

Ministers Jailed With Rights Demonstrators in New York

Timber Operators Talk With Unions As Pickets Close Hines Operations

By United Press International
The 200-member Timber Operators Council resumed bargaining sessions with lumber unions today in Portland even as picket lines were thrown up around the operations of one of its members, the Edward Hines Lumber Co.

Pickets from the Lumber and Sawmill Workers Union and the International Woodworkers of America appeared at Hines operations at Westfir and Dee, near Hood River, at 6 a.m. The company's big operation at the town of Hines, near Burns, remained open.

The company said 420 employees in a plywood plant, a sawmill and woods crew were jailed at Westfir. The IWA represents the logging crews and the LSW represents the plywood workers.

In addition, a spokesman said pickets across logging roads kept a number of logging contractors and "gyppo" haulers from working.

The sawmill, woods operations and hardboard plant at Dee halted work when pickets from the IWA appeared. About 60 gyppo loggers and 193 regular employees were affected. Supervisory personnel were preparing to make some shipments.

Both shutdowns were orderly. Herman Gerhardt, general manager of the mill and lumber products factory at Hines, said those plants expected to remain in operation until at least this week end. The company employs 850 to 900 men at Hines and at a subsidiary operation at Bates.

Gerhardt said the presidents of the LSW local in those areas were in Portland today for a meeting with other union officials, and another meeting was scheduled at Burns Saturday.

The Northwest lumber strike will spread to Pope and Talbot Inc., plants at Westfir, Tacoma and Kalama, Wash., according to IWA regional president Harvey Nelson.

Strikes against those two firms would idle about 2,000 men, bringing the number out of work in the Northwest lumber contract dispute to more than 27,000.

Meanwhile, union negotiators met in Portland with officials of the Timber Operators Council of which both Hines and Pope and Talbot are members. Federal mediators LeRoy Smith and George Walker were scheduled to take part.

Another meeting, this one between the IWA and Scott Paper company Wednesday was recessed until Monday in Portland. Nelson reported some progress but would not go into details. The IWA represents about 400 loggers and boom men who supply logs to Scott plants at Everett and Anacortes, Wash.

Group Charges Discrimination By Contractors

By United Press International
Dozens of civil rights demonstrators, including 24 ministers singing "We Shall Not Be Moved," were arrested today in New York City in a new attempt to force building contractors to hire more Negroes.

"We anticipate lots of arrests today," said one of the demonstrators at the scene of the demonstration, a medical center construction project in Brooklyn.

By 11:30 a.m. (edt) 58 persons - 39 men and 19 women - had been arrested and hauled away to station houses where they were charged with disorderly conduct and resisting arrest.

The ministers stood shoulder to shoulder and sang the integration hymn, "We Shall Not Be Moved." They were still singing as they entered a paddy wagon.

The demonstrators had tried to halt concrete mixers entering the Brooklyn construction site. Similar attempts earlier this week led to mass arrests.

In Washington, Atty. Gen. Robert Kennedy said there was no evidence that any top leaders of the major civil rights movement are Communist or Communist-dominated. Kennedy said Communists efforts to infiltrate the civil rights groups had "been remarkably unsuccessful."

Negro leader Martin Luther King Jr. on Wednesday called for the creation of a special federal police force to protect integrationists.

White People Organize
In Columbus, Ohio, the National Association for the Advancement of White People filed articles of incorporation with the Ohio secretary of state. Papers said the group was dedicated to "the cause of developing and preserving a law-abiding society."

Headquarters will be in Cincinnati.

King said after a "summit meeting" of Negro leaders in New York Wednesday that he would propose such a force to President Kennedy next month during a planned civil rights march in Washington.

King said a federal civil rights force is "seriously needed" to investigate complaints of local police brutality against integrationists. Such complaints currently are not acted upon, he said, because the government claims it lacks jurisdiction.

Around 265 persons, including a dozen whites, marched in front of the York, Pa., city hall Wednesday in a protest against segregation. There were no incidents during the two-hour demonstration.

The Congress of Racial Equality CORE said at New Orleans it would launch an intensive voter registration drive today in eight Louisiana parishes. At Baton Rouge, La., where Negroes and police scuffled at a swimming pool Tuesday, authorities warned Wednesday they would move quickly to block any further rowdy desegregation demonstrations.

Two Issues in California Legislature

Sacramento - (UPI) - The legislature narrowed its three-week old special session down to two issues today: the budget and aid-to-education.

Both problems could be solved by Friday, or they could go into next week.

The situation in a nutshell was this:

Budget - Before the assembly were two versions of the administration's budget augmentation bill. They varied by about $10 million but neither was actually acceptable to the lower chamber.

Aid-to-Education - A bill boosting state aid to local school districts by $100 million during the next two years was on the assembly floor. It included a controversial feature to take money from rich districts and give it to the poor districts in the same county. This appeared to be unacceptable to the senate.

A sometimes bitter inter-house battle was raging over the budget and even the personal intervention of Gov. Edmund G. Brown apparently could not solve it.

The governor met Wednesday afternoon with Speaker Jesse M. Unruh (D-Inglewood) and Sen. Stephen P. Teale (D-Westpoint) in an effort to gain a compromise between the two houses.

Immediately after the session, Unruh returned to the assembly floor and called the ways and means committee into session to pass a budget bill identical to the spending program asked by Brown when the special session opened. It totals $114 million.

Later in the evening, the senate met to approve 28-6 a trimmed-down version totaling $105 million and send it to the lower chamber, where Unruh said it would not be approved.

Boy Sleeps on Bench After Losing Dollar
Medford city police officers discovered a 14-year-old boy about 1:15 o'clock this morning, curled up and sound asleep on a concrete bench on Fifth st.

Roused by the officers, the youngster said he couldn't go home until he got a dollar.

He explained that around noon Wednesday his mother had given him $1 and told him to go buy five loaves of bread.

But on the way to the store, somehow, he lost the money. When he went back home, his mother told him to go out and find the dollar and not to come back until he had.

The shivering youngster took her at her word, and when he couldn't find the money, he decided to make the cold bench his bed for the night.

The officers took him home - dollar or no dollar.
