McNamara's Order On Demonstrations Draws Challenge

By AL KUETTNER
UPI Correspondent

An order by Defense Secretary Robert McNamara that uniformed troops must not participate in racial demonstrations has been sharply challenged by integration organizations.

Caught up in the controversy is the little town of Havelock which lies outside the main entrance gate to the Cherry Point Marine Air Station in the flatlands of eastern North Carolina.

Racial groups have leveled discrimination charges against the "public accommodations" of the town which derives much of its income from the 2,600 men of Cherry Point, 600 of whom are Negroes.

Floyd McKissick, a Durham, N. C., lawyer who is national executive director of the Congress of Racial Equality and an attorney for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, announced that McNamara will be asked this week to declare Havelock off limits to Marines unless the places used by the servicemen are desegregated.

He said he based his information that at least 17 night clubs and cafes and three theaters in the town were segregated on reports from a Marine who had just transferred home from duty in Japan.

A spokesman at Cherry Point, home of the 2nd Marine Air Wing, said the base would adhere strictly to a July 16 directive by McNamara and that "we will very definitely discourage participation in demonstrations."

In that directive, the defense secretary said that military personnel "may not under any circumstances participate in racial demonstrations during duty hours, while they wear in uniform, while on military reservations, when their participation breaks a civilian law or when violence is reasonably likely to result from a demonstration in which they were participating."

Not Direct Order
McNamara did not expressly forbid off duty servicemen not in uniform from getting into a racial incident but they also could be affected in the event of trouble and arrest.

The presence of a small number of Negro servicemen among racial demonstrators recently brought demands that McNamara issue a service-wide policy directive on the subject. A few Negro servicemen in uniform have shown up at most of the major demonstrations in the South.

McKissick did not say that Cherry Point military personnel planned to violate the McNamara order but he stressed that integration groups would turn to "direct action" at Havelock unless the Defense Department or the business houses involved move voluntarily.

140 Attend Band Camp at Campus

Ashland - One hundred forty students from Oregon and northern California are attending the Southern Oregon college Siskiyou Band Camp which ends July 26.
The high school and grade school students are divided into two sections, the Red Band and the White Band. Both are conducted by Dr. Clarence Sawhill, professor of music and director of bands at UCLA. There also is a variety band consisting of older students.

Tuesday, July 23, the band camp students will present a recital in the Ballroom of the Britt Student Union on the SOC campus. Another concert will be held 7:30 p.m. Friday, July 26, in the Butler Bandshell in Lithia Park.

In charge of the band camp is Dr. Glenn Matthews, founder, who also planned an overnight camping trip to Fourmile lake for the band campers. Assisting the direction of the band camp is Dr. Herbert Cecil, chairman of the SOC music department, and Oscar Bjorlie, assistant professor of music at SOC.

Several SOC musicians and Rogue valley music instructors also are assisting with the various instrument classes.

Band Concert Set At Britt Center

Ashland - Dr. Clarence Sawhill, one of the nation's foremost authorities in band work and director of bands at the University of California at Los Angeles, will direct the Southern Oregon College Siskiyou Band Camp in concert at an assembly at 3 p.m. July 23 in Britt Student Center Ballroom.

Dr. Sawhill is guest director for the Band Camp which is now in progress through July 26.
Townpeople are invited to attend the assembly without charge.

Psychologist Points To Problems With Aging Americans

By DELOS SMITH
UPI Science Editor

New York - One big reason why it is so difficult for Americans to grow old gracefully is that Americans bear down heavily on the soma and pay little attention to the psyche, said Dr. Wendell M. Swenson who, being a psychologist, gives emphasis to the psyche.

"We are well sensitized to problems of our soma by the time of maturity," he went on. "The annual physical examination and the physical qualifications required for most employment, together with the stereotype of the 'red-blooded American boy,' all point to the fact that American society is well-grounded in accepting good physical condition as one of the major assets or perhaps as the major asset of life."

So when Americans age they find it easy to take out their psychic (emotional and mental) difficulties on their soma. They can admit to physical (somatic) difficulties but they've had no training and no experience in recognizing and accepting those which rise from fears and tensions.

Major Segment
Swenson is a member of the scientific staff of the Mayo Clinic and Foundation, Rochester, Minn. He was advising physicians on how to deal psychologically with aging Americans in the technical journal, "Postgraduate Medicine." As everyone knows, they now form a major segment of the population. By 1980 approximately one half of it will be 55 or older.

His key recommendation is a reminder that "nothing is more important to the human personality than self-esteem. It should be remembered that people grow old with themselves and with things. To take either a part of them-

Spencer Tracy Said Considerably Better

Los Angeles - (UPI) - Actor Spencer Tracy, 62, was reported "considerably better and 'feeling fine' today at St. Vincent's hospital where he is undergoing treatment for lung congestion.
The veteran silver-haired actor collapsed outside the rented Malibu Beach home of actress Katharine Hepburn Sunday as they prepared to go on a picnic. Tracy was taken to the hospital in a private ambulance.

The actor's physician said Monday he suffered from "a little congestion in the lungs that bothered his heart."
Miss Hepburn first thought Tracy suffered a heart attack. But the physician said the Academy Award winner had a sudden attack of pulmonary edema.

The physician, Dr. Karl Lewis, said he did not plan to issue any further medical bulletins unless there was a "major change" in Tracy's condition. He would not say when the actor would be released from the hospital.

Grange News

Griffin Creek Grange
A potluck dinner will precede the next meeting of the Griffin Creek Grange to be held Thursday, July 25, at 6:30 p.m. in the Grange Hall.

The home economic committee announced that more sales slips are needed.
The Fountain family was introduced and entertainment was provided by the two Fountain sons who play the accordion.

Refreshments were served by Mr. and Mrs. Jack Bierma and Winn Arnold.
selves or some of their things from them is to take away a part of their individuality. To remove all the small psychological peculiarities that exist in the older individual is clearly a threat to his independence, and he will react accordingly."

Arlene Francis Sued Over Crash

New York - (UPI) - The husband of a woman killed in the collision of his auto with one driven by Arlene Francis has filed a $1 million damage suit against the stage and television actress.
Joseph A. Arcos, 34, charged in the suit filed Monday in State Supreme Court that Miss Francis was driving in "a careless and reckless manner" and was "exceeding the speed limit" in the accident May 26 on a Long Island highway.

The auto driven by Miss Francis jumped a center divider on the highway and crashed into Arcos' auto, which he was driving. His wife, Rose, 34, was killed, injured were Miss Francis and two passengers in Arcos' car.
