Sharon Chipman, Medford Girl Scout who attended a recent All-States encampment in Tennessee, holds a half-burned fagot which is a memento of the 15-day experience. Miss Chipman explained that before the last campfire of the encampment, each person carved her name, city and state on one end of a small tree limb; the other end was burned in the fire and the fagots were then exchanged. Other Girl Scouts of the Rogue Valley council will attend encampments in other sections of the United States later this summer.

Medford Scout Attends Tennessee Encampment

Girl Scouts who attend the All-State encampments throughout the United States this summer will find the experience extremely interesting and informative, but also work hard. This is the reaction of Sharon Chipman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Chipman, 1808 Roxy Ann place, who recently returned home after attending the first of the encampments, this one having been held in Elizabethton, Tenn.

Miss Chipman was the only Girl Scout chosen from the Rogue Valley council to attend the encampment in Tennessee, but others will attend those to be held later this summer. Scouts must apply if they wish to attend an encampment, and qualifications must meet high standards.

The applicants present written material, and then are tested on their camping skills. Sharon and other applicants spent a day at Tomlin Forest, Girl Scout day camp for this area, during which their knowledge and skills were tested.

Of the encampment Miss Chipman wrote:

Why Camp?
On June 20, 100 girls from all over the United States met at Camp Sky-Wa-Mo, near Elizabethton, Tenn., for a Girl Scout All-States encampment. The purpose was to learn more, in certain fields of scouting, and to take back what was learned to scouts of the home councils.

Some of the projects were preparing leaders for the out-of-doors, primitive camping, wild life sanctuary, day camping and why camp? I worked with the project of "why camp?" which is informing the public about the importance of camping. We were instructed for eight days in the different public relations media and how to use them informing the public about camping.

We then conducted a workshop in which we taught 20 Girl Scouts of the Tennessee area what we had learned. Two girls teamed to present different phases of the workshop. My part had to do with the introduction to public relations, exhibits and photography.

Rule Stressed
At All-States there is one rule for everything. That, "Be Considerate." For example, if a person wanted to miss a meal it was considered to tell someone in order to have her name scratched off the meal count. This rule worked out very well.

The last night was one to remember. Before the last campfire each person took a small tree limb and carved on the end, her name, city, and state. These fagots were placed in the fire that night and burned at one end. When the campfire was over each person had a different fagot to take back home with her in order to bring a part of All-States to her council. My fagot will be burned at a campfire at Low Echo Girl Scout camp at Lake of the Woods.

After 15 days of hard work we were ready to return home. It was then we realized the responsibility of sharing the knowledge we had gained with senior scouts of our areas.

This was the first of six All-States for 1963. The others are scheduled for August. Senior Girl Scouts who will be attending from this council are, Miss Jill Hibbs, Medford, who will go to Michigan; Miss Penny Forbes, Med-

American Buyers Ignore Heim's Long Skirt Trend

By ALINE MOSBY
United Press International
Paris—(UPI)—Designer Jacques Heim's long-skirt bombshell is a dud, American buyers said today.

After Heim opened the fall-winter Paris fashion shows Monday, a cross-section of merchandising experts from New York indicated almost complete indifference.

The experts conceded that the new heavy tweed walking suits and knee-high boots that are blossoming all over Paris could stand a skirt about an inch or two lower than usual.

But otherwise, the buyers said, they have no intention of stocking department stores this fall with longer skirts that will force a worldwide wardrobe overhaul.

Disapprove
"I didn't like the long Heim skirts. Women never will wear them, not this year, anyway," commented one New York fabric manufacturer at a party given by the Dior Salon for designer Marc Bohan Monday night.

The head of a leading New York department store, however, confessed that the real reason the long skirts will not be adopted by stores is not consideration of women, but the fact that Heim is "not a pacemaker."

Leaves
Hornbrook — Mrs. Mabel Saunders left Thursday for a visit in Pendleton, Ore., with a granddaughter and her family. Mr. and Mrs. James Hubbard and children. Mrs. Hubbard had been visiting in Bakerville, Calif., and stopped briefly in Hornbrook to pick up her grandmother for the trip north.

Family Makes Fishing Trip
Wonder — Mr. and Mrs. Jack Wilson recently made a fishing trip to Crater and Diamond lakes. Accompanying the Wilsons were their daughters, Gala, and Jo-Ella Jacobs, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Jacobs.

Heim, Jacques Esterel and Louis Feraud all showed knee-high leg coverings Monday.

Heim's were in ocelot, zebra and other furs or fake furs, and flat heeled. He showed them with mid-calf narrow tweed skirts topped with waist-length loose jackets. His full-skirted and belted tweed coats with fur-trimmed hoods were accompanied by ankle-high bootlets in matching tweeds.

Feraud's eye-opener was a red and blue tweed coat with a collar and half-lining of fuzzy Mongolian goat fur dyed red. The mannequin wore shiny red knee-high boots.

Visitor Returns To Smith River

Hornbrook — Mrs. Mayme Graser, Smith River, Calif., spent last week here with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. George Michels. When she returned home, her grandson, Jodee Miller, accompanied her.

Larry Michels, who had spent three weeks in O'Brien, Ore., with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. George Michels Sr., returned last week with an uncle and cousin from O'Brien, and the left for Sacramento on a prospecting trip.

Visitors at the Michels home over the week-end were Mr. and Mrs. Walter Holdridge, Altadena, Calif., who brought Miss Melody Michels with them to visit her father for several weeks before going to O'Brien to spend part of her vacation with her grandparents. Other week-end guests were Mrs. Grace Ward and her granddaughter and three great granddaughters from Orland, Calif.

Paris—Skirts are dropped below the knee for Jacques Heim's fall and winter collection which went on display in Paris Monday. This afternoon suit in brown velvet with brief bolero is completed with a bonnet and knee-high boots in baby ocelot. (UPI)

Book Fair Underway

Ashland — Good books at small prices — that's the promise of the Tudor guild book fair, now under way at the Stump Art gallery on the Ashland Plaza.

The Book fair offers its patrons a wide selection of used books for a fraction of original cost. As one of the principal projects supporting the Tudor guild scholarship fund, the fair's operation will coincide with the playing season of the Oregon Shakespearean festival.

Now in its fourth season, the fair will be open from noon until 5 p.m., Monday through Saturday. On Friday, book purchases may be made until 8 p.m., in conjunction with the Tudor guild's weekly "Punch & Players" reception.

Mrs. Edward Fitzpatrick and Mrs. William Purdy, co-chairman of the event, noted that an excellent assortment of books is now available, but book donations will be accepted continuously throughout the season to keep up with the constant demand. Anyone wishing to donate books need only call either Mrs. Fitzpatrick at 482-2103 or Mrs. Purdy at 482-4507, in Ashland, and arrangements will be made to pick up the books.

Lodges to Hold Session Thursday

Table Rock encampment of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows and the auxiliary will meet Thursday, July 25, at 8 p.m. in the Medford IOOF hall. Visiting patriarchs and matriarchs are invited to attend.

At meetings of the two groups last Thursday, Mr. and Mrs. John Hart reported on a session of the Grand Encampment of Nevada which they attended. Mr. Hart is a past grand chief patriarch of the Nevada encampment, and Mrs. Hart is a past grand chief matriarch of the Nevada auxiliary.

Calendar

Wednesday: 10 a.m.—Jackson County Home Extension Advisory committee, workshop for unit officers at Jackson County Extension building.

11 a.m.—Security Benefit club, Pythian bldg.

Prospect Group To Aid Visit Of Bloodmobile

Prospect — Coming projects were planned at the last meeting of Prospect Lions auxiliary, held at Becky's cafe in Union Creek.

The group will take charge of the Lions booth for the annual Prospect Hillbilly jamboree in August. The women are also sponsoring a visit of the Red Cross bloodmobile August 5. Working that day will be Mrs. William Butler, Mrs. David Grunfield, Mrs. George Hubbard, Mrs. Lowell Ash and other women of the community.

All residents of the community are urged by the Lions and auxiliary to donate blood during the visit of the bloodmobile.

Library Display To Be Chosen

Lyle Harrell, formerly of Los Angeles and now of Jacksonville, will select paintings for display at a meeting of Southern Oregon Society of Artists Wednesday, July 24, at 7:30 p.m. in Girls Community club.

The paintings will be displayed at the Public Library of Medford and Jackson County.

Mr. Harrell now has a studio in Jacksonville where he gives lessons in art. At present he has a one-man exhibit at Frames, Etc., in Ashland.

All those interested in art are welcome to attend the meetings.

Beverly LeBeck, cellist from Portland, will be a member of the orchestra playing for the Peter Britt Gardens Music and Arts festival to be held in Jacksonville in August. Miss LeBeck, who studied with the noted Piatigorsky and has toured Europe, Scandinavia and Mexico as a concert cellist, has been designated a faculty member for the festival and will be available for lessons.

Society to Meet At Messal Home

A meeting of the Rogue Valley Orchid society is planned for Friday, July 26, at 7:30 p.m., at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Messal, 1462 Orchard Home drive, Medford.

All those interested in growing orchids are invited to attend. Further information about the meeting may be obtained by calling the Messals, 773-1482.

Coffee Cooler

For the homemaker tied to her home, here's a coffee cooler to make that coffee break an energy break. Good for callers, too. Beat chocolate or coffee ice cream into strong ice-cold coffee. Drink up!

Plan Picnic

Mistletoe camp, Royal Neighbors of America, plans a picnic Sunday, July 28, at 1 p.m. in TouVelle park. Members may invite friends, and those attending are to take a complete picnic lunch.

This is one way to hear your party.

This is better.

If your telephoning has to compete with such gifted noise-makers as these, you're overdue for one of life's little luxuries: privacy. With a handy bedroom phone, you save time and effort, both when you take a call or have one to make. (And how nice it is to say to guests: "Use our bedroom extension.") For all its daytime convenience and nighttime protection, the cost is surprisingly low. Order yours today from your telephone business office. Just ask for Beverly, the Extension Girl.
