

Smoke Bomb, Fire Hoses Used To Break Up Demonstration

Banners Taken From Negroes by White Teen-Agers

By United Press International
Police fired a smoke bomb and firemen sprayed high-pressure water hoses Tuesday to break up crowds of Negroes and whites during a racial demonstration at Somerville, Tenn.

Authorities took action after a group of white teen-agers blocked the path of Negro "freedom marchers," grabbed some of the Negroes' banners and threw them in a garbage can.

The smoke bomb exploded about 10 feet from the crowds which dispersed before the powerful hoses could drench them.

It was the third day of demonstrations for the west Tennessee city, located in rolling cotton country about 40 miles northwest of Memphis.

At Baton Rouge, La., six policemen scuffled with about 50 Negroes who forced their way into a public swimming pool and a police captain received minor injuries. Five Negroes were arrested.

New York police arrested 139 men, women and children during anti-discrimination demonstrations at two construction sites Tuesday. Negro leader Martin Luther King Jr. promised increased integration pressure in the nation's largest city.

A desegregation agreement supervised by Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy was signed by white and Negro leaders from Cambridge, Md., Tuesday to climax 19 months of racial strife in the Chesapeake Bay fishing community. Kennedy invited

A "summit" meeting of top Negro leaders from throughout the nation urged President Kennedy Tuesday to meet with them during a march to Washington on Aug. 28 in support of civil rights legislation.

In Charleston, S.C., around 60 businessmen accepted a six-point program for downtown desegregation Tuesday. Negro leaders indicated they would decide at a meeting tonight whether to continue racial demonstrations.

The Army said at Oxford, Miss., Tuesday that the last of around 30,000 troops sent here last fall to force the admission of Negro student James H. Meredith into the University of Mississippi would be removed by Thursday. The Army said the move was warranted by "present conditions" at the university.

TRAIN WRECKED - Policemen look over the wrecked interior of a passenger car following a train collision at Harrison, N.J., today. Two persons were killed and 31 others were injured when a four-car commuter train rammed a switch engine at a track crossing. (UPI)

Two Killed as Passenger Train Hits Engine at Track Crossing

Harrison, N.J.—UPI—Two passengers were killed and at least 31 others were injured early today when their commuter train smashed into a diesel switch engine at a track crossing near here.

The first car of the four-unit electric train, operated by the Port of New York Authority, was derailed in the crash. Side panels on that car and the next two were ripped off as the train ground past the locomotive.

The Port Authority train, eastbound from New York City to Newark with 38 passengers and a crew of four, hit the Pennsylvania switch engine at 1:10 a.m.

Police said when they arrived some of the passengers were trapped inside the battered cars and screaming while others were standing around the wreckage in apparent shock. "Everyone seemed to have bashed in heads," a policeman said.

All the 36 surviving passengers, as well as one of the crewmen aboard the train, claimed injuries, a railroad spokesman said. However, some of them chose not to go to hospitals in the area for treatment.

Police said 18 of those hurt were taken to Newark in a Pennsylvania passenger train which was flagged down at the scene about a mile and a half east of Harrison. They were met at the Newark Station by city ambulances, which took them to hospitals.

Taxicabs were summoned by authorities to transport other persons injured. The cabs had to make their way to and from the crash along a narrow, one-lane dirt road. The dead were identified as Quinton Villanueva, 63, Irvington, N.J., and Mary Mi-slak, in her 30's, Jersey City. They died at two Newark hospitals, St. Michael's and Beth Israel, respectively.

The spokesman for the Pennsylvania said the train was going about 30 miles an hour when it struck the switch engine, which was not moving.

Engine Stops Momentarily
The engine had stopped momentarily after pushing seven passenger cars part way onto a siding where a train was being made up.

Police said the locomotive, as well as one of the passenger cars and a portion of a second one, were extended past a clearance marker onto the track on which the commuter train was traveling.

Service on both the east-bound and westbound tracks was delayed for hours while the wreckage was being cleared away. Full service on both tracks was restored at 5:48 a.m.

African Delegates Prepare Moderate Resolution on Portugal Colonization

United Nations, N.Y.—UPI—African delegations today were preparing a resolution on Portuguese colonialism more moderate than Tuesday's Soviet demand in the Security Council that Portugal get out of Africa this year.

The council, in the third day of debate on Portugal's African colonies, awaited the reply of Portuguese Foreign Minister Alberto Franco Nogueira to charges of misrule raised by the 32 African nations and the Soviet Union.

But the African resolution, expected to be presented to the council today or Thursday, was much less drastic than the Soviet demand voiced Tuesday by Ambassador Nikolai T. Fedorenko.

He told the council that Portugal's "colonial regime should be liquidated before the end of this year" and that economic and diplomatic sanctions should be voted "unequivocally" against Portugal. The four African diplomats who presented the case against Portugal on instructions of the recent African summit conference in Addis Ababa went no further than asking the council to set a time limit—date unspecified—for Portugal to free its colonies or face sanctions.

Portuguese sources said Nogueira was preparing a long rebuttal to the African indictment and planned to speak for an hour or more.

Fedorenko went almost that long Tuesday in a sweeping indictment of NATO assistance to Portugal in repression of natives in Angola, Mozambique and Portuguese Guinea.

Except for charging that the United States supplied military aid to Portugal—to the extent of $268 million dollars—Fedorenko, perhaps reflecting the Moscow mood of the nuclear test ban negotiations, was mild in his remarks about Washington.

MEMO TO ADVERTISERS

Meet Mr. A. B. C. — He Works for our Advertisers

He is one of the experienced circulation auditors on the staff of the Audit Bureau of Circulations. Just as a bank examiner makes a periodic check of the records of your bank—so does Mr. A. B. C. visit our office at regular intervals to make an exacting inspection and audit of our circulation records. The circulation facts thus obtained are condensed in easy-to-read audit reports which tell our advertisers: How much circulation we have; where it goes; how it was obtained; and many other FACTS that tell advertisers what they get for their money when they advertise in this newspaper.

Advertisers are invited to ask for a copy of our latest A.B.C. report.

The Audit Bureau of Circulations, of which this newspaper is a member, is a cooperative, nonprofit association of nearly 4,000 advertisers, advertising agencies and publishers. Organized in 1914, A.B.C. brought order out of advertising chaos by establishing a definition for paid circulation; rules and standards for auditing and reporting the circulations of newspapers and periodicals.
