

Thornton Opinion Said Not Sought On Musa Action

Salem —Att. Gen. Robert Y. Thornton said Wednesday he has not been asked to give a legal opinion on the right of acting Gov. Ben Musa to appoint a member of the State Welfare Commission.

"I have received no inquiries except from members of the fourth estate," Thornton said.

He explained he refuses to give informal off-the-cuff opinions on cases where he might be asked to present a formal opinion.

Only state officials can request a formal opinion from the attorney general.

Meanwhile, the new Musa appointee, Ralph W. Perry Sr., Hood River, is expected to attend his first Welfare Commission meeting here Friday.

Warne Nunn, administrative assistant to Gov. Mark Hatfield, said the oath of office for the position has been mailed to Hood River for Perry to sign.

Musa made the appointment Tuesday, while Hatfield was attending the National Governors' convention in Miami. The governor expressed annoyance and accused Musa of violating a gentleman's agreement not to make any major decisions while he was out of the state.

Hatfield is scheduled to arrive back in Oregon tonight.

It connects the Dead Indian and Klamath Falls highways. The group also will visit the just completed Surveyor and Topsy recreation sites and will see brush eradication and tree planting projects today, returning to Medford tonight.

Friday the group will travel westward to the Galice rd., which was the first one constructed in the Medford district with appropriated funds. Other points of interest will include recreation sites developed by the Bureau of Land Management and Josephine county, and the recently completed Alameda bridge across the Rogue river at Grave creek.

SPECIAL GUESTS—Mrs. Robert Pina, San Antonio, Texas, who was selected Queen for a Day by the radio program and her husband were among the 1,400 persons who attended the Feast of the Tribe of Will and the play "The Merry Wives of Windsor" last evening at the Oregon Shakespearean Festival in Ashland. As part of her prizes Mrs. Pina and her husband will attend all four plays and do sight seeing in the area. (Dwaine Smith photo)

BLM Tour Starts For Western Oregon Group

The Bureau of Land Management's Keno and Galice rds. are principal points of interest in a tour of the Medford district, being taken this week by representatives of 13 western Oregon counties, according to District Manager Donald J. Schofield. The tour is today and Friday.

A similar tour is arranged annually for the five-member road committee of the Association of O and C counties. The committee has functioned
