killing a 17-year-old girl spectator.
